Russians Told To Copy From Capitalism

Khrush Delivers Lengthy Speech On Production

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev directed a vast new party and industrial reorganization in the Soviet Union, and told party leaders Monday to copy from capitalism, if they must, to increase farm and factory production.

The premier outlined his plan to the Communist party Central Committee. The 30,000 - word speech began at 10 a.m. and ended at 5:25 p.m. with a short break for lunch.

Khrushchev outlined a country-wide industrial and party reorganization reaching down to the ranks of the 10 million Communists he said are the "ruling party" in the Soviet Union.

He said the Soviet Union had achieved great successes both on the domestic and international scenes. If he said any more on international affairs it was not reported by Tass, the official Soviet news agency. Foreign correspondents did not hear the speech.

Help For Farmers

To the ailing farming industry, Khrushchev promised some much needed tractors and fertilizer, but not necessarily in the immediate future.

The main supply of government money, he said, will continue to go to heavy industry, which supplies military hardware, and a little more, but not much, to the long-starved consumer goods industry.

Near the end of his speech, Khrushchev gave a mild but somewhat backhanded blessing to certain Soviet economists and factory managers who for months have argued for a sort of profit system in factories. The aim is to give an incentive both to the factory manager and to the workers.

Makes Concessions

Many present plans, he conceded, do not insure the interest of the enterprises "in the more efficient utilization of capital investments and production facilities, in producing the required range of goods, reducing their production costs, raising labor productivity and improving the quality of output."

"Under the Socialist system of economy," he cautioned, "profit as an economic category does not have the social meaning which characterizes it in the capitalistic society. Our industry manufactures goods not to obtain a profit, but because they are needed by the entire society."

Instead of condemning the idea, he said, in effect, try something along that line in certain areas.

But he added that Soviet industry should also adopt features of the capitalist system where research and designing are made a part of every industry.

Blames Stalin

Under Stalin, he said, foreign ideas were automatically bad, but the days of Stalin are over.

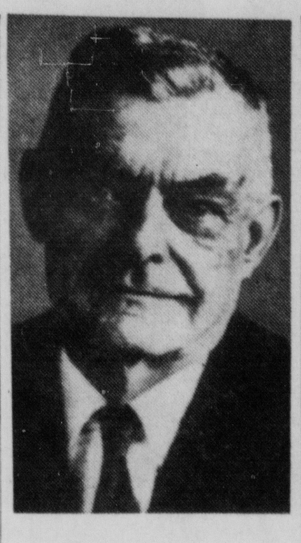

To block what he described as an excessive labor turnover in some areas, he recommended legislation to determine where a worker's personal interest conflicted with the state interest. This sounded like some stern labor control measures ahead.

His comment followed reports from some areas that thousands of workers had quit their jobs because of low pay and unsatisfactory working conditions.

The shakeup came in the wake of a diplomatic setback for Khrushchev in Cuba, in which he backed away from a showdown with the United States and agreed to withdraw two-score missiles from Fidel Castro's island. That event altered Moscow's power position and probably was taken into consideration in reassigning the bulk of government investment capital in heavy industry.

The party reorganization appeared the most far - reaching shakeup since that of 1957 when Khrushchev defeated the so-called "antiparty group."

The premier's directives set up two powerful party branches, one in charge of agriculture, one overseeing industrial production. The same type of reorganization will go on down through individual U.S.S.R. republics, thence to regional parties and so on, until there is a vertical "top-to-bottom" type of organization for party, industry and agriculture.

Cubans Blamed For Plight Of Big Freighter

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI)—The 155-foot Canadian freighter East Star drifted in the storm-tossed Atlantic a halpless derelict Monday after it was abandoned by the ship towing it to Bermuda.

The East Star's skipper, Capt. Edward Clark, 61, and its 12 crewmen were safe ashore after being rescued from the freighter. Clark accused Cubans of filling his vessel's fuel tanks with water.

The Norwegian freighter Mount Borga gave up towing the East Star after the tow line broke 75 miles northeast of here and mountainous seas made it impossible to re-secure it.

The 643-ton East Star had become a prey of the elements after its engines were idled nine days for lack of fuel and it had no power to navigate or use its radio.

Clark told newsmen in Hamilton he had taken on 18 tons and 88 gallons of fuel in Havana "and it was 15 tons of water." Asked if he thought the Cubans did it deliberately, he said: "Well, in my 34 years as a ship's master I've never seen anything like it."

NEWS AROUND THE WORLD THIS MORNING

By United Press International

BELGRADE — Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki began a five-day official visit with President Tito, which political observers believe might be the beginning of a full restoration of close ties between the European Communist bloc and Yugoslavia.

BONN—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer faced a crisis which could topple him after 13 years of power. All five Free Democratic Party ministers resigned from the coalition cabinet because Adenauer refused to fire Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss. Strauss is under fire for arbitrary handling of the Der Spiegel magazine case, in which the magazine's directors have been charged with treason for publishing defense information.

BERLIN—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's Berlin adviser, assured West Berliners that the United States will act as decisively as it did over Cuba if the Communists threaten Berlin.

U.S. Hopeful Bombers Will Be Removed

Kennedy To Meet Press At 6 p.m. For New Briefing

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department authorities voiced hope Monday that Soviet word of withdrawal of bombers from Cuba would arrive by the time of President Kennedy's news conference Tuesday night.

This report was given to newsmen in the wake of Sunday's afternoon-long talk in New York between U. S. negotiator John J. McCloy and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov.

Kennedy is scheduled to meet the press at 6 p. m. EST in his first news conference since the Cuban crisis erupted Oct. 22.

State Department authorities said Kuznetsov did not give McCloy a satisfactory answer Sunday to the U. S. demand for removal of Soviet jet bombers in Cuba.

Kennedy Stands Firm

This is a key point in the negotiations. Kennedy says the bombers, as well as Russian missiles already withdrawn, must be removed from Cuba under his proposed Cuban settlement arrangement with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

McCloy was said to have made plain to Kuznetsov that until the 30 or so IL28 bombers go, no progress is possible in other phases of the negotiations.

State Department authorities indicated to newsmen that McCloy had told Kuznetsov the United States hopes for a satisfactory answer from the Russians on the bomber withdrawal by Monday or Tuesday. The same authorities told newsmen later McCloy had not said this to Kuznetsov, but this was still the U. S. hope.

Russia Avoids Issue

The Russians have been avoiding the bomber issue in the increasingly critical negotiations.

U.S. officials said they have no evidence yet that the bombers are being crated up for shipment, as was done with Soviet missiles. U.S. aerial surveillance was reported still under way, despite Prime Minister Fidel Castro's threat to shoot down the picture-taking U.S. planes.

What steps the United States might take to get the bombers out has not been disclosed. Tightening of the U.S. naval blockade has been mentioned as a possibility.

Kennedy met for an hour Monday morning with the executive committee of the National Security Council.

Russia Renews Troika Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Russia renewed its campaign Monday to reorganize the United Nations on the "troika" principle as proposed by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

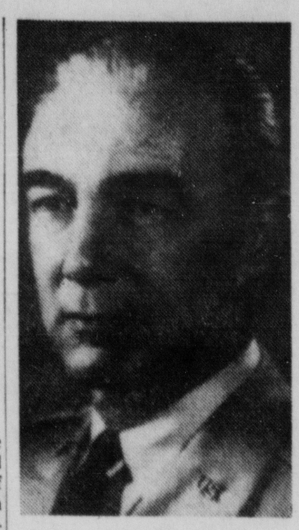

The Communists demanded one third of the jobs in the secretariat, and a three-bloc division of executive authority at the highest level of all U.N. departments. However, they skirted the question of replacing Acting Secretary General Thant with a three-man executive.

Khrushchev first made the reorganization demand in 1960. He said the world was composed of three blocs — Communist, neutralist and capitalist — and that responsibility for running the United Nations should be divided accordingly.

Supreme Court To Rule On Hot Labor Question

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decided Monday to rule on one of the hottest issues involving labor unions—the legality of the agency shop.

Under an agency shop, an employer agrees to require that all of his workers pay initiation fees and dues to a union, although they are not required to join the union.

This is in contrast to the union shop, under which all employes must become members of the union. The agency shop gives a union financial help from what unions call free riders, or nonmembers who benefit from the union's bargaining.

Two questions will be considered by the court:

1. Are agency shop agreements legal under the Taft-Hartley law? In an Indiana case appealed to the tribunal, the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of appeals said no, and declared: "If Congress intended to permit the extraction of these types of charges in lieu of union membership, as a condition of employment, it could easily have so provided in apt language."

2. If federal law does permit the agency shop, may it be barred by a state right-to-work law — which prohibits labor contracts that require union membership as a condition of employment? This issue was raised in an appeal by a union in Florida, one of 19 states that have such laws.

The Florida Supreme Court ruled that the agency shop was illegal under the state statute.

The high tribunal scheduled the Indiana and Florida cases for argument probably next spring, but allotted only two hours for arguing both cases rather than the usual four hours. And it gave the AFL-CIO permission to be heard as a friend of the court.

Cites Strong GOP Trend

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican National Chairman William E. Miller called a news conference Monday to announce that "we can honestly see" a strong pro-Republican trend in the recent congressional elections.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey promptly responded in a statement that Miller was indulging in "a harmless bit of political fantasy; its title should be 'Bill Miller in Wonderland.'"

In the Nov. 6 elections Republicans lost four senate seats, gained two House seats and wound up with 16 governorships, the same number as before. The House gain was the smallest for a party out of control of the White House in any mid-term election since 1934.

20,000 Reds Crush Indians In Mountains

Civilians Being Evacuated From Rich Plains State

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Communist Chinese forces crumbled Indian defenses in the Se Pass sector of the Himalayan front Monday and lanced to a point only 25 airline miles from the populous plains of Assam.

Red battalions, 20,000 strong, outflanked and overran defenses of the 13,756-foot pass—which Indian troops had considered impregnable — and then captured Bomdila, another mountain position 60 miles to the southeast, where the Indians had hoped to make a stand.

A single mountain ridge stood at nightfall between the invaders and Assam, a state which produces much of India's tea, rice and oil.

Near Last Stronghold

The Indians' next possible defense position—perhaps the only —is at a place called Eagle's Nest, 9,300 feet up on a road running to the Assam town of Tezpur, an Indian army headquarters.

Though Assam is 25 air miles from Bomdila, it is about 80 by road.

The gravity of the threat led the army to begin collecting wives and children of tea planters, mostly Indians and Britons, in the northern part of Assam for removal to Calcutta. The British high commission in New Delhi worked on plans to remove British subjects living in Assam, estimated to total 1,500.

Bomdila Falls

Prime Minister Nehru announced the fall of Bomdila, which a Red Chinese vanguard struck Sunday night. The Indian army had considered that a rear area and its contingents there were surprised before they had a chance to dig in effectively.

The other two main thrusts into India appeared at least temporarily stalled, although not necessarily halted.

At the eastern end of the front, near Burma, Indians were fighting on a defense line in the Luhit River Valley a dozen miles sout' of their overrun positions at Wolang.

At Chushul, in Ladakh at the northwest end of the battlefront, the Red Chinese captured an outpost guarding a vital Indian airfield and moved against Chushul itself.

Cabinet In Session

Nehru held an emergency meeting with his Cabinet to discuss the dark turn in what he called "a full-fledged war, a kind of brutal and callous war."

In an unscheduled broadcast to the nation, Nehru said the war forced on India by the Red Chinese attack is a menace to Asia and the whole world as well as to India.

Alluding to Britain's peaceful transfer of power to the Indians in 1947, he added: "This is the first war of independence for India."

Again expressing thanks for $5 million in armaments flown in by the United States and planeloads of equipment from Britain, Nehru said "we shall require more and we have asked for it."

Stahr Assumes Presidency Of Indiana Univ.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Former West Virginia University president Elvis J. Stahr Jr., took over formally as president of Indiana University Monday.

The inauguration ceremonies of academic pageantry were the first held at the University in 25 years since Dr. Herman B. Wells, whom Stahr succeeds, took over.

William Hickam, president of the Trustee Board turned over the symbols of the presidency to Stahr, who had served as secretary of the Army in President Kennedy's cabinet after leaving West Virginia University.

Army Men To Eat Thanksgiving Turkey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military cooks are preparing 112,000 turkeys to serve to U.S. fighting men around the world on Thanksgiving.

The Defense Department announced Monday that the tradition of roast turkey dinner will be observed both on Thanksgiving and on Christmas. A master menu calls for everything from a shrimp cocktail appetizer to nuts and candy.

Mikoyan May Be Ready To Leave Cuba

HAVANA (UPI)—Anastas Mikoyan, Soviet first deputy prime minister, went to the National Palace Monday for a conference with Prime Minister Fidel Castro, amid reports he planned to leave Cuba soon.

Cuba, President Osvaldo Dorticos and agrarian reform chief Carlos Rafael Rodriguez were in the palace when Mikoyan arrived at 3:30 p.m. EST for the conference.

He has not formally consulted with Cuban officials since Nov. 6, although he has seen Castro virtually every day since arriving here Nov. 3 to "settle differences" between the Havana and Mocow governments over the Soviet decision to remove its rockets.

Mikoyan remained in the palace for two hours for conference with Castro and his top aides. It was his fifth formal consultation with the Cubans. He was accompanied by Soviet Ambassador Alexander Alexiev.

Gun Battle Ends Holdup

TORONTO (UPI) — Three bank robbers tied up and gagged 36 bank employes and two policemen Monday but then fled empty handed when a gunbattle erupted between another employe who barricaded himself in the vault and police who thought they had the bandits trapped.

The only person seized by police was Robert Jemerox, 23, the Bank of Montreal branch employe who police thought was a bandit and who in turn thought police were bandits.

Police lobbed teargas into the vault. Several shots were fired. All of them missed.

During the confusion, the three bandits, two of them dressed as bank messengers, walked away. Spectators on the street were so busy watching the excitement inside the bank, the bandits got away unnoticed.

Personal Income Hits All-Time High

Unemployment Declines As Business Shows Steady Advance Over Year Ago

WASHINGTON (AP)—Personal income climbed $2.1 billion last month to a record annual rate of $445.6 billion, the Commerce Department announced Monday.

The gain was the largest since April, bringing the total income of individuals to a rate 5 per cent above that of a year ago.

The report gave reassurance to officials who had feared that the late summer business lull might foreshadow a leveling off.

Other major indicators in October have shown a stronger tone despite the Cuban crisis in the last 10 days of the month—retail sales rose, unemployment declined, and industrial output was virtually unchanged.

Further, the report showed that personal income rose in September as well as in October. The preliminary estimate of a month ago showed a fractional decline in September, but the new and final figures indicate a rise of $500 million in annual rate. This was all in dividend payments; workers' income slipped slightly.

In October, however, about one-third of the total increase, or $700 million, was in workers' income—wages, salaries and fringe benefits.

The increase was split equally between workers in private industry and employes in state, local and federal governments. Wages and salaries in the goods-producing industries did not increase, but there were gains in retail and wholesale trade, transportation, and the service industries.

Dividends and interest accounted for $500 million of the total increase. Investors and savers got $300 million more in dividend payments and $200 million more in interest than in September, in terms of annual income.

Social insurance benefits, pensions and other types of "transfer payments" contributed another $750 million share of the October income gain.

About half the increase resulted from increased veterans' payments for service-connected disabilities, as provided by the last session of Congress. Some of this has only a temporary effect on the income statistics; the law provided a retroactive lump sum payment to veterans, as well as an increase in their monthly benefit payments.

In manufacturing industries employment was stable and small gains in hourly earnings were offset by some decline in the length of the work week. Payrolls held steady at an annual rate of $94 billion, the same as in the two previous months.

Pub Inaugurates Baby Sitting Plan On Premises

SHREWSBURY, England (AP) —A local saloon is setting up a baby-sitting service on its premises for parents who otherwise would be unable to go out together for a nip now and then.

Officials who gave the pub permission to operate a children's room near the bar warned that it must be supervised at all times.

The owners promised to install a supervisor who they said would serve the youngsters ice cream and soft drinks.

The playroom will be stocked with toys.

John Bowlder, who opposed the pub's application, said, "One may wonder, perhaps, if it's a good thing for children of tender years to be on licensed premises."

The pub's owner, a brewery, maintained that "Married couples with young children can rarely go out together for a drink and this will enable them to do so."

Nehru Appeals To JFK For More Military Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—India appealed to President Kennedy Monday for more U.S. military aid in the face of what was described as a very bad military situation.

Ambassador B.K. Nehru visited the White House to give Kennedy a letter from Prime Minister Nehru urging quick action.

After talking with Kennedy, the ambassador told newsmen he had told the President of the latest military situation in India's resistance to invasion by Communist China.

"As you can see in the newspapers, it's bad, very bad," the ambassador said.

He said he told the President that the need for additional military aid is urgent.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk sat in on the Kennedy-Nehru conference.

The ambassador did not give any specifics on the prime minister's letter, other than to say it was a request for more military aid.

Nehru said he called Kennedy's attention to specific requests, but did not tell newsmen just what weapons he said were urgently needed.

Wilcoxson, Girl Friend Held On Bond Of $100,000 Each For Bank Robberies

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Bobby Randell Wilcoxson, manacled and moved under heavy guard from city to city to answer bank robbery charges, pleaded innocent Monday to two Buffalo bank holdups totaling $105,000.

His girl friend, 19-year-old Jacqueline Rose, appearing at the same time, is accused of driving the getaway car in one of the robberies.

It was their first appearance together since their capture in Baltimore Nov. 10.

Miss Rose, looking pale and sullen, wore tan slacks and a white blouse. Wilcoxson entered the courtroom flanked by three federal marshals, who had accompanied him here from Brooklyn.

The pair didn't exchange a word in the courtroom.

Wilcoxson, his dyed, close-cropped hair looking almost green, was clad in olive-drab fatigue trousers and short-sleeved shirt. His ankles were cuffed with leg irons.

They stood side-by-side before federal Judge John O. Henderson for more than five minutes while the indictment was read. Bail was set at $100,000 each.

Wilcoxson, 33, was arraigned last week in a Brooklyn bank holdup in which a guard was killed by machine-gun fire.

He also faces charges stemming from bank holdups in Rochester, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Washington, D. C.

Miss Rose was brought here from Baltimore after an overnight stay in Rochester.

Supreme Court To Rule On Hot Labor Question

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decided Monday to rule on one of the hottest issues involving labor unions—the legality of the agency shop.

Under an agency shop, an employer agrees to require that all of his workers pay initiation fees and dues to a union, although they are not required to join the union.

This is in contrast to the union shop, under which all employes must become members of the union. The agency shop gives a union financial help from what unions call free riders, or nonmembers who benefit from the union's bargaining.

Two questions will be considered by the court:

1. Are agency shop agreements legal under the Taft-Hartley law? 2. If federal law does permit the agency shop, may it be barred by a state right-to-work law — which prohibits labor contracts that require union membership as a condition of employment? This issue was raised in an appeal by a union in Florida, one of 19 states that have such laws.

The Florida Supreme Court ruled that the agency shop was illegal under the state statute.

The high tribunal scheduled the Indiana and Florida cases for argument probably next spring, but allotted only two hours for arguing both cases rather than the usual four hours. And it gave the AFL-CIO permission to be heard as a friend of the court.

Cites Strong GOP Trend

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican National Chairman William E. Miller called a news conference Monday to announce that "we can honestly see" a strong pro-Republican trend in the recent congressional elections.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey promptly responded in a statement that Miller was indulging in "a harmless bit of political fantasy; its title should be 'Bill Miller in Wonderland.'"

In the Nov. 6 elections Republicans lost four senate seats, gained two House seats and wound up with 16 governorships, the same number as before. The House gain was the smallest for a party out of control of the White House in any mid-term election since 1934.

20,000 Reds Crush Indians In Mountains

Civilians Being Evacuated From Rich Plains State

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Communist Chinese forces crumbled Indian defenses in the Se Pass sector of the Himalayan front Monday and lanced to a point only 25 airline miles from the populous plains of Assam.

Red battalions, 20,000 strong, outflanked and overran defenses of the 13,756-foot pass—which Indian troops had considered impregnable — and then captured Bomdila, another mountain position 60 miles to the southeast, where the Indians had hoped to make a stand.

A single mountain ridge stood at nightfall between the invaders and Assam, a state which produces much of India's tea, rice and oil.

Near Last Stronghold

The Indians' next possible defense position—perhaps the only —is at a place called Eagle's Nest, 9,300 feet up on a road running to the Assam town of Tezpur, an Indian army headquarters.

Though Assam is 25 air miles from Bomdila, it is about 80 by road.

The gravity of the threat led the army to begin collecting wives and children of tea planters, mostly Indians and Britons, in the northern part of Assam for removal to Calcutta. The British high commission in New Delhi worked on plans to remove British subjects living in Assam, estimated to total 1,500.

Bomdila Falls

Prime Minister Nehru announced the fall of Bomdila, which a Red Chinese vanguard struck Sunday night. The Indian army had considered that a rear area and its contingents there were surprised before they had a chance to dig in effectively.

The other two main thrusts into India appeared at least temporarily stalled, although not necessarily halted.

At the eastern end of the front, near Burma, Indians were fighting on a defense line in the Lubit River Valley a dozen miles sout' of their overrun positions at Wolang.

Cabinet In Session

Nehru held an emergency meeting with his Cabinet to discuss the dark turn in what he called "a full-fledged war, a kind of brutal and callous war."

In an unscheduled broadcast to the nation, Nehru said the war forced on India by the Red Chinese attack is a menace to Asia and the whole world as well as to India.

Alluding to Britain's peaceful transfer of power to the Indians in 1947, he added: "This is the first war of independence for India."

Again expressing thanks for $5 million in armaments flown in by the United States and planeloads of equipment from Britain, Nehru said "we shall require more and we have asked for it."

Stahr Assumes Presidency Of Indiana Univ.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Former West Virginia University president Elvis J. Stahr Jr., took over formally as president of Indiana University Monday.

The inauguration ceremonies of academic pageantry were the first held at the University in 25 years since Dr. Herman B. Wells, whom Stahr succeeds, took over.

William Hickam, president of the Trustee Board turned over the symbols of the presidency to Stahr, who had served as secretary of the Army in President Kennedy's cabinet after leaving West Virginia University.

Army Men To Eat Thanksgiving Turkey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military cooks are preparing 112,000 turkeys to serve to U.S. fighting men around the world on Thanksgiving.

The Defense Department announced Monday that the tradition of roast turkey dinner will be observed both on Thanksgiving and on Christmas. A master menu calls for everything from a shrimp cocktail appetizer to nuts and candy.

Mikoyan May Be Ready To Leave Cuba

HAVANA (UPI)—Anastas Mikoyan, Soviet first deputy prime minister, went to the National Palace Monday for a conference with Prime Minister Fidel Castro, amid reports he planned to leave Cuba soon.

Cuba, President Osvaldo Dorticos and agrarian reform chief Carlos Rafael Rodriguez were in the palace when Mikoyan arrived at 3:30 p.m. EST for the conference.

He has not formally consulted with Cuban officials since Nov. 6, although he has seen Castro virtually every day since arriving here Nov. 3 to "settle differences" between the Havana and Mocow governments over the Soviet decision to remove its rockets.

Mikoyan remained in the palace for two hours for conference with Castro and his top aides. It was his fifth formal consultation with the Cubans. He was accompanied by Soviet Ambassador Alexander Alexiev.

Gun Battle Ends Holdup

TORONTO (UPI) — Three bank robbers tied up and gagged 36 bank employes and two policemen Monday but then fled empty handed when a gunbattle erupted between another employe who barricaded himself in the vault and police who thought they had the bandits trapped.

The only person seized by police was Robert Jemerox, 23, the Bank of Montreal branch employe who police thought was a bandit and who in turn thought police were bandits.

Police lobbed teargas into the vault. Several shots were fired. All of them missed.

During the confusion, the three bandits, two of them dressed as bank messengers, walked away. Spectators on the street were so busy watching the excitement inside the bank, the bandits got away unnoticed.

Personal Income Hits All-Time High

Unemployment Declines As Business Shows Steady Advance Over Year Ago

WASHINGTON (AP)—Personal income climbed $2.1 billion last month to a record annual rate of $445.6 billion, the Commerce Department announced Monday.

The gain was the largest since April, bringing the total income of individuals to a rate 5 per cent above that of a year ago.

The report gave reassurance to officials who had feared that the late summer business lull might foreshadow a leveling off.

Other major indicators in October have shown a stronger tone despite the Cuban crisis in the last 10 days of the month—retail sales rose, unemployment declined, and industrial output was virtually unchanged.

Further, the report showed that personal income rose in September as well as in October. The preliminary estimate of a month ago showed a fractional decline in September, but the new and final figures indicate a rise of $500 million in annual rate. This was all in dividend payments; workers' income slipped slightly.

In October, however, about one-third of the total increase, or $700 million, was in workers' income—wages, salaries and fringe benefits.

The increase was split equally between workers in private industry and employes in state, local and federal governments. Wages and salaries in the goods-producing industries did not increase, but there were gains in retail and wholesale trade, transportation, and the service industries.

Dividends and interest accounted for $500 million of the total increase. Investors and savers got $300 million more in dividend payments and $200 million more in interest than in September, in terms of annual income.

Social insurance benefits, pensions and other types of "transfer payments" contributed another $750 million share of the October income gain.

About half the increase resulted from increased veterans' payments for service-connected disabilities, as provided by the last session of Congress. Some of this has only a temporary effect on the income statistics; the law provided a retroactive lump sum payment to veterans, as well as an increase in their monthly benefit payments.

In manufacturing industries employment was stable and small gains in hourly earnings were offset by some decline in the length of the work week. Payrolls held steady at an annual rate of $94 billion, the same as in the two previous months.

Pub Inaugurates Baby Sitting Plan On Premises

SHREWSBURY, England (AP) —A local saloon is setting up a baby-sitting service on its premises for parents who otherwise would be unable to go out together for a nip now and then.

Officials who gave the pub permission to operate a children's room near the bar warned that it must be supervised at all times.

The owners promised to install a supervisor who they said would serve the youngsters ice cream and soft drinks.

The playroom will be stocked with toys.

John Bowlder, who opposed the pub's application, said, "One may wonder, perhaps, if it's a good thing for children of tender years to be on licensed premises."

The pub's owner, a brewery, maintained that "Married couples with young children can rarely go out together for a drink and this will enable them to do so."

Nehru Appeals To JFK For More Military Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—India appealed to President Kennedy Monday for more U.S. military aid in the face of what was described as a very bad military situation.

Ambassador B.K. Nehru visited the White House to give Kennedy a letter from Prime Minister Nehru urging quick action.

After talking with Kennedy, the ambassador told newsmen he had told the President of the latest military situation in India's resistance to invasion by Communist China.

"As you can see in the newspapers, it's bad, very bad," the ambassador said.

He said he told the President that the need for additional military aid is urgent.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk sat in on the Kennedy-Nehru conference.

The ambassador did not give any specifics on the prime minister's letter, other than to say it was a request for more military aid.

Nehru said he called Kennedy's attention to specific requests, but did not tell newsmen just what weapons he said were urgently needed.

Wilcoxson, Girl Friend Held On Bond Of $100,000 Each For Bank Robberies

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Bobby Randell Wilcoxson, manacled and moved under heavy guard from city to city to answer bank robbery charges, pleaded innocent Monday to two Buffalo bank holdups totaling $105,000.

His girl friend, 19-year-old Jacqueline Rose, appearing at the same time, is accused of driving the getaway car in one of the robberies.

It was their first appearance together since their capture in Baltimore Nov. 10.

Miss Rose, looking pale and sullen, wore tan slacks and a white blouse. Wilcoxson entered the courtroom flanked by three federal marshals, who had accompanied him here from Brooklyn.

The pair didn't exchange a word in the courtroom.

Wilcoxson, his dyed, close-cropped hair looking almost green, was clad in olive-drab fatigue trousers and short-sleeved shirt. His ankles were cuffed with leg irons.

They stood side-by-side before federal Judge John O. Henderson for more than five minutes while the indictment was read. Bail was set at $100,000 each.

Wilcoxson, 33, was arraigned last week in a Brooklyn bank holdup in which a guard was killed by machine-gun fire.

He also faces charges stemming from bank holdups in Rochester, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Washington, D. C.

Ten Billion Dollar Tax Cut Recommended By JFK Advisory Group

Lower Taxes Seen As New Shot-In-Arm

Committee Sees Stronger Economy As End Result

WASHINGTON (AP)—A presidential advisory committee recommended Monday a $10 billion tax cut to strengthen the economy and expand production.

In a report to President Kennedy, the Advisory Committee on Labor-Management Policy said a majority of its members favored a cut of that size early next year. Some preferred spacing the reduction over two or three years. Two wanted to hold the cut to $4 or $5 billion during the next year.

"Tax rates should be reduced on both individual and corporate incomes," the committee said in the report which it released. "In dollar amount, the bulk of the tax reduction should take the form of lowering individual income tax rates. The remainder should be achieved through reducing the 'emergency' corporate tax rate of 52 per cent."

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz told newsmen the committee had not settled upon a specific corporate tax figure. The rate was boosted from 47 per cent during the Korean War.

Wants Tax Reforms

Kennedy already has advocated an across-the-board tax cut next year, but has not dealt with any particular amount. He also has proposed combining a reduction with tax reforms. Government officials concerned with taxation have discussed the possibility of going ahead with a reduction immediately and then taking up reforms.

The labor-management group put its emphasis on reduction. It said:

"Thorough review and revision of the tax system should be undertaken promptly, but this should not be permitted to postpone action on the urgently needed reduction in tax rates."

Acknowledge Effect

The committee acknowledged that an early effect of a significant tax cut would be appreciable deficits in the federal budget, but contended a decrease in rates would not mean an equivalent decline in tax collections.

"Indeed, over the longer run, it may well generate increased tax revenues," the committee said.

Wirtz and Edward Gudeman, acting secretary of commerce, delivered the report to the White House. They are non-voting members—Gudeman filling in for Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges—of the 21-man committee.

Fourteen of the members met last Friday to draw up the report after conducting a conference in Washington at which various economic experts discussed tax policy. The report was cleared with the seven absent members before it was made public.

Lengthy Report

A subcommittee on fiscal and monetary policy, headed by Ralph McGill, editor and columnist, has been at work on the subject for months. Its lengthy report has not been released.

The committee, made up of business and labor executives and public representatives, previously has handed Kennedy recommendations on such problems as automation; collective bargaining, including the government's role in emergency disputes, and export policy.

In its report on fiscal policy, the committee called for a faster rate of economic growth, with more reasonable price stability, and declared, "The United States can and must improve its recent record of economic progress."

Two Fold Objective

It set forth a two-fold objective—increasing demand for both consumption and investment, in the short run, and achieving a more rapid pace of expanding the nation's productive capacity, in the long run.

Readily available credit is necessary, the committee said. But, in view of the government's balance-of-payments problem, and the present ease of credit markets, it argued monetary policy cannot shoulder a much larger share of responsibility for stimulating economic activity in the near future.

"The main tool for promoting our economic objectives in 1963 should be a prompt and significant reduction in income tax rates," the committee said.

Federal Spending

In discussing the effects of a significant cut, the group said the built-in character of most federal spending works against either an expansion or cutback in expenditures as a matter of economic policy. Some members felt that increasing expenditures would help stimulate the economy, while others felt special efforts should be made to hold down government spending.

"Federal expenditures, at whatever aggregate levels economic policies might prescribe, should always be subject to careful scrutiny and efficient administration," the report said.

Wirtz said a distinct majority favored an early $10 billion cut. In the different approaches to reduction, he said, there was no division along labor-management lines.

Negro Appeals To U. S. Court For Enrollment In So. Carolina

ANDERSON, S.C. (UPI) — A 19-year-old Negro went to federal court Monday in an attempt to smash racial barriers in South Carolina, the only Southern state which has never yielded to the Supreme Court's school integration ruling.

Harvey Gantt, a Charleston, S.C., youth who wants to be an architect, asked Federal District Judge C. C. Wyche, to order his admission to Clemson College, a state-supported institution. Gantt was represented by five attorneys and had the full backing of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The youth left Iowa State University last weekend to come here for the hearing. He is now a sophmore at Iowa State, studying architecture. The suit was filed July 7.

Although South Carolina was one of the two defendants of the original law suit that produced the U.S. Supreme Court's 1954 ruling outlawing segregation in public schools it is the only southern state that has not enrolled a Negro in a public school.

Mississippi and Alabama have been equally defiant but a Negro, James Meredith, now is attending the University of Mississippi under guard of federal marshals. A Negro girl, Autherine Lucy, attended the University of Alabama for three days although she then was expelled for criticizing the school administration regarding student outbursts that greeted her presence on campus.

Use Of Prison Labor Opposed By Union Leader

BALTIMORE (AP)—The president of the Maryland-District of Columbia AFL-CIO criticized Monday a proposal that prison labor be used for public works in the 23 counties.

W. F. Strong, assailing the suggestion of a Legislative Council sub-committee, said "we would like to see the use of prison labor outlawed completely."

State Sen. Edward O. Weant, D-Caroll, chairman of the special sub-committee studying problems of Maryland's prison system, said last week that free prison labor was being offered to the counties. Weant said the move was made to combat the problem of idle time of prisoners.

"It might be okay to use prisoners for cleanup details inside the prison," Strong said, "but when their work goes beyond the confines of the prison it infringes on private employees and aggravates an already bad unemployment situation."

Gen. Walker Faces U.S. Court Today

Negroes Getting Bigger Share Of Federal Jobs

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negroes are getting a bigger share of federal government jobs. And most of their new jobs are the white collar kind.

The trends were shown Monday in 1961-62 figures released by the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity.

From June 1961 to June 1962, the number of jobs on the federal payroll increased by 62,633. Of these, Negroes took 10,737, or 17 per cent.

The new Negro employes had 5,500 jobs in the $4,500 to $10,000 range and 374 jobs in the $9,000 to $20,000 range.

There now are 293,353 Negroes in federal service, 13 per cent of total employment.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, chairman of the committee, called the Negro gains in white collar work "a direct result of a concentrated effort to assure that our Negro population and other minority groups are given an equal opportunity in government employment on the sole basis of merit and fitness."

Johnson said the committee had publicized federal opportunities to qualified Negroes and had reviewed the qualification of Negroes in low pay federal jobs to see if they had been overlooked.

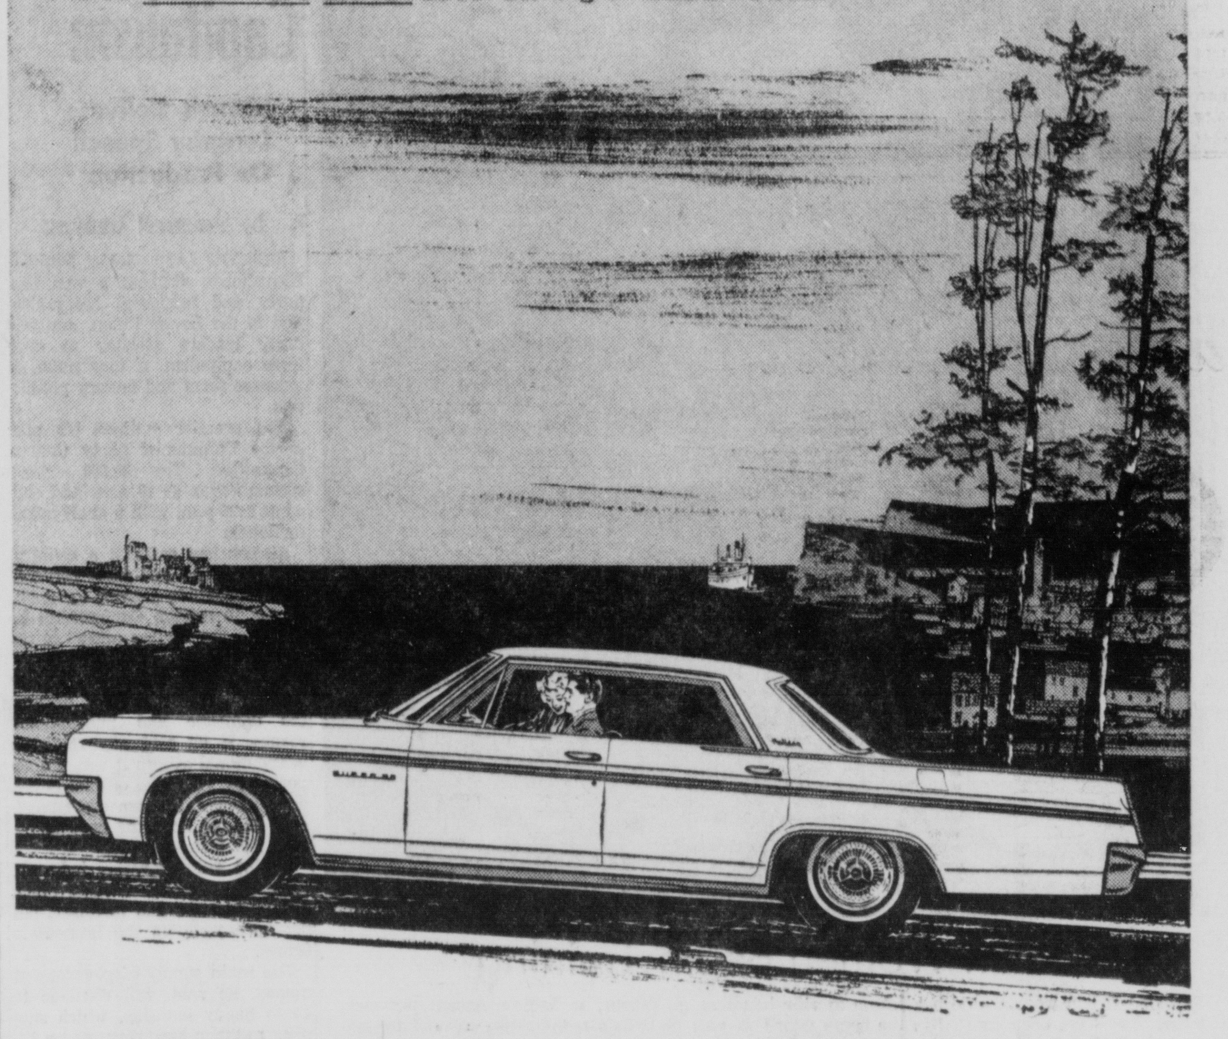

The committee released figures on its handling of complaints since April 1961. The complaints cited alleged discrimination in hiring or promotion in federal government employment or in employment by private firms under federal contract.

In the 19 months of its existence, the committee has received 1,263 complaints about contract employment and 1,726 complaints about government employment.

THE DAY THESE WIRE PLIERS CUT THROUGH ROPE

It was a quiet day in a quiet Baltimore neighborhood. Not that telephone lineman Clarence Bivens particulary noticed. He was absorbed in work, at his high perch atop a utility pole.

Suddenly Clarence heard the frightening sound of a child choking. He looked in all directions and at first saw nothing. Then, some hundred yards away, he spotted a small boy hanging by his neck, from a rope tied to a tree limb.

Hardly believing his eyes, Clarence clambered down the pole, dashed to the tree and severed the rope with his pliers.

Happily, the four-year-old boy escaped with just mild rope burns on his neck. Lineman Bivens had prevented a tragic ending to a child's game that had toyed with danger.

For five years, Clarence Bivens has been using his skill and tools to provide dependable telephone service. But his lineman's pliers never performed a more important service than on the day he cut the rope.

THE DAY THESE WIRE PLIERS CUT THROUGH ROPE

It was a quiet day in a quiet Baltimore neighborhood. Not that telephone lineman Clarence Bivens particulary noticed. He was absorbed in work, at his high perch atop a utility pole.

Suddenly Clarence heard the frightening sound of a child choking. He looked in all directions and at first saw nothing. Then, some hundred yards away, he spotted a small boy hanging by his neck, from a rope tied to a tree limb.

Hardly believing his eyes, Clarence clambered down the pole, dashed to the tree and severed the rope with his pliers.

Happily, the four-year-old boy escaped with just mild rope burns on his neck. Lineman Bivens had prevented a tragic ending to a child's game that had toyed with danger.

For five years, Clarence Bivens has been using his skill and tools to provide dependable telephone service. But his lineman's pliers never performed a more important service than on the day he cut the rope.

Lower Freight Rates Blocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission voted Monday to block a move by Eastern railroads to drop their freight rates on grain shipped eastward from Pittsburgh to the level charged for similar shipnebts from Buffalo, N. Y.

Buffalo interests had protested the plan, charging that it would place grain distributors in their area at an unfair competitive disadvantage.

The proposed new rates, scheduled to become effective Tuesday, had been listed by the Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroads.

The commission's action came on a vote to suspend the proposed rates for seven months.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Fire early Monday claimed the life of PFC. Charles Schorr Jr. 24, of Baltimore, a soldier on sick leave from Ft. Riley, Kan.

Schorr was a guest at the home of a Baltimore policeman. His body was found in the bathtub.

Patrolman Carroll Jubb said he awakened Schorr before leading his wife, daughter and a woman guest to safety but the soldier failed to get out of the house.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A preliminary check by mail indicated that more than 63,000 voters in Baltimore City are registered at the wrong address.

Thomas D'Alesandro 3d said the number of incorrect addresses represented 15 per cent of the city's 417,550 registered voters.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Rev. Philip R. Magee, 36, was named Monday as the 11th pastor of the 201-year-old First Presbyterian Church.

He will succeed the Rev. Dr. John Hamish Gardner Jr. who is retiring after 26 years as pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Magee will come to Baltimore from New York City where he has been assistant minister of the Fifth Ave. Presbyterian Church. Before going to New York he had served the First Presbyterian Church in York, Pa.

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Coast Guard is scouring the Atlantic Ocean about 300 miles northeast of Bermuda for a sailing schooner and its crew of five which includes a Baltimore County yachtsman.

The 55-foot schooner, Windfall, was last seen Thursday while racing another schooner between Mystic, Conn., and St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

The Baltimore Countian is Robert Bockius Jr., 31, of Upperco. Bockius, a lifelong sailing enthusiast, was on the championship 150-pound crew when he attended Yale University.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two counties which distributed Type II Sabin anti-polio vaccine Sunday have scheduled mop-ups within a week.

Carroll County, which gave out 9,499 doses of the oral vaccine, will distribute it again next Sunday. Howard County, which gave out 12,647 doses, will have a mop-up operation Wednesday.

In Baltimore City, the final distribution of Type II vaccine began Monday and runs through Friday except for Thursday at the city's five district health buildings.

Coin Shortage Reported In Many Cities

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States, which holds dear to its heart such price tags as $1.98, $49.95 and $2.99, is running short of change.

The shortage of coins seems to be most acute in the Northeast and Midwest, and threatens to harass merchants and customers alike during the Christmas season.

Treasury and federal reserve officials say pennies and nickels are in the shortest supply, and the possibility of a "grey market" in small change has arisen.

A retail chain store in Chicago, where the problem is worst, spent $10,000 to bring in coins from other cities and is considering offering customers scrip instead of hard currency in making change and cashing checks.

The Treasury would like to increase production at the Philadelphia and Denver mints, but it doesn't have the money. Officials hope to get quick approval from the Budget Bureau and key members of Congress to spend funds notnot specifically earmarked for production costs.

The problem is reported to arise from Congress' failure to pass a supplemental appropriation bill in its rush to adjournment last month. The bill that died contained $500,000 for the Bureau of the Mint.

Red Party Leader Wins In Bulgaria

VIENNA (UPI) — East European experts predicted Sunday the Bulgarian National Assembly will pick Communist Party leader Tudor Zhivkov to replace purged Premier Anton Yugov when it convenes in Sofia Monday.

Yugov was disgraced as a "Stalinist" at last week's party congress, while Zhivkov emerged from the session as the country's undisputed leader.

Japan's Fishermen Are Best In World

ROME (AP)—Japan's far-flung fishing fleet continued to lead the world in 1961 with a total catch of half a million tons more than in 1960, when Japan was the first nation ever to land more than six million tons of fish.

Peru also showed big increases, keeping her place as the world's No. 2 fishing nation. Communist China was third, the Soviet Union fourth and the United States fifth.

These figures were shown Sunday in the new Food and Agriculture Organization yearbook of fishery statistics for 1961. The report showed the world's total catch was 41.2 million metric tons, an increase of eight per cent over 1960.

Redistricting State Aired By Sen. Clark

BALTIMORE (AP)—The state senatora from Howard County, James Clark Jr., says it will be impossible for the Maryland Legislature to redistrict the state so that each of the eight districts will have equal representation in Congress.

The best that can be done at this time, Clark said, is to reduce the three largest districts. But getting approval of such a plan might be difficult when the legislature convenes next January, he conceded.

Clark favors combining sections of Prince Georges and Montgomery counties to form the new 8th District, and adding some of the 2nd District to a Baltimore City district.

"In this way," Clark said, "we can cut the 2nd and 5th Districts and come about as close to equal representations as is possible right now."

Maryland voters turned down in a referendum Nov. 6 a proposed district comprised of Howard and Prince Georges counties.

Clark, who was elected to the Senate Nov. 6 after serving in the Hosse of Delegates, said he believes his plan for redistricting might receive enough support for introduction of a bill in the 1963 legislature.

"But I think I'll wait and see what heppens in Annapolis, first," he said.

More Than 10 Red Submarines Detected By Navy At Blockade

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than 10 Soviet submarines have been detected and tracked by U.S. Navy ships and planes blockading Cuba, informed sources report.

About five or six came to the surface. In one instance a Soviet sub was spotted taking on fuel from a tanker.

The sources did not specify when the subs were detected, but they indicated it was in the early stages of the arms blockade which began Oct. 24.

Some officers said it was one of the biggest concentrations of Soviet submarines they could remember in any one general area.

They theorized that the Soviet undersea craft—including some of the Soviet Union's latest conventional models—were ordered to concentrate near the blockade area at that time.

Adm. George W. Anderson Jr., chief of naval operations, disclosed officially on Nov. 9 that U.S. destroyers blockading Cuba had followed Soviet subs.

"Some of those submarines they detected did—after long periods of surveillance — come to the surface," Anderson said. He did not discuss numbers of the submarines.

Judging from four pictures displaed by Anderson, some of the Soviet subs which surfaced in the Caribbean and Atlantic were among the newest type of diesel-powered underwater craft in the Soviet fleet.

Asked what is known of these submarines, the Navy said: "These are modern conventional submarines, diesel propulsion with snorkel. They apparently carry no missiles but carry torpedoes. They are of long-range variety and can refuel and replenish at sea."

Reds To Step Up Campaign For Nuclear Test Ban Agreement

MOSCOW (UPI) —The Soviet Union is expected to step up its campaign for a nuclear test ban agreement after the scheduled ending of its current testing program Tuesday.

Western experts in the Soviet capital looked to the test ban problem as the most likely spot for some kind of breakthrough on the East-West disarmament deadlock. But there also was belief that little would be accomplished until the current Cuban crisis has been settled.

The American point of view has been consistently made clear to the Russians here by U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler. This is that Cuba is currently the "number one" item on the American agenda which must be settled before real progress can be expected on other issues including Berlin and nuclear testing.

Although there has been no official announcement in the Soviet press—and in fact there may not be any—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev told diplomats and correspondents at a Nov. 7 reception on the 45th anniversary of the Russian revolution that now was a good time to conclude a nuclear testing ban.

He said the Soviet and American positions were "very close" and that the Soviet Union intended to stop testing Nov. 20.

President Kennedy announced Nov. 4 that the United States had finished its testing series in the Pacific but would continue underground tests in Nevada. The British government was expected to carry out an underground test there.

Supreme Court May Rule On Delaware's Whipping Post Law

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—The U.S. Supreme Court may be asked to rule on a growing controversy in Delaware—is the whipping post inhuman, barbaric and in contradiction to the Delaware constitution or is it a good law which deters crime.

This was indicated Saturday when attorneys for a 19-year-old sentenced to 20 lashes said they would fight the flogging all the way to the nation's highest tribunal if necessary.

James B. Messick, one of the attorneys for Franklin W. Cannon of Dover, said provisions in the Delaware code for "strokes on the bare back well laid on. . ." are in absolute contradiction to the prohibition in the Delaware state constitution against cruel punishments.

"The whole idea is barbaric and inhuman," said Messick.

But Judge Stewart Lynch of Superior Court, who reinstated the penalty of 20 lashes on Cannon last Tuesday for a parole violation, said he couldn't legally sustain the motion of Cannon's attorneys to void the sentence. And he wouldn't if he could, he added.

Lynch said he is so tied up with cases in Wilmington it probably will be mid-December before he gets back to Dover to set the date for the penalty. The flogging would be the first in 10 years.

The judge criticized what he called "bleeding hearts and nice Nellies." He said that "for some reason a lot of people want to strangle anything to do with the administration of criminal justice."

Lynch termed the whipping law, on the books for 300 years in Delaware, a good one.

Messick said a cursory search for applicable cases in Delaware law showed no court test on the whipping post.

"We're going to go with the argument that since they stopped witch-burning and water-ducking in Salem, we ought to quit flogging in Delaware," he said.

He said he is convinced the flogging will never come off.

Union Grove Club Plans Yule Party

A discussion of the Christmas party was held at the meeting of the Union Grove Homemakers Club, conducted by Mrs. Ruthella Fey Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Grant Hicks, Oldtown Road. Mrs. Maudie Hipsley and Mrs. Clyde Leasure were cohosteses. The party will be December 12 at Bedford Road fire hall, beginning at 6 p. m. Members are to bring canned goods for a needy family and jingle gifts. They also may bring guests.

The club re-elected Mrs. Steve Bowling as vice president and Mrs. Holmes Cessna, secretary. The executive committee will audit the books. It is composed of Mrs. Albert Windish, Mrs. Joseph Franklin and Mrs. Luther Brotemarkle.

A welcome was extended by Mrs. Fey, who read the thought of the month. Following the Lord's Prayer, flag salute and singing of "America," Mrs. Franklin gave a Thanksgiving reading. Mrs. William Rilling read the history of the hymn, "Let Us with a Gladsome Mind," and Mrs. Cessna read the words. Roll call was answered with suggestions for shut-ins. They included cards, fruit, candy, books and visits. Mrs. L. L. Sweitzer discussed foods for fitness and a daily guide. Mrs. Fey reported on the county achievement day and the '63 traffic safety contest. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Cessna and Mrs. Helen White. A note of thanks was read from Mrs. Harry Bosley, who has been ill. A white elephant sale was held and $10.80 realized.

Two guests, Miss Nina Seitz and Miss Pauline Hollahan, and 17 members attended.

Before painting the house, paint the top few inches of the ladder in the same color. Then when you lean the ladder against the painted siding, it won't leave marks.

Society Selects Projects

The WSCS of Central Methodist Church selected two projects and urged participation in the Thanksgiving service at the meeting in the fellowship hall. Miss Clementine Lewis presided. Mrs. David Paugh lead the devotions and program entitled The United Nations Family. She was assisted by Miss Virginia Lee Leasure, Mrs. Fred Weber, Mrs. J. T. Derryberry, Mrs. Ernest Spriggs and Miss Barbara Gill.

The society voted to keep the church kitchen stocked with essentials and to have a tea towel shower for the kitchen at the next meeting.

It was reported 17 members attended the "Quiet Day" and 15 were present at the evening program in connection with the Week of Prayer. Each group of the society is asked to form a prayer group. The Society has been participating in the study course on prayer which has been taught by Rev. Stanley G. Harrell at a series of Sunday family night services. Mrs. Paugh, secretary of Christian Social Relations, reported the Society had filled 20 sewing bags which were turned over to the Council of Churches at the annual World Community Day service. Mrs. R. J. Reuschlein, promotion secretary, stated she had received the required reports from all officers and these had been mailed on time to the proper district officers.

Everyone was urged to attend the annual Union Thanksgiving Service, this years being held at Second Baptist Church at 9:30 a.m. Thanksgiving day. Mrs. Harry Lewis, Asbury Home Key Woman, urged the saving of all coupons for which the home receives premiums and the turning of these in to her regularly. Jingle-type gifts will be brought to the next meeting, then forwarded to Gaithersburg for distribution to the residents of the Asbury Home on Christmas.

A special Christmas service will be held at the next general meeting with Mrs. Frank Perdew in charge of the devotions and program and Mrs. Harry Dixon, assisted by Group Leaders, in charge of refreshments.

Following the business meeting, refreshments were served by members of Group 2.

It was reported 17 members attended the "Quiet Day" and 15 were present at the evening program in connection with the Week of Prayer. Each group of the society is asked to form a prayer group. The Society has been participating in the study course on prayer which has been taught by Rev. Stanley G. Harrell at a series of Sunday family night services. Mrs. Paugh, secretary of Christian Social Relations, reported the Society had filled 20 sewing bags which were turned over to the Council of Churches at the annual World Community Day service. Mrs. R. J. Reuschlein, promotion secretary, stated she had received the required reports from all officers and these had been mailed on time to the proper district officers.

Everyone was urged to attend the annual Union Thanksgiving Service, this years being held at Second Baptist Church at 9:30 a.m. Thanksgiving day. Mrs. Harry Lewis, Asbury Home Key Woman, urged the saving of all coupons for which the home receives premiums and the turning of these in to her regularly. Jingle-type gifts will be brought to the next meeting, then forwarded to Gaithersburg for distribution to the residents of the Asbury Home on Christmas.

A special Christmas service will be held at the next general meeting with Mrs. Frank Perdew in charge of the devotions and program and Mrs. Harry Dixon, assisted by Group Leaders, in charge of refreshments.

Following the business meeting, refreshments were served by members of Group 2.

Health Group Has Reports

The Cumberland LaVale Lay Health Group formulated plans for its Christmas party and received reports at the meeting held at the health building, Union Street. The Christmas party will be in the form of a dinner at Nave's dining room, December 12. It will begin at 6:30. There will be an exchange of jingle gifts and group singing of carols.

Routine reports were given by Mrs. Marjory Nave and Mrs. Edith Cessna. One hundred and two cancer dressings were made and 18 women helped in getting the TB Christmas seals ready for mailing.

Mrs. Elizabeth Nave announced that the County Lay Health group will hold its Christmas party December 4. It will be at Clary Club at 1 p. m. Each is to bring a jingle. Reservations are to be made by November 30.

The next meeting of the Cumberland group will be January 17.

Others present were Mrs. Bertha Scollick, Mrs. Mildred Hickel, Miss Mary Margaret Smith, Mrs. Mildred Allender, Mrs. Clara Williamson, Miss Perina Grassi, health nurse and Mrs. Naomi Evanson who presided.

Mapleside Club Cancels Workshop

Cancellation of the December workshop was made at the meeting of the Mapleside Homemakers Club. Mrs. Florence Taylor presided. Mrs. James Weakley led the flag salute and the collect was read in unison. Mrs. Bertha Frost gave the history, "Prayer of Thanksgiving," which was sung by the group. A story, "Thanksgiving Day" was read by Mrs. Laura Twigg and Mrs. Mary Schultz read a poem, "Thanksgiving Prayer."

Mrs. Taylor announced the Christmas party for December 10 at noon in the YMCA and that there will be no workshop in December. The Book Club will meet January 8 at the home of Mrs. Loretta Beckman. She appointed Mrs. Ruth Edwards chairman of the auditing committee, assisted by Mrs. Laura Twigg and Mrs. Ethel Driscoll. Mrs. Reba Mayne, chairman for the party, announced play practice every Monday at 1 in First EUB Church. A report on Achievement Day was given by Mrs. Loretta Smith; Mrs. Ruth Taschenberger on the workshop and sunshine baskets; Mrs. Carrie Hosier, Book Club; and Mrs. Paul Butts, secret sisters. Mrs. James Weakley spoke of Friends Awara for Handicapped Children, and the progress the school is making. Following the singing of "Blessed Be The Tide" the Lord's Prayer was said.

Harvest Ball To Be Held Saturday

The "Fall Harvest" will be the theme for the benefit dance of the Junior Woman's Civic Club, Mrs. Rodney Pariser and Mrs. Homer Schaidt, cochairmen, announce. The semi-formal dance is to be held November 24 at the Cumberland Country Club, the Gentlemen of Note will provide the music from 9 until 1 o'clock.

Miss Jane Ebert, chairman of decorations, reports the decor will feature a horn of plenty as the motif. There will be scarecrows and silhouettes of the First Thanksgiving used in the decorations of the ball room. A party basket will be one of the prizes.

The dance is the first of two projects of the club, from which the entire proceeds will be donated to the building fund of the Friends Aware of Handicapped Children.

Those receiving invitations are asked to make reservations with the club immediately. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Junior Woman's Civic Club. They also will be on sale the night of the dance.

The dance committee is composed of Mrs. Edward Weber, Mrs. Ronald Chapman, Miss Dorothy Campbell, Mrs. Wesley McGraw, Mrs. Donald Paupe, Mrs. Donald Mason, Mrs. LaVern Hahn, Miss Ebert, Mrs. Carl MacAloose, Mrs. Howard Buchanan, Mrs. Otis Sterne, Mrs. Ronald Sterne, Mrs. Edwin Everhart, Mrs. Sara Willetts, Miss Rosemary Mullaney and Mrs. Joan Williams.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had no idea there were so many frigid husbands around until their wives began to confide in you. Frankly I feel better about my problem now.

My husband developed icicle tendencies shortly after our marriage. I was bewildered and confused. He was amorous during courtship — even eager.

Then the soul-searching began. Perhaps it was my fault. After trying all the tricks in the book (and a few out of the book) I knew I couldn't change him so I readjusted my thinking.

My icicle-husband has many fine qualities and no bad habits. He is an excellent provider, a community leader, interesting company and he treats me with consideration and respect. We are far happier than many couples who have nothing to say to each other — except in the bedroom.

At 34 I can say without bitterness, that sex isn't what it's cracked up to be. I lead a full and satisfying life without it.

— SERENE

DEAR SERENE: Not all people are willing (or able) to make an accommodation of this kind. If the rationale works for you — bravo. You couldn't beat him so you joined him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother and dad were divorced three years ago. The court awarded me to my mother although my dad wanted me, too. The judge said I could make up my own mind on my 14th birthday. I will be 14 in January and I don't know what to do.

My mother remarried last year. Her new husband is nice but I'm uncomfortable around him. He always seems to be acting.

My dad married another woman one year after he and mom were divorced. I like his new wife but she has a very uppity daughter who is my age. Living in the same house with that girl would be horrible.

I've talked this over with my favorite teacher and she suggested I write to you. Can you help me? — GWENDOLYN

DEAR GWENDOLYN: Stay where you are and try to be more friendly to your step-father. I'll bet in time he thaws out. The situation in your father's new home has all the ingredients for Instant Trouble. Why put your head in THAT meat-grinder?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a woman past 50 who has given the better part of her life to her job and her company. I was never married and in a moment you will know why.

My boss is the head of the business. He is an attractive, well-to-do bachelor 68 years of age. I've been in love with him for 22 years but he is unaware of my feelings. Our relationship has been a close one, professionally, and he treats me with the greatest respect. I am well paid and I love my work, but it is getting increasingly difficult for me to keep my love for this man disguised.

I know now I should have made my feelings known years ago, but there is no point in trying to relive the past. The question is, would I be making a fool of myself if I told him now? Yes, I am prepared to leave if he thinks it best. Please give me some advice.

— OLD FAITHFUL

DEAR OLD FAITHFUL: If the man felt about you as you do about him he would have let you know it. Obviously, he's had every opportunity. Now you at least have your self-respect. Don't spill a tale of 22 years of unrequitted love. It would sound bizarre and make the man uncomfortable. You are better off to leave — quietly.

Confidential to ALL READERS: Dozens of sharp-eyed Ann Fans wrote to tell me that a letter I published from "Augusta, Maine" was as neat a bit of plagiarism as has ever been slipped over on a trusting columnist. "Augusta" asked "What is Woman?" and he went on to describe her caprices and her foibles. The culprit lifted (almost verbatim) several paragraphs from an old essay which was kicking around a number of campuses in the early 40s. (I got off my campus in '39, just in time to miss it.)

My thanks to all who called this thievery to my attention, a pox on the scoundrel who passed off the work as his own, and for me 10 lashes with a wet noodle for having been so readily hornswoggled.

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teenage Drinking," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Projects Are Undertaken In State Parks Of Area

A number of projects are being undertaken by the State Department of Public Improvements at state parks in Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Carl Belt Inc., Cumberland, was the low bidder on the construction of a comfort station at Dan's Mountain Recreation Area, Lonaconing, with a bid of $11,325.

Others submitting figures on the project were John I. Vandegrift, Cumberland, $11,736, and George Construction Company, Mt. Savage Road, $12,377.

The Department of Forests and Parks will also have constructed a shop and office building at Deep Creek Lake State Park.

The Department of Public Improvements, which handles these capital improvement works for the various state departments, announced that bids have been extended to Wednesday.

Bidders so far have been Ernest Savage, Friendsville; Fred E. Beachy Lumber Company, Oakland; Oakland Lumber Company, Oakland; Kitzmiller and Edgar, RD 1, Oakland; William E. Shirer, Pennington Street, Oakland; Vanucci and Long, Star Route, Oakland; Fibe Brothers, Star Route, Oakland; Carl Bailey, Deep Creek Lake; Lawrence Hardesty, Oakland, and John S. Cook and Son, Cumberland.

The State Department of Public Improvements is also taking bids due Wednesday at its office, 301 West Preston Street, Baltimore, for the sinking of a deep water well on Dan's Mountain, Garrett County.

City Backs Advisory Board

The City-County Water-Sewage Commission came in for considerable attention at yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council which agreed that a joint Citizens' Advisory Commission be put into operation.

The commission, in a letter from William A. Douglas, chairman recommended the formation of an advisory commission, the membership of which would include three persons to be named by council, three by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, and another by joint approval of the two governing bodies.

The letter said the advisory unit should be instructed to arrive at a fair and equitable price for the city's sewage treatment plant if it is determined that its purchase by the county is the best means of meeting the county's sewage problem, or if the facility is retained by the city to determine what the county should pay for use of the plant.

The letter by Douglas also said the proposed commission should be authorized to hire any necessary technical help required to arrive at a proper appraisal of values entering into the question and that the cost of any studies required be paid for by both city and county.

James Rowan, 123 Race Street, objected from the floor to the city's having any part in the costs since city residents pay full county taxes and the city's share of money spent by the commission would be paid through county taxes.

Council agreed to accept the commission's recommendation, with Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, pointing out that the group deserved commendation for the work it already has accomplished.

In relation to the same subject, a letter from the Chamber of Commerce was read stating its board of directors had endorsed the creation of the advisory unit called for by the joint sewage-water commission.

Also read was a letter from J. R. McComas, director of sanitary engineering for the State Health Department, concerning financial assistance available under the Federal Accelerated Public Works Program. McComas pointed out that much of the work in connection with the city and county sewage problem can be done at greatly reduced cost by participating in the federal program.

An introductory ordinance was read for the sewering of McKinley Avenue, Ridge Terrace and Ritchie Street, with City Engineering Charles R. Nuzum informing council the streets are in an area where the city recently had sold a number of lots, and that the sewering would open the area for development.

Council Receives 19 Bids On Insurance Coverage

The Mayor and Council yesterday received bids from 19 firms on expanded insurance coverage of municipal employes, with the bids referred to Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill for study and recommendation.

financially for the city to expand the coverage now available for city workers.

Yesterday's bids covered life and major medical insurance, with City Clerk Wallace Ullery pointing out that the only protection for employes at present is Blue Shield and Blue Cross.

Commissioner Hill read a letter from Henry K. Duke in which he offered his services as a consultant on insurance and related business on an annual basis.

Council accepted the proposal and asked the commissioner to talk the matter over more fully with Duke and report back with a recommendation.

Council authorized Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, to hire two operator-trainees for the city's sewage treatment plant. The commissioner said the training is needed because of the small work staff which has to double its work hours in emergencies.

Police Commissioner William V. Keegan was authorized to advertise for bids for a new patrol wagon, and Water Commissioner G. Ray Light to advertise for the purchase and installation of low-lift pumping equipment, and the rehabilitation of the gate chamber at Lake Gordon.

Clarence Sarver submitted a bid of $750 for a number of lots advertised for sale by the city in Ridgedale Addition. The bid was referred to the finance commissioner for recommendation.

Council came in commendation by Andrew Heller, 115 Tilghman Street, who said he felt the body was "doing a damn good job," referring especially to the city's traffic and streets. He added, however, should take up the matter of replacement of curbing in the downtown area.

Chamber Backs Rocky Gap Park

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce yesterday joined hands with local business, civic and fraternal organizations in endorsing the proposed Rocky Gap State Park on U. S. 40 off Martin's Mountain.

In a resolution to be sent to state officials, the Chamber expresses appreciation for progress made by the State Department of Forests and Parks toward creation of the park and urges its completion as a facility available to the public at the earliest possible time.

Copies of the resolution are to be sent to Gov. J. Millard Tawes; S. L. Hammerman, chairman of the Governor's Commission in forming a master plan of state parks; Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the State Department of Forests and Parks; and F. Perry Smith, a member of the committee to assist in development of a master plan for parks.

Spearheading the drive for the state park has been the Route 40 Association. Recently it was joined by the Fraternal Order of Eagles and Loyal Order of Moose in endorsing the plan.

Farmland is being converted to other uses at the rate of about two million acres per year.

Tavern Permits Suspended

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners, sitting as a Liquor Board, has suspended the licenses of five proprietors for ten days each, and revoked the license of another establishment for two years.

The ten-day suspensions were handed out to Bruce Smouse, of Sun Deck Tavern; Gorman Lee Thayer, Sky High Tavern; Robert F. Thomas, Deep Creek Lodge; Leo Friend, Stone Tavern, and Richard Perando, Maple View Terrace.

Thayer previously had pleaded guilty to permitting a Sunday sale of beer, and was fined $50 at a Circuit Court trial before Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill. The other had been found guilty of after-hour sales by juries, and each fined $200.

The Liquor Board ordered the two-year revocation on Robert D. Kemp, who operates a tavern near Deer Park, after a trial in which he was fined $500 after being found guilty of selling alcoholic beverages in violation of his Class D beer license.

Bankers To Meet In Baltimore

A management-operations conference will be held Thursday, November 29, in the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore, by the Maryland Bankers Association.

On the state bank management committee which is making plans for that part of the program is G. Alvin Kreiling, executive vice president of the Fidelity Bank of Frostburg.

On the bank operations committee is Hugh D. Shires, vice president and trust officer of the First National Bank and Trust Company, this city.

Optimist Club Commends Stitcher

The Cumberland Optimist Club has presented a resolution commending the late City Police Officer John Henry Stitcher for the excellent contribution he made in behalf of the young people of the community.

Officer Stitcher, who retired early this year, died Wednesday, November 7. A copy of the resolution has been sent to his widow.

Do you have only part-way hospital bill protection?

For real protection against hospital care costs, you need Blue Cross

Does your present hospitalization insurance set a dollar limit on the amount it will pay for your hospital room and board and other services? If so, you've got only part-way protection . . . and a big part of your next hospital bill may have to be paid out of your own pocket.

Blue Cross sets no dollar limit on its coverage of the hospital care you need when you're ill. This means that, in the great majority of cases, you'll find Blue Cross will cover your hospital care costs in full.

Don't settle for part-way protection. Insist on Blue Cross . . . the program that takes the worry out of hospital bills. Write today for full information on Blue Cross . . . and on Blue Shield, the companion program for doctor bills.

Projects Are Undertaken In State Parks Of Area

A number of projects are being undertaken by the State Department of Public Improvements at state parks in Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Carl Belt Inc., Cumberland, was the low bidder on the construction of a comfort station at Dan's Mountain Recreation Area, Lonaconing, with a bid of $11,325.

Others submitting figures on the project were John I. Vandegrift, Cumberland, $11,736, and George Construction Company, Mt. Savage Road, $12,377.

The Department of Forests and Parks will also have constructed a shop and office building at Deep Creek Lake State Park.

The Department of Public Improvements, which handles these capital improvement works for the various state departments, announced that bids have been extended to Wednesday.

Bidders so far have been Ernest Savage, Friendsville; Fred E. Beachy Lumber Company, Oakland; Oakland Lumber Company, Oakland; Kitzmiller and Edgar, RD 1, Oakland; William E. Shirer, Pennington Street, Oakland; Vanucci and Long, Star Route, Oakland; Fibe Brothers, Star Route, Oakland; Carl Bailey, Deep Creek Lake; Lawrence Hardesty, Oakland, and John S. Cook and Son, Cumberland.

The State Department of Public Improvements is also taking bids due Wednesday at its office, 301 West Preston Street, Baltimore, for the sinking of a deep water well on Dan's Mountain, Garrett County.

C&P To Show New Devices

Melvin S. Littleton, staff accountant of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company Baltimore office will demonstrate some of the latest advances in the telephone industry at a meeting of physics and chemistry teachers of Allegany County schools in Valley High School today at 2:30 p.m.

Ferromagnetic domains — a basic approach to the study of magnetism; and solar energy kit — a new project designed for outstanding students, will be discussed.

The solar energy kits and literature for both projects will be made available to each county. Further details will be provided by Miss Amanda Bowman of the telephone company.

City Backs Advisory Board

The City-County Water-Sewage Commission came in for considerable attention at yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council which agreed that a joint Citizens' Advisory Commission be put into operation.

The commission, in a letter from William A. Douglas, chairman recommended the formation of an advisory commission, the membership of which would include three persons to be named by council, three by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, and another by joint approval of the two governing bodies.

The letter said the advisory unit should be instructed to arrive at a fair and equitable price for the city's sewage treatment plant if it is determined that its purchase by the county is the best means of meeting the county's sewage problem, or if the facility is retained by the city to determine what the county should pay for use of the plant.

The letter by Douglas also said the proposed commission should be authorized to hire any necessary technical help required to arrive at a proper appraisal of values entering into the question and that the cost of any studies required be paid for by both city and county.

James Rowan, 123 Race Street, objected from the floor to the city's having any part in the costs since city residents pay full county taxes and the city's share of money spent by the commission would be paid through county taxes.

Council agreed to accept the commission's recommendation, with Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, pointing out that the group deserved commendation for the work it already has accomplished.

In relation to the same subject, a letter from the Chamber of Commerce was read stating its board of directors had endorsed the creation of the advisory unit called for by the joint sewage-water commission.

Also read was a letter from J. R. McComas, director of sanitary engineering for the State Health Department, concerning financial assistance available under the Federal Accelerated Public Works Program. McComas pointed out that much of the work in connection with the city and county sewage problem can be done at greatly reduced cost by participating in the federal program.

An introductory ordinance was read for the sewering of McKinley Avenue, Ridge Terrace and Ritchie Street, with City Engineering Charles R. Nuzum informing council the streets are in an area where the city recently had sold a number of lots, and that the sewering would open the area for development.

Council Receives 19 Bids On Insurance Coverage

The Mayor and Council yesterday received bids from 19 firms on expanded insurance coverage of municipal employes, with the bids referred to Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill for study and recommendation.

financially for the city to expand the coverage now available for city workers.

Yesterday's bids covered life and major medical insurance, with City Clerk Wallace Ullery pointing out that the only protection for employes at present is Blue Shield and Blue Cross.

Commissioner Hill read a letter from Henry K. Duke in which he offered his services as a consultant on insurance and related business on an annual basis.

Council accepted the proposal and asked the commissioner to talk the matter over more fully with Duke and report back with a recommendation.

Council authorized Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, to hire two operator-trainees for the city's sewage treatment plant. The commissioner said the training is needed because of the small work staff which has to double its work hours in emergencies.

Police Commissioner William V. Keegan was authorized to advertise for bids for a new patrol wagon, and Water Commissioner G. Ray Light to advertise for the purchase and installation of low-lift pumping equipment, and the rehabilitation of the gate chamber at Lake Gordon.

Clarence Sarver submitted a bid of $750 for a number of lots advertised for sale by the city in Ridgedale Addition. The bid was referred to the finance commissioner for recommendation.

Council came in commendation by Andrew Heller, 115 Tilghman Street, who said he felt the body was "doing a damn good job," referring especially to the city's traffic and streets. He added, however, should take up the matter of replacement of curbing in the downtown area.

Tavern Permits Suspended

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners, sitting as a Liquor Board, has suspended the licenses of five proprietors for ten days each, and revoked the license of another establishment for two years.

The ten-day suspensions were handed out to Bruce Smouse, of Sun Deck Tavern; Gorman Lee Thayer, Sky High Tavern; Robert F. Thomas, Deep Creek Lodge; Leo Friend, Stone Tavern, and Richard Perando, Maple View Terrace.

Thayer previously had pleaded guilty to permitting a Sunday sale of beer, and was fined $50 at a Circuit Court trial before Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill. The other had been found guilty of after-hour sales by juries, and each fined $200.

The Liquor Board ordered the two-year revocation on Robert D. Kemp, who operates a tavern near Deer Park, after a trial in which he was fined $500 after being found guilty of selling alcoholic beverages in violation of his Class D beer license.

Bankers To Meet In Baltimore

A management-operations conference will be held Thursday, November 29, in the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore, by the Maryland Bankers Association.

On the state bank management committee which is making plans for that part of the program is G. Alvin Kreiling, executive vice president of the Fidelity Bank of Frostburg.

On the bank operations committee is Hugh D. Shires, vice president and trust officer of the First National Bank and Trust Company, this city.

Army Has New Nurse Program

The Army has announced a new reserve program to permit qualified nurses, both men and women, to take a six month tour of active duty for training in the Army Nurse Corps, and then return to their civilian occupations while fulfilling the balance of their reserve commitments.

This is an opportunity for these men to satisfy their military obligation as commissioned officers and for both men and women to earn retirement benefits for 20 or more years of service at age 60.

Emphasis will be on the military administrative and professional teaching aspects of military nursing which may differ from those in civilian practice.

Details of the new Reserve program are available at the local Army recruiting office, according to MSgt. Jack Wheeler.

The population of the world is expected to reach as much as four billion by the end of this century.

Bethany Approves Record Budget

BETHANY, W. Va. (UPI)—Bethany College's Board of Trustees has approved a record budget of $1,606,400 for 1962-63, and authorized an additional building program of more than $3 million.

A new science building, costing $1,250,000, will be built now, while a new conference center and an addition to the student union building will be built in the near future.

Maynard L. Patton, Ft. Thomas, Ky., chairman of the board, said most of the $110,700 increase in the budget will go to raising the salaries of the faculty.

Union Thanksgiving Service Tomorrow

WESTERNPORT — The annual Union Thanksgiving Service, sponsored by the Tri-Towns Ministerial Association, will be held tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., at the Assembly of God Church, Maryland Avenue.

The sermon will be delivered by Rev. Clarence Winkler, pastor of Bloomington Methodist Church. Other Tri-Towns ministers will participate.

Lecture Planned

LONACONING — "Why Do Children Turn Delinquent?" will be the public lecture by Terry Furman, speaker at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah Witnesses, Rockville, Lonaconing, Sunday at 3 p.m.

Fire Training Certificates Are Presented

PIEDMONT—Thirty area volunteer firemen who completed a fire extension course offered by West Virginia University received certificates at a public ceremony Saturday night in the home of Kelly-Mansfield Post 52 American Legion.

Elwood F. Bevans, president of Tri-Towns Fire Company 1, had charge of the opening and closing programs. Chief Raymond Lee presided and Raymond Simpson, instructor for the course, presented certificates to the following:

Piedmont — Fred C. DeVore, James F. Rocco, Harold M. Simpson, Elwood F. Bevans, Raymond W. Lee, Ronald Tasker, Kenneth Hamilton, Vernon R. Hamilton, Harold C. Wilson, Paul H. Michael, Charles C. Shingler and Patrick J. Mills; Bloomington—John A. Price; Fort Ashby—James D. Alkire, J. Stephen Adams, Harry T. Cheshire, Floyd Wagoner, Bernard P. Kenny, Glenden L. Shriver, Richard T. Deremer, George J. Pyles, Nelson S. Long, John D. Logsdon, L. W. Hartman, William D. Kenney, Wayne D. Wolford, Harold R. Kerns, Paul L. Evans and George A. Helmick.

Simpson also awarded a card for Donald Amoruso, who was killed in a recent automobile accident, to his father, Lewis Amoruso.

Deremer, who is 15 years of age, was the youngest fireman in the state to take the course. He had a grade of 94.0.

Friendly Helpers Mark Birthday

BARTON — The Friendly Helpers Bible Class of First Methodist Church observed its annual anniversary recently in the church social room. A turkey dinner was prepared and served by Mrs. Bessie Wilkes and Mrs. Elsie Keyes. Thirty members attended.

A program was presented with Mrs. Norma Metz in charge, assisted by Phyllis Howell, Mrs. Mae Smith and Mrs. Verda Michael.

A business meeting followed with the president, Mrs. Margaret Ross, presiding. Reports were given by Mrs. Monta Jean Kyle, Mrs. Penny Lord and Mrs. Phyllis Dye. Mrs. Peggy Mowbary, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, announced that she had met with her committee and plans were made for a spaghetti supper in January.

Garbage Collection Date Changed

PIEDMONT — Due to the Thanksgiving holiday, garbage will be collected on Piedmont hill tomorrow, this week only, according to Joseph Maybury, city clerk.

The regular garbage collection downtown, will be on Friday as usual.

Trash Day Moved Up

FROSTBURG — Jonas Skidmore, street superintendent of Frostburg, announced yesterday that garbage and trash collections scheduled for the west end of Frostburg on Thursday will be picked up Wednesday instead. This area includes all parts of the town west of Wood Street. Other trash collections of the city will be as usual.

Beard Is Status Symbol In Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A newsman just released from a Cuban jail said Sunday a Castro-style beard has become a status symbol in Havana—and not just anybody is eligible.

Robert McNeil, a National Broadcasting Co. correspondent, said when he and a fellow newsman prisoner, Don North of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., were released Friday, North was told he had to first shave off his beard. He had allowed it to grow while in jail.

McNeil said in a television interview shortly after his return here said that Cuban guards told North that if he did not shave off his beard they would do it for him. McNeil quoted a guard as saying: "Beards are a symbol of distinction in Cuba and only certain persons may wesr them."

Counting Weapons Of Annihilation

For generations standard reference works for assessing comparative military strength have been Jane's "Fighting Ships" and "All the World's Aircraft." The introduction of ballistic missiles has provided new complications, however, since they can be concealed more easily than dreadnought or bomber.

To help fill the "intelligence gap," the U.S. Air Force has relied on the Rand Corp. to amass and evaluate military data. The British found a counterpart in The Institute for Strategic Studies, whose research — scholarly as well as clandestine — has been partly financed by the Ford Foundation.

In its latest comprehensive analysis of weaponry, the institute estimates the West will have between 450 and 500 intercontinental missiles by 1963; Russia will have 75. The Soviet Union leads in intermediate-range missiles by an estimated 700 to the West's 250. But when missile-bearing bombers and Polaris-firing submarines are tallied, the West appears to have commanding strength.

This no doubt influenced Premier Khrushchev's pullback in Cuba. There is reason to hope he will similarly be discouraged from moving recklessly against Berlin.

But there can be no real comfort for anyone in a world where diplomatic leverage is applied by weapons, any one of which could cause wholesale annihilation.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Red Party Conferences

Lenin and Stalin met opposition by murder. Khrushchev has not been able to do that. Thus in the Communist Party, throughout the world, there are Party adherents and non-Party adherents. The non-Party adherents are called Stalinists.

Stalin brooked no living Trotskyists in the politics of the Communist Universal State. A Trotskyist had to be killed. Even Trotsky himself was murdered in Mexico by order of Stalin. The Stalinists, however, have not been killed by Khrushchev. They live and plot. Molotov, Malenkov, Kaganovich, Zukov and others are not only alive but are active in Russian affairs. The Chinese-Albanian Axis is Stalinist and it operates independently of Khrushchev. Castro had the impudence to threaten that he would go over to the Chinese-Albanian Alliance and the matter was so serious that Mikoyan dared not leave Cuba to bury his wife.

This Communist Party Congress will deal with the survival of Khrushchev. If he is permitted to hold on to the reins of leadership, it is likely that his antagonism to Mao Tze-tung will increase, he will come to an understanding with the United States and he will aid India.

He may be kept in office, but his power will be diffused. A committee in the Kremlin will have the real power, while he will be the front. This will lead to confusion and possibly to civil war in some of the satellites.

The third possibility is that the Stalinists, backed by Mao Tze-tung, will be victorious. They will kick Khrushchev out, put a fourth generation person in charge, end the quarrel with Mao Tze-tung, renew the quarrel with Tito, take a determined stand on Berlin and Cuba. This could lead to war.

The current Communist Congress may turn out to be one of the most important in the history of the Soviet Universal State. The 20th Congress altered the program of Stalinism to anti-Stalinism. Further, that Congress established opposition to the cult of personality which, in effect, ended the period of individual dictatorship and established a broad participation in policy by the Presidium. The changes were not only structural but doctrinal and Khrushchev's concept of coexistence—that is, a recognition of the temporary survival of capitalism and democracy in Western countries —was accepted as possible.

Khrushchev's somewhat bourgeois attitude did not please Red China. Mao Tze-tung, an absolute Marxist and a protege of Stalin, regards Khrushchev as an upstart. It is to be remembered that the Chinese Communist Party, largely influenced by Karl Radek, was Trotzkyist until Stalin took the Chu-Mao alliance and made Mao the leader of the party. This leadership was directly ordered from the Kremlin and all Chinese Communists with Trotzkyist leanings were expelled. So Mao owes everything to Stalin. In each Communist country, a strong Stalinist element remains. Albania is not the only Balkan country where Stalinism is important. The Stalinists have taken advantage of the Cuban situation to accuse Khrushchev of abandoning a satellite. In fact, so bitter has been the attack on Khrushchev, that he had to back-track on his promise to President Kennedy with regard to Cuba.

The purpose of this article is not to evoke sympathy for Khrushchev. He is an able politician who knows his own country and its politicians. He managed to survive all of Stalin's purges and finally to have Stalin's body removed from its tomb. What greater triumph can a Communist have!

My purpose rather is to attempt to state the facts of the situation as I see them and as they are now developing. From the standpoint of the United States, International Communism is our enemy and hopes to destroy our way of life. Many techniques are being used against us, some of which could bring on war; others could impoverish us.

But this much seems to be clear: among the various Communist leaders now on the scene, the least objectionable, from the American standpoint, is Khrushchev. We might get, at the head of world Communism, Mao Tze-tung, a bigoted Stalinist to whom human life is no more sacred than an ant's life is to us. We might get Suzlov or Kozlov, or some person as yet unknown to us who was brought up on the milk of hatred for our country, just as Castro was reared by a Spanish father who was a soldier in the Spanish-American War and never forgot the defeat.

And The Parade Had A Good Start

Nuclear Tests End On Optimistic Note For US-USSR Ban Agreement

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Today, for the first time in over a year, the world is scheduled to be without nuclear tests. Neither Russia nor the United States will be unleashing radioactivity with its strontium 90 which decays the bones of young children.

The United States has already stopped testing, and the Russians are scheduled to stop today. And one week hence, both countries meet in Geneva to resume talks on how to make the moratorium permanent.

Nobody around the State Department wants to say much about it, but it looks as if the two countries were very close to a formal agreement to cut out all nuclear tests. If so, it could start off a chain reaction for disarmament and peace.

Reason for the modified American optimism is the following chronological series of events:

1. The only issue being argued between the USA and USSR today is underground tests. We have been able to detect atmospheric tests with complete reliability by flying planes around the borders of the Soviet to pick up particles of fallout. We can also detect underwater explosions with no difficulty. As a result, the United States last spring proposed that the USA and USSR sign an agreement to curtail tests in the air, under the water, and in outer space — immediately.

The Russians refused. They argued that we would then concentrate on underground testing, which is expensive and which they couldn't afford as well as we.

No On-Site Inspection

2. The United States is now able to detect almost all underground tests. We have spent some $150,000,000 on perfecting methods and, as a result, can spot an underground test some 5,000 miles away.

The only problem still to be solved is to ascertain whether suspicious tremors come from earthquakes or from nuclear tests. In order to differentiate between them, the United States has proposed that neutral UN inspectors be located on both Soviet and American soil, or have the privilege of entering countries where suspicious tremors have taken place.

The Russians have vigorously opposed international inspection, claiming this would be a disguised method of espionage. If there is total disarmament, they say, then inspectors would be welcome. But as long as there is limited disarmament, then inspection would permit outside nations to locate Russian missile bases.

3. However, even the differences regarding underground inspection have narrowed.

In the first place, there is only a limited area of the Soviet where earthquakes occur — a line running from Kamchatka down through the Kurile Islands and a line running through the Southern Soviet. A tremor recorded in any part of the Soviet would immediately be known as a nuclear test.

Second, U.S. detection methods have improved so remarkably that it would only be necessary to send out only 12 inspectors onto Soviet soil; possibly only eight.

As a counterplan, the Russians have proposed sealed seismographic boxes located in strategic parts of both the Soviet and the United States to record underground tests. Periodically, they would be opened and inspected.

The United States has countered that these "black boxes" would require maintenance to make sure they are operating; second, this would require inspectors on Soviet soil anyway; and, third, that they could be distorted by playing a taped transcription of earthquake tremors alongside the box.

However, U.S. delegates have told the Russians: "Show us exactly how the black boxes work. If you've got some improved methods, we'll remain open-minded."

So far, the Russians haven't replied, presumably will do so next week in Geneva.

Fear Of Chinese Bombs

By all odds, the most important influences pushing both sides toward an agreement are China and Cuba.

If the Chinese get an atomic bomb, it's likely there will never be a nuclaer test ban agreement. The United States is obviously concerned over this and has reason to believe the Russians are equally concerned. The last thing they want is nuclear weapons in the hand of the Red Chinese.

It's also generally believed that it would be easier to get China to go along with a test ban treaty, if one were already in effect.

Cuba increases the chances of an agreement, first because the Russians have set a semi-precedent for inspection by permitting U.S. inspection of Russian missiles on ships at sea; second, both sides came very close to atomic war during the Cuban crisis.

"Khrushchev looked down the gun barrel of atomic war during the Cuban crisis," said William Foster, the hard-working chief of the Arm Control and Disarmament Agency. "We believe he's just as anxious as we are to prevent such a war."

Note — Underground tests are practical for developing tactical nuclear weapons, but they could test and develop a fusion bomb. This is what we fear the smaller nations may eventually develop—a fusion bomb giving off tremendous expense of fissionable materials. A fusion bomb, however, would cost almost nothing. So far, no one has developed it; we hope no one ever will.

New Tax Laws Seen Puzzling U.S. Business

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It looks as if every dollar saved in federal taxes by a reduction in the tax rates of corporations will be offset by another dollar in increased expense due to new tax laws and regulations. American business may not choose to invest vast sums in plant and equipment when it cannot tell for another year or two just what extra levies are to be imposed by the so-called "tax reform" laws. The government's continuing policy of trying to make up through new tax rules and regulations what it permits corporations to save through a reduction of their tax rates from 52 to 47 per cent will interfere with planning in private business.

Take as one example of increased costs a proposed treasury regulation dealing with expense accounts. It has been widely proclaimed that the treasury plans to require a receipt for every expenditure of $10 or more when a salesman, for instance, takes to breakfast, lunch or dinner a customer or prospective customer or anyone else related to his business transactions. Even tips would have to be listed and a record kept.

Already the credit card clubs are advertising that they give receipts for meals and other services charged by their customers in participating restaurants and hotels. But what of the big percentage of persons who pay cash for their meals? Will they ask the restaurant and the waiter, too, to give them a signed receipt itemizing the payments made? One hotel manager in Chicago has just announced that he will provide tape recordings to help prove that the conversation was of a business nature, and he promises that one of his waiters will be a notary public to witness signatures on restaurant checks and other documents. Will a salesman have to make an affidavit that the man he lunched with is of help to him in business? Will a newspaperman, for example, have to swear that he got a news story or hoped to get information for publication from the government official whom he took to lunch? Can a taxpayer prove that all such expenses had a business purpose without asking the customer or news source to sign an affidavit or to testify in his behalf?

All of this extra record-keeping costs money. Every company will have to keep on file for years the receipts turned in by employes for every item of expenditure which they make as individuals in behalf of the company and for which they are reimbursed. Perhaps railroads will have to provide receipts at the ticket window when a buyer of rail transportation is on a business trip. Will taxi drivers also have to give receipts?

But the most uncertain factor is the coming demand by labor unions for increased wages. Certainly nobody who is realistic thinks for a moment that labor unions will sit idly by after corporate tax rates are reduced from 52 to 47 per cent. Labor will want its share. Some presidential commission will probably suggest "guidelines" to determine labor's proportion. Also, the AFL-CIO has announced that it will insist upon a 35-hour week without any reduction in wages. The unions are in a position, because of their monopoly power, to extort a substantial part of the money saved by the corporations through lower tax rates. This means that the companies will have to increase their prices in order to keep pace with rising costs and to avoid a further squeeze on profits.

It is significant, moreover, that expenditures by the federal government are not to be curtailed, and hence the annual deficits will continue to grow. Business will be faced with an inflationary trend in prices which, in turn, will hurt consumption.

Investments in new plant and equipment in America have stood still for many years now. The rate of profits as related to national output has steadily gone down. A high rate of unemployment continues. All this isn't because of a lack of money available to borrowers but because of a lack of confidence in the future earning power of American business, confronted as it has been by a political bloc in Congress which for years has been and continues to be anti-business.

It is confidence in the business outlook that is needed, and this will not be restored by increased government spending or by bigger deficits or by interference with American business operations in its efforts to earn money overseas in competition with foreign companies. Nor do complex tax rules and regulations and harassment of business through vague and conflicting antitrust suits offer any constructive help in building up the national economy.

The "profit squeeze" of today is directly the result of factors which the administration continues to ignore—among them the unsatisfactory wage-price relationships, the interference of the government in business, and the new threats of foreign competition.

The prospect is, therefore, that the country will encounter more recessions that alternate with mild upturns and will not experience a fundamental improvement in the over-all economy. Real prosperity will not be achieved until there is in power an administration and a Congress of the same party dedicated to the idea of developing the American economy along the lines of free enterprise and without tolerance of monopoly power by any group.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

CAPITOL BUILDING — The beautiful extension of the East front of the Capitol Building ostensibly was completed in time for the inauguration of President Kennedy in January, 1961. However, nearly two years later word has leaked out that the work is neither completed in fact nor fully paid for.

The reasons for the delay are obscure, but it is a fact that work on the multi-million dollar extension has not been finally accepted, and therefore the government is withholding some $500,000 in contract payments.

These facts came out as the result of a suit by a marble quarry to collect some $140,000 in payments for materials sold to a firm that did interior marble work on the extension.

The quarry wants its money, but the contractor says it won't pay until it, in turn, receives payment from the government. While the government isn't talking about the matter, there are indications that some final inspections must still be made before the money is disbursed.

MONEY — Despite the election outcome, both political parties find themselves in unusually poor financial condition. Party headquarters rely on campaign-time fervor to raise funds from the public, and things were going along pretty well in this department until the Cuban crisis.

Then, according to reports from the country, contributions fell off to a trickle. It appears that the public had little time for domestic politics when an international crisis was occupying their time and minds.

Both parties have whopping deficits and will have to make great efforts to keep their financial heads above water for the next two years. Then, things will take a turn for the better. There's nothing like a presidential election year to spring the public loose from some of those dollars for campaign purposes.

French Drying Up?

By John Crosby

PARIS

Changes in French life and French thinking have been sweeping, vast, galvanic, and oddly stimulating in a thousand different ways in the last five years. (Five years, incidentally, is the magic number everyone uses to date the end of the old and the beginning of the new regimes in a dozen different fields.) Nowhere is this drastic and symbolic and really significant change in thinking more evident than in the change in French drinking habits and the whole concept of drink.

Five years ago, the French had (as they still have) the worst rate of alcoholism of any nation in the world. Still, many, many French doctors and most Frenchmen felt that there was no such disease as alcoholism, that the very thought of such a thing was a bit of Anglo-Saxon lunacy like bloodletting and the belief in witches. Five years ago, Alcoholics Anonymous was making great strides in every country in the world except France. France had AA chapters full of Americans, British, Australians, Swedes, and Irish, but without a single French member. Frenchmen with drinking problems occasionally drifted into AA meetings—but they drifted right out again. Even AA leaders were beginning to think that the French were too individualistic to be attracted ever by a group movement like AA.

But that's five years ago. Today Alcoholics Anonymous in France is loaded with Frenchmen, hundreds of them, and their number is growing every day. Mostly this is due to a remarkable book, originally a series of articles in France Soir, called "The Enemy In the Mouth" by Joseph Kessel, which put the message of AA for the first time in French terms and brought the French flocking in, pretty much the way Jack Alexander's article in the Saturday Evening Post performed the same service in the United States.

Today AA in France is not only flourishing with Frenchmen, but it's exceedingly French — the French bringing to sobriety their own dash, and passion, and gaiety and humor. French AA meetings are sparkling affairs. By virtue of his book, Kessel has become almost a patron saint of AA, although he himself is and always was a two-fisted drinker who is slightly embarrassed by all this adulation.

But the change in French thinking on drinking goes far deeper and wider than AA, representing almost a major change in the life and habits of the nation itself. For one thing, the whole idea five ago that drinking might be bad for you was anathema to a nation whose economy was so closely geared to the vineyards. It was economic heresy to suggest such a thing. Not any more.

Today France's economy, like ours, is geared to the automobile and heavy industry and consumer goods are making vast strides. The vines are important still, but not all that important. The French government under Mendes-France and still under de Gaulle is seriously concerned about the sapping effects of the high rate of alcoholism on French national energies. Store fronts rented by the National Committee for Defense Against Alcohol sprout with warnings: "Consumption of alcohol even lightly is very injurious to children — to their health for the rest of their lives," and "Sobriety and health are inseparable," or — and this one represents an enormous change in French thought on drinking—"One can ruin his health by alcohol without ever being drunk." Frenchmen had always felt that sane drinking was good for them. Many still do but doubts have begun to arise.

However, even deeper than these efforts by the French government and by groups like AA (and many other private groups) to combat alcoholism, there is a subtle and profound change in French life, a speeding up of activities, a shift in the emphasis of what life is for (and some of this change is not, I think, altogether a good thing), and this has changed the Frenchman from a leisurely wine-sipping esthete to a more dynamic individual who drinks Scotch or beer.

French young people don't drink much of anything (youth all over the world is bored with drinking) but they drink beer when they do drink alcohol. Actually, their favorite drink is coffee. In the cafes, wine, which provided 40 per cent of the income, has plummeted to less than 20 per cent in five years. I spoke the other day to Jean Cruse, whoa lives in the ancestral chauteau near Bordeaux and whose family has been producing Bordeaux wine for five generations.

"My grandfather," he told me, "never had a bottle of Scotch in the cellar because no one drank Scotch or even knew what it was. Today everyone drinks Scotch. If I were an American whisky-maker, I'd start thinking about introducing American whiskies — bourbon and rye here. The French are ready for them and the only reasons they don't drink them are because they don't know about them."

Peptic Ulcer On Increase Among Smallfry

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Peptic ulcer in children is on the increase. According to one authority, the condition is more common than diabetes and rheumatic fever among the smallfry. An upsurge of emotional problems appears to be the most logical explanation.

Dr. Margaret Prouty of Madison, Wis., and her colleague, Dr. Dorothy Oakley, diagnosed 34 new cases of ulcer in youngsters in the 12 month period ending March, 1961. All had X-ray evidence to prove it. Many had one parent with ulcer and, in one family, three children and both parents were afflicted.

Dr. Prouty says the majority in this series were intelligent children but they were perfectionists who "want everything just right." These boys and girls were highstrung and jittery as a rule, with strong needs for praise, appreciation, and love. The craters developed when there were personality clashes or other emotional problems.

One of the group was a 6½ year old boy who had been bothered for more than a year with abdominal distress. Hospitalization was advised when pain became more severe, awakening him at night. Stomach X-rays revealed an ulcer.

The lad came from a family where the mother was emotionally disturbed and the father insecure. He usually gave in to his wife's judgment, which was not as sound as his because she was riddled with fears. She blamed the father for the child's condition. The nurses in the hospital said the youngster was smart alecky and talked back frequently. Pain subsided but returned soon after he got home.

Dr. Prouty lost track of the family but was pleasantly surprised when the mother and son came to the office 8½ months later, calm and relaxed. The mother told of having developed a lung condition that required 2½ months of hospital care. The father took over at home and, for the first time, he and his son began to understand each other. They became friends and enjoyed doing things together. The child's ulcer healed, pain disappeared, and everyone was happy.

Studies have shown that the ulcer personality is not easily changed. There is a 50-50 chance that a duodenal ulcer beginning in childhood will erupt again in adulthood. Victims of this disease apparently have a stomach that overreacts to emotional upheavals. The pattern may be inherited because changes have been noted early in life, even though not every adult with ulcer tells of having been bothered along this line in childhood.

TOMORROW: Narcolepsy — attacks of sleep.

MIGRATING ARTHRITIS

E. P. writes: Can anything be done for "polyarthritis migratory" besides aspirin?

REPLY

Other arthritis remedies, including steroids such as cortisone, may be helpful in arthritis that travels from joint to joint.

SHOWING OF SUGAR

W. S. W. writes: Does the well regulated diabetic ever show sugar?

REPLY

Yes. Traces of sugar in the urine are not unusual, even in the nondiabetic.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

An odd-ball came into a local radio station recently with a "singing dog" in tow. He explained, however, that the dog would only sing while his master was in the bathroom.

Used to just about everything by this time, studio executives obligingly stashed the man away in a hall bathroom — and, sure enough, the dog began to sing—or wail. That's when the lock on the bathroom door got stuck. By the time they got the door open, the dog's "singing" had been heard over a cooking program, and advice-to-young-mothers session, and a discussion about Henry Miller's "Tropic of Cancer."

Harlan Miller reports that the 14-year-old son of one of his colleagues has purchased a little black book for addresses and telephone numbers. On the outside, the lad, no blushing violet he, has confidently written "Volume One."

A North Carolina minister recalled visiting an old mountain woman in a primitive log cabin shortly after he had graduated from divinity school. She offered him a swig of homemade corn likker, but he told her he didn't drink. Then she produced some chewing tobacco, but he confessed he didn't chew.

"For Heaven's sake, I suppose!" gasped the old woman.

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt

Caves for storage purposes may some day be created by underground nuclear blasts, atomic energy experts suggest. Maybe so, but it sounds to us like a pretty expensive way to dig a cellar!

A New Yorker has raised three stalks of corn on a two-foot square sidewalk plot in midtown Gotham. Wonder what he calls it — a "ranch" or a "plantation"?

A barbed wire fence was erected by someone in front of the West Berlin office of the Russian Intourist travel agency as a protest against the Berlin Wall. Now there is not only an anti-missile missile but an anti-wall wall!

Counting Weapons Of Annihilation

For generations standard reference works for assessing comparative military strength have been Jane's "Fighting Ships" and "All the World's Aircraft." The introduction of ballistic missiles has provided new complications, however, since they can be concealed more easily than dreadnought or bomber.

To help fill the "intelligence gap," the U.S. Air Force has relied on the Rand Corp. to amass and evaluate military data. The British found a counterpart in The Institute for Strategic Studies, whose research — scholarly as well as clandestine — has been partly financed by the Ford Foundation.

In its latest comprehensive analysis of weaponry, the institute estimates the West will have between 450 and 500 intercontinental missiles by 1963; Russia will have 75. The Soviet Union leads in intermediate-range missiles by an estimated 700 to the West's 250. But when missile-bearing bombers and Polaris-firing submarines are tallied, the West appears to have commanding strength.

This no doubt influenced Premier Khrushchev's pullback in Cuba. There is reason to hope he will similarly be discouraged from moving recklessly against Berlin.

But there can be no real comfort for anyone in a world where diplomatic leverage is applied by weapons, any one of which could cause wholesale annihilation.

Red Party Conferences

Lenin and Stalin met opposition by murder. Khrushchev has not been able to do that. Thus in the Communist Party, throughout the world, there are Party adherents and non-Party adherents. The non-Party adherents are called Stalinists.

Stalin brooked no living Trotskyists in the politics of the Communist Universal State. A Trotskyist had to be killed. Even Trotsky himself was murdered in Mexico by order of Stalin. The Stalinists, however, have not been killed by Khrushchev. They live and plot. Molotov, Malenkov, Kaganovich, Zukov and others are not only alive but are active in Russian affairs. The Chinese-Albanian Axis is Stalinist and it operates independently of Khrushchev. Castro had the impudence to threaten that he would go over to the Chinese-Albanian Alliance and the matter was so serious that Mikoyan dared not leave Cuba to bury his wife.

This Communist Party Congress will deal with the survival of Khrushchev. If he is permitted to hold on to the reins of leadership, it is likely that his antagonism to Mao Tze-tung will increase, he will come to an understanding with the United States and he will aid India.

He may be kept in office, but his power will be diffused. A committee in the Kremlin will have the real power, while he will be the front. This will lead to confusion and possibly to civil war in some of the satellites.

The third possibility is that the Stalinists, backed by Mao Tze-tung, will be victorious. They will kick Khrushchev out, put a fourth generation person in charge, end the quarrel with Mao Tze-tung, renew the quarrel with Tito, take a determined stand on Berlin and Cuba. This could lead to war.

The current Communist Congress may turn out to be one of the most important in the history of the Soviet Universal State. The 20th Congress altered the program of Stalinism to anti-Stalinism. Further, that Congress established opposition to the cult of personality which, in effect, ended the period of individual dictatorship and established a broad participation in policy by the Presidium. The changes were not only structural but doctrinal and Khrushchev's concept of coexistence—that is, a recognition of the temporary survival of capitalism and democracy in Western countries —was accepted as possible.

Khrushchev's somewhat bourgeois attitude did not please Red China. Mao Tze-tung, an absolute Marxist and a protege of Stalin, regards Khrushchev as an upstart. It is to be remembered that the Chinese Communist Party, largely influenced by Karl Radek, was Trotzkyist until Stalin took the Chu-Mao alliance and made Mao the leader of the party. This leadership was directly ordered from the Kremlin and all Chinese Communists with Trotzkyist leanings were expelled. So Mao owes everything to Stalin. In each Communist country, a strong Stalinist element remains. Albania is not the only Balkan country where Stalinism is important. The Stalinists have taken advantage of the Cuban situation to accuse Khrushchev of abandoning a satellite. In fact, so bitter has been the attack on Khrushchev, that he had to back-track on his promise to President Kennedy with regard to Cuba.

The purpose of this article is not to evoke sympathy for Khrushchev. He is an able politician who knows his own country and its politicians. He managed to survive all of Stalin's purges and finally to have Stalin's body removed from its tomb. What greater triumph can a Communist have!

My purpose rather is to attempt to state the facts of the situation as I see them and as they are now developing. From the standpoint of the United States, International Communism is our enemy and hopes to destroy our way of life. Many techniques are being used against us, some of which could bring on war; others could impoverish us.

But this much seems to be clear: among the various Communist leaders now on the scene, the least objectionable, from the American standpoint, is Khrushchev. We might get, at the head of world Communism, Mao Tze-tung, a bigoted Stalinist to whom human life is no more sacred than an ant's life is to us. We might get Suzlov or Kozlov, or some person as yet unknown to us who was brought up on the milk of hatred for our country, just as Castro was reared by a Spanish father who was a soldier in the Spanish-American War and never forgot the defeat.

And The Parade Had A Good Start

Nuclear Tests End On Optimistic Note For US-USSR Ban Agreement

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Today, for the first time in over a year, the world is scheduled to be without nuclear tests. Neither Russia nor the United States will be unleashing radioactivity with its strontium 90 which decays the bones of young children.

The United States has already stopped testing, and the Russians are scheduled to stop today. And one week hence, both countries meet in Geneva to resume talks on how to make the moratorium permanent.

Nobody around the State Department wants to say much about it, but it looks as if the two countries were very close to a formal agreement to cut out all nuclear tests. If so, it could start off a chain reaction for disarmament and peace.

Reason for the modified American optimism is the following chronological series of events:

1. The only issue being argued between the USA and USSR today is underground tests. We have been able to detect atmospheric tests with complete reliability by flying planes around the borders of the Soviet to pick up particles of fallout. We can also detect underwater explosions with no difficulty. As a result, the United States last spring proposed that the USA and USSR sign an agreement to curtail tests in the air, under the water, and in outer space — immediately.

The Russians refused. They argued that we would then concentrate on underground testing, which is expensive and which they couldn't afford as well as we.

No On-Site Inspection

2. The United States is now able to detect almost all underground tests. We have spent some $150,000,000 on perfecting methods and, as a result, can spot an underground test some 5,000 miles away.

The only problem still to be solved is to ascertain whether suspicious tremors come from earthquakes or from nuclear tests. In order to differentiate between them, the United States has proposed that neutral UN inspectors be located on both Soviet and American soil, or have the privilege of entering countries where suspicious tremors have taken place.

The Russians have vigorously opposed international inspection, claiming this would be a disguised method of espionage. If there is total disarmament, they say, then inspectors would be welcome. But as long as there is limited disarmament, then inspection would permit outside nations to locate Russian missile bases.

3. However, even the differences regarding underground inspection have narrowed.

In the first place, there is only a limited area of the Soviet where earthquakes occur — a line running from Kamchatka down through the Kurile Islands and a line running through the Southern Soviet. A tremor recorded in any part of the Soviet would immediately be known as a nuclear test.

Second, U.S. detection methods have improved so remarkably that it would only be necessary to send out only 12 inspectors onto Soviet soil; possibly only eight.

As a counterplan, the Russians have proposed sealed seismographic boxes located in strategic parts of both the Soviet and the United States to record underground tests. Periodically, they would be opened and inspected.

The United States has countered that these "black boxes" would require maintenance to make sure they are operating; second, this would require inspectors on Soviet soil anyway; and, third, that they could be distorted by playing a taped transcription of earthquake tremors alongside the box.

However, U.S. delegates have told the Russians: "Show us exactly how the black boxes work. If you've got some improved methods, we'll remain open-minded."

So far, the Russians haven't replied, presumably will do so next week in Geneva.

Fear Of Chinese Bombs

By all odds, the most important influences pushing both sides toward an agreement are China and Cuba.

If the Chinese get an atomic bomb, it's likely there will never be a nuclaer test ban agreement. The United States is obviously concerned over this and has reason to believe the Russians are equally concerned. The last thing they want is nuclear weapons in the hand of the Red Chinese.

It's also generally believed that it would be easier to get China to go along with a test ban treaty, if one were already in effect.

Cuba increases the chances of an agreement, first because the Russians have set a semi-precedent for inspection by permitting U.S. inspection of Russian missiles on ships at sea; second, both sides came very close to atomic war during the Cuban crisis.

"Khrushchev looked down the gun barrel of atomic war during the Cuban crisis," said William Foster, the hard-working chief of the Arm Control and Disarmament Agency. "We believe he's just as anxious as we are to prevent such a war."

Note — Underground tests are practical for developing tactical nuclear weapons, but they could test and develop a fusion bomb. This is what we fear the smaller nations may eventually develop—a fusion bomb giving off tremendous expense of fissionable materials. A fusion bomb, however, would cost almost nothing. So far, no one has developed it; we hope no one ever will.

New Tax Laws Seen Puzzling U.S. Business

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It looks as if every dollar saved in federal taxes by a reduction in the tax rates of corporations will be offset by another dollar in increased expense due to new tax laws and regulations. American business may not choose to invest vast sums in plant and equipment when it cannot tell for another year or two just what extra levies are to be imposed by the so-called "tax reform" laws. The government's continuing policy of trying to make up through new tax rules and regulations what it permits corporations to save through a reduction of their tax rates from 52 to 47 per cent will interfere with planning in private business.

Take as one example of increased costs a proposed treasury regulation dealing with expense accounts. It has been widely proclaimed that the treasury plans to require a receipt for every expenditure of $10 or more when a salesman, for instance, takes to breakfast, lunch or dinner a customer or prospective customer or anyone else related to his business transactions. Even tips would have to be listed and a record kept.

Already the credit card clubs are advertising that they give receipts for meals and other services charged by their customers in participating restaurants and hotels. But what of the big percentage of persons who pay cash for their meals? Will they ask the restaurant and the waiter, too, to give them a signed receipt itemizing the payments made? One hotel manager in Chicago has just announced that he will provide tape recordings to help prove that the conversation was of a business nature, and he promises that one of his waiters will be a notary public to witness signatures on restaurant checks and other documents. Will a salesman have to make an affidavit that the man he lunched with is of help to him in business? Will a newspaperman, for example, have to swear that he got a news story or hoped to get information for publication from the government official whom he took to lunch? Can a taxpayer prove that all such expenses had a business purpose without asking the customer or news source to sign an affidavit or to testify in his behalf?

All of this extra record-keeping costs money. Every company will have to keep on file for years the receipts turned in by employes for every item of expenditure which they make as individuals in behalf of the company and for which they are reimbursed. Perhaps railroads will have to provide receipts at the ticket window when a buyer of rail transportation is on a business trip. Will taxi drivers also have to give receipts?

But the most uncertain factor is the coming demand by labor unions for increased wages. Certainly nobody who is realistic thinks for a moment that labor unions will sit idly by after corporate tax rates are reduced from 52 to 47 per cent. Labor will want its share. Some presidential commission will probably suggest "guidelines" to determine labor's proportion. Also, the AFL-CIO has announced that it will insist upon a 35-hour week without any reduction in wages. The unions are in a position, because of their monopoly power, to extort a substantial part of the money saved by the corporations through lower tax rates. This means that the companies will have to increase their prices in order to keep pace with rising costs and to avoid a further squeeze on profits.

It is significant, moreover, that expenditures by the federal government are not to be curtailed, and hence the annual deficits will continue to grow. Business will be faced with an inflationary trend in prices which, in turn, will hurt consumption.

Investments in new plant and equipment in America have stood still for many years now. The rate of profits as related to national output has steadily gone down. A high rate of unemployment continues. All this isn't because of a lack of money available to borrowers but because of a lack of confidence in the future earning power of American business, confronted as it has been by a political bloc in Congress which for years has been and continues to be anti-business.

It is confidence in the business outlook that is needed, and this will not be restored by increased government spending or by bigger deficits or by interference with American business operations in its efforts to earn money overseas in competition with foreign companies. Nor do complex tax rules and regulations and harassment of business through vague and conflicting antitrust suits offer any constructive help in building up the national economy.

The "profit squeeze" of today is directly the result of factors which the administration continues to ignore—among them the unsatisfactory wage-price relationships, the interference of the government in business, and the new threats of foreign competition.

The prospect is, therefore, that the country will encounter more recessions that alternate with mild upturns and will not experience a fundamental improvement in the over-all economy. Real prosperity will not be achieved until there is in power an administration and a Congress of the same party dedicated to the idea of developing the American economy along the lines of free enterprise and without tolerance of monopoly power by any group.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

CAPITOL BUILDING — The beautiful extension of the East front of the Capitol Building ostensibly was completed in time for the inauguration of President Kennedy in January, 1961. However, nearly two years later word has leaked out that the work is neither completed in fact nor fully paid for.

The reasons for the delay are obscure, but it is a fact that work on the multi-million dollar extension has not been finally accepted, and therefore the government is withholding some $500,000 in contract payments.

These facts came out as the result of a suit by a marble quarry to collect some $140,000 in payments for materials sold to a firm that did interior marble work on the extension.

The quarry wants its money, but the contractor says it won't pay until it, in turn, receives payment from the government. While the government isn't talking about the matter, there are indications that some final inspections must still be made before the money is disbursed.

MONEY — Despite the election outcome, both political parties find themselves in unusually poor financial condition. Party headquarters rely on campaign-time fervor to raise funds from the public, and things were going along pretty well in this department until the Cuban crisis.

Then, according to reports from the country, contributions fell off to a trickle. It appears that the public had little time for domestic politics when an international crisis was occupying their time and minds.

Both parties have whopping deficits and will have to make great efforts to keep their financial heads above water for the next two years. Then, things will take a turn for the better. There's nothing like a presidential election year to spring the public loose from some of those dollars for campaign purposes.

French Drying Up?

PARIS

Changes in French life and French thinking have been sweeping, vast, galvanic, and oddly stimulating in a thousand different ways in the last five years. (Five years, incidentally, is the magic number everyone uses to date the end of the old and the beginning of the new regimes in a dozen different fields.) Nowhere is this drastic and symbolic and really significant change in thinking more evident than in the change in French drinking habits and the whole concept of drink.

Five years ago, the French had (as they still have) the worst rate of alcoholism of any nation in the world. Still, many, many French doctors and most Frenchmen felt that there was no such disease as alcoholism, that the very thought of such a thing was a bit of Anglo-Saxon lunacy like bloodletting and the belief in witches. Five years ago, Alcoholics Anonymous was making great strides in every country in the world except France. France had AA chapters full of Americans, British, Australians, Swedes, and Irish, but without a single French member. Frenchmen with drinking problems occasionally drifted into AA meetings—but they drifted right out again. Even AA leaders were beginning to think that the French were too individualistic to be attracted ever by a group movement like AA.

But that's five years ago. Today Alcoholics Anonymous in France is loaded with Frenchmen, hundreds of them, and their number is growing every day. Mostly this is due to a remarkable book, originally a series of articles in France Soir, called "The Enemy In the Mouth" by Joseph Kessel, which put the message of AA for the first time in French terms and brought the French flocking in, pretty much the way Jack Alexander's article in the Saturday Evening Post performed the same service in the United States.

Today AA in France is not only flourishing with Frenchmen, but it's exceedingly French — the French bringing to sobriety their own dash, and passion, and gaiety and humor. French AA meetings are sparkling affairs. By virtue of his book, Kessel has become almost a patron saint of AA, although he himself is and always was a two-fisted drinker who is slightly embarrassed by all this adulation.

But the change in French thinking on drinking goes far deeper and wider than AA, representing almost a major change in the life and habits of the nation itself. For one thing, the whole idea five ago that drinking might be bad for you was anathema to a nation whose economy was so closely geared to the vineyards. It was economic heresy to suggest such a thing. Not any more.

Today France's economy, like ours, is geared to the automobile and heavy industry and consumer goods are making vast strides. The vines are important still, but not all that important. The French government under Mendes-France and still under de Gaulle is seriously concerned about the sapping effects of the high rate of alcoholism on French national energies. Store fronts rented by the National Committee for Defense Against Alcohol sprout with warnings: "Consumption of alcohol even lightly is very injurious to children — to their health for the rest of their lives," and "Sobriety and health are inseparable," or — and this one represents an enormous change in French thought on drinking—"One can ruin his health by alcohol without ever being drunk." Frenchmen had always felt that sane drinking was good for them. Many still do but doubts have begun to arise.

However, even deeper than these efforts by the French government and by groups like AA (and many other private groups) to combat alcoholism, there is a subtle and profound change in French life, a speeding up of activities, a shift in the emphasis of what life is for (and some of this change is not, I think, altogether a good thing), and this has changed the Frenchman from a leisurely wine-sipping esthete to a more dynamic individual who drinks Scotch or beer.

French young people don't drink much of anything (youth all over the world is bored with drinking) but they drink beer when they do drink alcohol. Actually, their favorite drink is coffee. In the cafes, wine, which provided 40 per cent of the income, has plummeted to less than 20 per cent in five years. I spoke the other day to Jean Cruse, whoa lives in the ancestral chauteau near Bordeaux and whose family has been producing Bordeaux wine for five generations.

"My grandfather," he told me, "never had a bottle of Scotch in the cellar because no one drank Scotch or even knew what it was. Today everyone drinks Scotch. If I were an American whisky-maker, I'd start thinking about introducing American whiskies — bourbon and rye here. The French are ready for them and the only reasons they don't drink them are because they don't know about them."

Peptic Ulcer On Increase Among Smallfry

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Peptic ulcer in children is on the increase. According to one authority, the condition is more common than diabetes and rheumatic fever among the smallfry. An upsurge of emotional problems appears to be the most logical explanation.

Dr. Margaret Prouty of Madison, Wis., and her colleague, Dr. Dorothy Oakley, diagnosed 34 new cases of ulcer in youngsters in the 12 month period ending March, 1961. All had X-ray evidence to prove it. Many had one parent with ulcer and, in one family, three children and both parents were afflicted.

Dr. Prouty says the majority in this series were intelligent children but they were perfectionists who "want everything just right." These boys and girls were highstrung and jittery as a rule, with strong needs for praise, appreciation, and love. The craters developed when there were personality clashes or other emotional problems.

One of the group was a 6½ year old boy who had been bothered for more than a year with abdominal distress. Hospitalization was advised when pain became more severe, awakening him at night. Stomach X-rays revealed an ulcer.

The lad came from a family where the mother was emotionally disturbed and the father insecure. He usually gave in to his wife's judgment, which was not as sound as his because she was riddled with fears. She blamed the father for the child's condition. The nurses in the hospital said the youngster was smart alecky and talked back frequently. Pain subsided but returned soon after he got home.

Dr. Prouty lost track of the family but was pleasantly surprised when the mother and son came to the office 8½ months later, calm and relaxed. The mother told of having developed a lung condition that required 2½ months of hospital care. The father took over at home and, for the first time, he and his son began to understand each other. They became friends and enjoyed doing things together. The child's ulcer healed, pain disappeared, and everyone was happy.

Studies have shown that the ulcer personality is not easily changed. There is a 50-50 chance that a duodenal ulcer beginning in childhood will erupt again in adulthood. Victims of this disease apparently have a stomach that overreacts to emotional upheavals. The pattern may be inherited because changes have been noted early in life, even though not every adult with ulcer tells of having been bothered along this line in childhood.

TOMORROW: Narcolepsy — attacks of sleep.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

An odd-ball came into a local radio station recently with a "singing dog" in tow. He explained, however, that the dog would only sing while his master was in the bathroom.

Used to just about everything by this time, studio executives obligingly stashed the man away in a hall bathroom — and, sure enough, the dog began to sing—or wail. That's when the lock on the bathroom door got stuck. By the time they got the door open, the dog's "singing" had been heard over a cooking program, and advice - to - young - mothers session, and a discussion about Henry Miller's "Tropic of Cancer."

Harlan Miller reports that the 14-year-old son of one of his colleagues has purchased a little black book for addresses and telephone numbers. On the outside, the lad, no blushing violet he, has confidently written "Volume One."

A North Carolina minister recalled visiting an old mountain woman in a primitive log cabin shortly after he had graduated from divinity school. She offered him a swig of homemade corn likker, but he told her he didn't drink. Then she produced some chewing tobacco, but he confessed he didn't chew.

"For Heaven's sake, I suppose!" gasped the old woman.

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

If you're tall and heavy, you can impress your world as a beautiful Valkyrie type by using these ten tips!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The woman who looks too tall and too heavy may look that way because she wears cute, "little girl," or frou-frou effects. Horizontal lines, round necks, collars and trimmings, contrasting belts, all-around pleated or yoked skirts and very long jackets also are errors she may have made that reveal her figure in most unflattering ways.

The statuesque beauty knows that only scantly-trimmed dresses, suits and coats designed with vertical and diagonal lines will become her. A favorite style of hers is a dress with medium-gored skirt and surplice bodice, because the vertical lines cut her girth and the diagonal line slices her height with both distinction and sophistication. She shuns round-looking handbags, jewelry and hats, and seeks out those that are angular in design and important in size and appearance. Her millinery is low-crowned and diagonally-brimmed and neither dinky nor outsized.

If you are tall and heavy, by copying her ways you'll gain in attractiveness and win more admiration. You'll gain even more if you take these ten tips:

1. Wear your clothes turned below mid-calf. 2. Hhave them fitted to avoid any bursting-at-the-seams look. 3. Adjust long sleeves to cover the wrist bones and short sleeves to extend just below the elbow. 4. Be sure that waistlines in garments are as long as your own. 5. Underline your clothes with a long-line corselet.

6. Eschew dreary and bright-bright colors; muted shades are for you.

7. Dress your hair with a diagonal part, close to the crown and slick all around.

8. Circumvent the mincing or the forceful in your actions; make all your movements light and lithesome. 9. Teach yourself the art of serenity. 10. Consider yourself a "fine figger of a woman." That's what you are!

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Praise be, come the first of the year there will be a sharp step-up in Hollywood production and among those putting three productions into the works is veteran producer Eddie Small.

First off, Eddie will do "Frankie and Johnny"—yes, yes, that sad old love saga of the man what done a girl wrong—and who do you think Eddie is after to play that heartbreaker?

Dean Martin, that's who, who certainly could belt out that tune til it's made to sound like new. There being nothing like dreaming big, Eddie also would like to get Natalie Wood as lovelorn Frankie. By way of proving there's nothing small about "Frankie and Johnny" except the producer's name, Eddie tells me he's planning to spend three million dollars on the picture.

With all the new theatres being built around the country, associates of all the pictures that are ready for market, are working night and day to sell their products.

J Lee Thompson, who directed "Guns of Navarone" and "Taras Bulba" is starting the day after Thanksgiving on a strenuous nine-city tour of "Bulba" and will speak to press representatives from more than 35 cities. The coast-to-coast tour will wind up in time for Lee to fly to Mexico to begin preparations on "The Mound Builders" with Yul Brynner as the star.

Yul isn't going to have much time to see that new baby daughter, recently born to Mrs. B. in Switzerland.

Hope Holiday, who almost won an Oscar for her role in "The Apartment," and was called upon again by Billy Wilder for a similar role in "Irma La Douce," is not as lucky in love as she is in her career. Hope says that she and handsome Roger Perry, who played Pat O'Brien's son in the TV series "Harrigan and Son," have called off their engagement. Hope was jealous of another girl and says she was foolish enough to quarrel with Roger about it.

She hasn't given back his ring—because she says—"I guess I still love him"—but still, she thinks that if Roger doesn't love her enough to forget the incident, then she'd better forget him.

"Mother always warned me not to fall in love with an actor," Hope says seriously.

Franchot Tone definitely is out of the cast of "Desire Under the Elms" in New York, which will open in January. The reason is poor health, and Franchot's friends are worried about him. However, even a well actor would have a time doing the difficult physical role in this play with Rip Torn.

Speaking of Rip, his girlfriend Geraldine Page, will now be able to see him open in the O'Neill play, since it has been postponed until after she completes her role in "Toys in the Attic" for the Mirisch Bros.

There's an amusing story about Tarita being excorted to the premiere of "Mutiny on the Bounty" by Rick Husky, former member of the MGM publicity staff. When she was asked who she would like to go to the big event with, Tarita immediately named Rick, but the agent had been dropped just a week before when the staff was cut. He and Tarita became friends while he acted as her guide around town,and he was flattered to return for the request.

Incidentally, they were busy in the wardrobe department at MGM the day of the premiere, stitching twelve new artificial flowers on Tarita's dress, because fans in New York ripped off the original ones. And to play it safe, a dozen additional posies were ordered in case they were needed at the San Francisco premiere next Wednesday.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

If you're tall and heavy, you can impress your world as a beautiful Valkyrie type by using these ten tips!

Secrets Of Charm

The woman who looks too tall and too heavy may look that way because she wears cute, "little girl," or frou-frou effects. Horizontal lines, round necks, collars and trimmings, contrasting belts, all-around pleated or yoked skirts and very long jackets also are errors she may have made that reveal her figure in most unflattering ways.

The statuesque beauty knows that only scantly-trimmed dresses, suits and coats designed with vertical and diagonal lines will become her. A favorite style of hers is a dress with medium-gored skirt and surplice bodice, because the vertical lines cut her girth and the diagonal line slices her height with both distinction and sophistication. She shuns round-looking handbags, jewelry and hats, and seeks out those that are angular in design and important in size and appearance. Her millinery is low-crowned and diagonally-brimmed and neither dinky nor outsized.

If you are tall and heavy, by copying her ways you'll gain in attractiveness and win more admiration. You'll gain even more if you take these ten tips:

1. Wear your clothes turned below mid-calf. 2. Hhave them fitted to avoid any bursting-at-the-seams look. 3. Adjust long sleeves to cover the wrist bones and short sleeves to extend just below the elbow. 4. Be sure that waistlines in garments are as long as your own. 5. Underline your clothes with a long-line corselet.

6. Eschew dreary and bright-bright colors; muted shades are for you.

7. Dress your hair with a diagonal part, close to the crown and slick all around.

8. Circumvent the mincing or the forceful in your actions; make all your movements light and lithesome. 9. Teach yourself the art of serenity. 10. Consider yourself a "fine figger of a woman." That's what you are!

Republican Club Elects Officers

GRANTSVILLE — Mrs. Christa Pratt, Kitzmiller, was elected president of the Garrett County Republican Women's Club following a covered dish dinner in the Grantsville fire hall.

Other officers are Mrs. Lewis Jones, Grantsville, first vice president; Mrs. Allen Baker, Grantsville, second vice president; Mrs. Richard Davis, Oakland, recording secretary; Mrs. Carl Harvey, McHenry, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Jackson Thomas, Oakland, treasurer.

Mrs. Martha Glotfelty, who became the first Garrett County woman to be elected to the Maryland Legislature, and Mrs. Vernie Smouse spoke.

Mrs. Ruby Evans presided at the business session following the dinner.

Minuteman Shot Is Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Minuteman missile of the type plagued in recent months by guidance problems, was launched today from an underground silo on a successful test flight of about 4,000 miles.

The Air Force reported the intercontinental-range missile performed as planned on a flight.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Praise be, come the first of the year there will be a sharp step-up in Hollywood production and among those putting three productions into the works is veteran producer Eddie Small.

First off, Eddie will do "Frankie and Johnny"—yes, yes, that sad old love saga of the man what done a girl wrong—and who do you think Eddie is after to play that heartbreaker?

Dean Martin, that's who, who certainly could belt out that tune til it's made to sound like new. There being nothing like dreaming big, Eddie also would like to get Natalie Wood as lovelorn Frankie. By way of proving there's nothing small about "Frankie and Johnny" except the producer's name, Eddie tells me he's planning to spend three million dollars on the picture.

With all the new theatres being built around the country, associates of all the pictures that are ready for market, are working night and day to sell their products.

J Lee Thompson, who directed "Guns of Navarone" and "Taras Bulba" is starting the day after Thanksgiving on a strenuous nine-city tour of "Bulba" and will speak to press representatives from more than 35 cities. The coast-to-coast tour will wind up in time for Lee to fly to Mexico to begin preparations on "The Mound Builders" with Yul Brynner as the star.

Yul isn't going to have much time to see that new baby daughter, recently born to Mrs. B. in Switzerland.

Hope Holiday, who almost won an Oscar for her role in "The Apartment," and was called upon again by Billy Wilder for a similar role in "Irma La Douce," is not as lucky in love as she is in her career. Hope says that she and handsome Roger Perry, who played Pat O'Brien's son in the TV series "Harrigan and Son," have called off their engagement. Hope was jealous of another girl and says she was foolish enough to quarrel with Roger about it.

She hasn't given back his ring—because she says—"I guess I still love him"—but still, she thinks that if Roger doesn't love her enough to forget the incident, then she'd better forget him.

"Mother always warned me not to fall in love with an actor," Hope says seriously.

Franchot Tone definitely is out of the cast of "Desire Under the Elms" in New York, which will open in January. The reason is poor health, and Franchot's friends are worried about him. However, even a well actor would have a time doing the difficult physical role in this play with Rip Torn.

Speaking of Rip, his girlfriend Geraldine Page, will now be able to see him open in the O'Neill play, since it has been postponed until after she completes her role in "Toys in the Attic" for the Mirisch Bros.

There's an amusing story about Tarita being excorted to the premiere of "Mutiny on the Bounty" by Rick Husky, former member of the MGM publicity staff. When she was asked who she would like to go to the big event with, Tarita immediately named Rick, but the agent had been dropped just a week before when the staff was cut. He and Tarita became friends while he acted as her guide around town,and he was flattered to return for the request.

Incidentally, they were busy in the wardrobe department at MGM the day of the premiere, stitching twelve new artificial flowers on Tarita's dress, because fans in New York ripped off the original ones. And to play it safe, a dozen additional posies were ordered in case they were needed at the San Francisco premiere next Wednesday.

The bidding:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♠ | Pass | 5 ◇ | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

Opening lead: Six of ♡

An ill-conceived double paved the way for a colossal swing in today's hand taken from a recent team-of-four match.

At one table, North opened the bidding with one spade, and his partner responded with five diamonds. South can win eight tricks in his own hand, and it is reasonable to play the opening bidder for three tricks.

West opened the six of hearts. East played the ace and returned a heart to partner's king. West shifted to a club and the defenders cashed out two more tricks in that suit to set the contract by two. The result appeared to be fairly normal, but events took a bizarre twist when the hand was replayed at the other table. There, the bidding proceeded as follows:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2 NT | Pass | 3 ◇ | Pass |
| 3 ♠ | Pass | 6 ◇ | Pass |
| Pass | Double | Pass | Pass |
| Pass | | | |

North was one point shy of the requirements for a two no trump opening, but his virtually solid five card suit provided a measure of compensation. Our vote with the South hand would be for an immediate response of six diamonds. There are many holdings partner might have where the slam would be a laydown, and a prolonged investigation may serve to alert the opposition to the best line of defense.

South's actual bid of three diamonds worked out to his eventual advantage in an odd way. North now showed his spade suit and, tho this did nothing to promote South's holding, the latter proceeded to contract for a small slam in diamonds.

East entered into the picture at this juncture by doubling, and to say that this was a most unfortunate gesture is putting it mildly indeed. According to convention the double of a slam bid by the player not on lead calls for the opening of the dummy's first bid suit, in this case spades. West dutifully opened the seven of spades, and after drawing trumps declarer was able to dispose of all four of his losers on North's high spades. Six diamonds doubled with an overtrick was worth 1,190 points and, with the set at the other table, netted declarer's team a total margin of 1,290 points on the deal.

In the absence of the double, West can lead either a heart or a club to produce a three trick set of the slam contract.

Evergreens Are Available

The district office of the State Department of Forests and Parks announces the availability of free evergreens to Maryland land owners.

District Forester W. A. C. Irwin announced that these seedlings are for reforestation and orders will be taken through this fall and winter for planting in late March or early April of 1963.

The minimum order is 250 or sufficient trees to plant one-quarter acre.

Utility Industry Planning Power Plant Construction

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A group of 18 public utilities yesterday announced a $350 million coordinated high-voltage transmission line and power plant construction program to serve more than 30 million people in 8 eastern states and the District of Columbia.

The program was termed one of the largest programs ever undertaken by the electric utility industry.

The program was announced by the companies of the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland Interconnection (PJM), by the Allegheny Power Systems (APS) and by Consolidated Edison of New York.

The construction will include more than 600 miles of new 500,000-volt transmission lines from near Wheeling, W. Va., to terminals near Philadelphia, in northern New Jersey and in Metropolitan New York; and construction of two nine-mouth power plants with a capacity of more than 2.1 million kilowatts near Johnstown, Pa., and near Morgantown, W. Va.

The transmission facilities and the first units of the power plants are scheduled for completion in 1967.

The companies announced that the lines will tie together major systems in the eastern mid-Atlantic area. One circuit will run east about 100 miles from a connection with the American Electric Power System near Wheeling to the new Morgantown plant and then to the new Johnstown plant.

Two circuits will go east from Johnstown, one to Philadelphia and the other to terminals in New York City and northern New Jersey. This will provide a transmission tie between the PJM pool and upstate New York and New England via Con Edison.

Announcement of the project was made at a meeting here of top executives of the utility companies involved.

"The new project has been studied for more than two years," R. G. Rincliffe, board chairman of Philadelphia Electric Co., said.

The Johnstown plant, to be known as the Keystone Electric Generating Station, will be a 1.6 million kilowatt power plant in the coal fields of Armstrong and Indiana counties in Pennsylvania and will be owned jointly by General Public Utilities Corp., Pennsylvania Power & Light Co., and Philadelphia Electric Co.

The APS plant near Morgantown will be a 500,000 kilowatt station on the Monongahela River and will be owned by the Monongahela Power Co., the Potomac Edison Co., and West Penn Power Co.

The utilities executives said that the program announced today "is only a small part of expansion plans for the future" which include investment of an estimated $42 billion in plant and equipment through 1970 and an additional $80 billion from 1960 to 1970.

Teenagers Set Off Fire Alarm

Two local teenagers are now a little bit wiser to the systems used by merchants to safeguard their property.

The pair was tinkering with the fire escape behind Rosenbaum's Store Saturday when unexpectedly the store's burglar alarm was set off.

As fate would have it, Police Officer Paul D. Malcom was nearby and saw the frightened young boys fleeing from the scene.

They were arrested and later released to their parents without charge.

The bidding:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♠ | Pass | 5 ◇ | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

Opening lead: Six of ♡

An ill-conceived double paved the way for a colossal swing in today's hand taken from a recent team-of-four match.

At one table, North opened the bidding with one spade, and his partner responded with five diamonds. South can win eight tricks in his own hand, and it is reasonable to play the opening bidder for three tricks.

West opened the six of hearts. East played the ace and returned a heart to partner's king. West shifted to a club and the defenders cashed out two more tricks in that suit to set the contract by two. The result appeared to be fairly normal, but events took a bizarre twist when the hand was replayed at the other table. There, the bidding proceeded as follows:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2 NT | Pass | 3 ◇ | Pass |
| 3 ♠ | Pass | 6 ◇ | Pass |
| Pass | Double | Pass | Pass |
| Pass | | | |

North was one point shy of the requirements for a two no trump opening, but his virtually solid five card suit provided a measure of compensation. Our vote with the South hand would be for an immediate response of six diamonds. There are many holdings partner might have where the slam would be a laydown, and a prolonged investigation may serve to alert the opposition to the best line of defense.

South's actual bid of three diamonds worked out to his eventual advantage in an odd way. North now showed his spade suit and, tho this did nothing to promote South's holding, the latter proceeded to contract for a small slam in diamonds.

East entered into the picture at this juncture by doubling, and to say that this was a most unfortunate gesture is putting it mildly indeed. According to convention the double of a slam bid by the player not on lead calls for the opening of the dummy's first bid suit, in this case spades. West dutifully opened the seven of spades, and after drawing trumps declarer was able to dispose of all four of his losers on North's high spades. Six diamonds doubled with an overtrick was worth 1,190 points and, with the set at the other table, netted declarer's team a total margin of 1,290 points on the deal.

In the absence of the double, West can lead either a heart or a club to produce a three trick set of the slam contract.

Evergreens Are Available

The district office of the State Department of Forests and Parks announces the availability of free evergreens to Maryland land owners.

District Forester W. A. C. Irwin announced that these seedlings are for reforestation and orders will be taken through this fall and winter for planting in late March or early April of 1963.

The minimum order is 250 or sufficient trees to plant one-quarter acre.

Utility Industry Planning Power Plant Construction

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A group of 18 public utilities yesterday announced a $350 million coordinated high-voltage transmission line and power plant construction program to serve more than 30 million people in 8 eastern states and the District of Columbia.

The program was termed one of the largest programs ever undertaken by the electric utility industry.

The program was announced by the companies of the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland Interconnection (PJM), by the Allegheny Power Systems (APS) and by Consolidated Edison of New York.

The construction will include more than 600 miles of new 500,000-volt transmission lines from near Wheeling, W. Va., to terminals near Philadelphia, in northern New Jersey and in Metropolitan New York; and construction of two nine-mouth power plants with a capacity of more than 2.1 million kilowatts near Johnstown, Pa., and near Morgantown, W. Va.

The transmission facilities and the first units of the power plants are scheduled for completion in 1967.

The companies announced that the lines will tie together major systems in the eastern mid-Atlantic area. One circuit will run east about 100 miles from a connection with the American Electric Power System near Wheeling to the new Morgantown plant and then to the new Johnstown plant.

Two circuits will go east from Johnstown, one to Philadelphia and the other to terminals in New York City and northern New Jersey. This will provide a transmission tie between the PJM pool and upstate New York and New England via Con Edison.

Announcement of the project was made at a meeting here of top executives of the utility companies involved.

"The new project has been studied for more than two years." R. G. Rincliffe, board chairman of Philadelphia Electric Co., said.

The Johnstown plant, to be known as the Keystone Electric Generating Station, will be a 1.6 million kilowatt power plant in the coal fields of Armstrong and Indiana counties in Pennsylvania and will be owned jointly by General Public Utilities Corp., Pennsylvania Power & Light Co., and Philadelphia Electric Co.

The APS plant near Morgantown will be a 500,000 kilowatt station on the Monongahela River and will be owned by the Monongahela Power Co., the Potomac Edison Co., and West Penn Power Co.

The utilities executives said that the program announced today "is only a small part of expansion plans for the future" which include investment of an estimated $42 billion in plant and equipment through 1970 and an additional $80 billion from 1960 to 1970.

Teenagers Set Off Fire Alarm

Two local teenagers are now a little bit wiser to the systems used by merchants to safeguard their property.

The pair was tinkering with the fire escape behind Rosenbaum's Store Saturday when unexpectedly the store's burglar alarm was set off.

As fate would have it, Police Officer Paul D. Malcom was nearby and saw the frightened young boys fleeing from the scene.

They were arrested and later released to their parents without charge.

Beall-LaSalle Game Tickets Now On Sale

Bonfire Set For Tomorrow

FROSTBURG — Reserved seat tickets for the annual Beall vs. LaSalle Turkey Day Game are now available at local business places, Joseph Martirano, assistant principal, announced yesterday.

In Frostburg, they may be purchased at Hill's Toy Store, Main Street; Smalls News Stand, Broadway, Hacks Recreation Center, East Main Street and at Beall High School.

The sale of general admission tickets will begin at Beall High School Office today; tickets will also be sold at the gate on Thanksgiving Day.

Game time will be 1:30 p.m., Thursday. A bonfire and parade will be held Wednesday to kindle the school spirit, Martirano said.

Half time entertainment will be provided by the Beall High School Band and directed by Frank Munson. Other highlights will include the crowning of Miss Dottie Ann O'Neal, football Queen XII, by Miss Dana Willets, last year's Queen.

Beall Students Prepare Turkey Day Float

The Student Council float committee at Beall High School survey some of the pom-poms being prepared to decorate the float for the Turkey Day game between Beall and LaSalle High Schools. Left to right are Peggy Morgan, Bob Baker, Ruth Ann Skidmore, chairman, and Carol Filer. Council representatives on the float will be Peggy Morgan, student council, Ruth Ann Skidmore, Ushers Club; Wanda Miller, Nurses Club; Milburn Ziler, Varsity Club; Linda Leptic, Science Club; Edna Kenney, Sports Club; Helen Morgan, Dramatics Club; Carlinda McKenzie, Tri-Hi-Y; Donald Carpenter, Hi-Y, and Sandra Broadwater, Poster Club. The float will be displayed during bon-fire ceremonies tomorrow.

Clothing Pickup Gets Underway In Frostburg

FROSTBURG — The annual Thanksgiving clothing collection began Sunday in Saint Michael's parish, and will continue until November 25. Parishioners are asked to contribute clean, usable clothing and blankets for shipment to the needy overseas. Shoes, in good condition of low-heeled practical types may also be contributed.

Articles are to be brought to the rear door of Saint Michael's Hall any day this week from noon until 5 p.m. and from 7 until 9 in the evening, excepting Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, when the hall will be closed.

Saint Michael's Catholic Church will sponsor a public social in the parish hall Friday at 8 p.m.

The annual Memorial Mass for deceased members of Frostburg Council 1442, Knights of Columbus, will be celebrated Sunday at 7:30 a.m. in Saint Michael's Church. Members of the K. of C. will receive Holy Communion in a body.

Kiwanis Officer Training Session Held In Romney

KEYSER — A training conference for officers of the Fifth Division, West Virginia District of Kiwanis, was held Sunday in the Potomac Light and Power Company's conference room at Romney under the supervision of Lt. Gov.-elect Charles Rennix, Keyser.

Guest speakers were Dr. James Moler, Charles Town, international trustee, who outlined the "Theme and Programs of Service for 1963;" Dr. Roy Harman, Petersburg, past lieutenant governor, who spoke on "Duties of Your Kiwanis Club to the Community," and John Helton, Martinsburg, district governor, who gave a summary of the conference.

Instructors included Lt. Gov. Earle Bush, Petersburg, "Duties of Presidents;" Past Lt. Gov. Charles Printz, Charles Town, "Duties of Vice Presidents;" Past Lt. Gov. A. K. VanScoy, Keyser, "Duties of Club Secretary and Treasurer", and Past Lt. Gov. Thomas Sites, Petersburg, "Duties of the Board of Directors and Committee Chairmen."

The program opened with the singing of "America" and the pledge of allegiance, after which Rev. John Bird, a member of the Petersburg club, gave the invocation. Rennix outlined purposes of the gathering and later announced the district and divisional goals for 1963.

Announcement was made that the West Virginia District of Kiwanis will host the centennial train as it makes its way through this section next spring.

The train will be comprised of eight exhibition cars, facility coach and engine.

Discussion was also held on future activities including a divisional meeting of Key clubs in Keyser December 2; mid-winter conference to be held in Charleston and Clarksburg in January; district Key Club convention scheduled at Blackwater Falls; district Circle K convention to be held on the Potomac State College campus; International convention in Atlantic City next June 30-July 4, and the district convention at Charleston in September.

Route 40 Unit Maps Projects

FROSTBURG—Mrs. Otis Kamp presided at a recent meeting of the Route 40 Homemakers Club.

Plans were made for a Christmas party. A covered dish dinner will be served with a jingle party to follow. Each member is asked to bring a $1 jingle gift.

Mrs. Harry Edwards showed the group a braided rug which she completed, and it was decided to conduct a rug braiding class the first of next year for interested members.

Mrs. Joseph Kooser shared Christmas decorations with members. Guests included Mrs. Peter Broadwater, Mrs. Harry Edwards, Mrs. Clara Crowe and Mrs. John Kooser.

Physical Fitness Meeting Nov. 28 At Oakland

The Garrett County Commission on Physical Fitness will have its regular meeting at the Southern High School in Oakland on Wednesday evening, November 28, 1962, at 7:30 p.m.

Paul J. Hoffman, executive director, and Dr. Leo Klein, administrative assistant of the state commission on physical fitness, will attend this meeting.

They will explain the inter-relationship of the county, state and cooperating agencies in a total fitness program.

Mr. Hoffman will review the objectives of the state commission and the successful programs and projects being carried on by the county commissions throughout the state.

The state commission's 11-point program and the recommendations made in weekly bulletins to county commissions will also be on the agenda.

Homemakers Meet In Shaft

FROSTBURG — The Shaft Homemakers Club observed Achievement Day with a covered dish supper in John Kerr Fellowship Hall at Shaft Methodist Church. The Thanksgiving motif was carried out in the color scheme and favors.

Mrs. Clarence Miller demonstrated several jewelry boxes and Mrs. Della Wade submitted a report on achievements of the group during the past year. Group singing was led by Mrs. Henry Rank.

Mrs. Charles Harvey, president, announced that the annual Christmas dinner will be held December 13 at 7 p. m. in Nave's Dining Room, Cumberland. Reservations must be made with Mrs. Bessie McKenzie by December 10.

Mrs. Walter Brennan, of Wisconsin, was a guest at the dinner.

Legion Essay Contest Plans Are Revealed

WESTERNPORT — "The Role Maryland Has Played in Our National History" will be the theme of the essay contest being sponsored by the Maryland Department of the American Legion.

Mrs. Mary Fazenbaker, president of Victory Post Unit Auxiliary, will serve as local chairman for the contest and will distribute the rules to the schools interested in participating.

The fall conference of the Department Auxiliary was held at Baltimore on Saturday. Mrs. Owen Rhodes, Mrs. Alleda Collins, Mrs. Marie Lyons and Mrs. Lillian Watson attended.

Plans were made by the Victory Unit to serve a Christmas dinner to the members of Court Sancta Maria 485, Catholic Daughters of America, at a date to be selected.

Mrs. Vivian McKenzie reported on the Mountain District meeting held in Frostburg. Seven members of the unit attended.

A Christmas jingle party will follow the next meeting of the unit. The Junior members and the girls who attended Girl's State will be guests. The girls will give their report on the citizenship course.

Frostburg Man Promoted By Aviation Firm

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Gus Harris, 60 Broadway, have received word that their son Nick Harris has been appointed maintenance superintendent of the plant of the Republic Aviation Corporation, Farmington, N. Y. His appointment became effective November 16.

Mr. Harris is a former resident of Frostburg and is married to the former Miss Jane Bowen, Mt. Savage. They have four daughters.

Formerly employed at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company Works 7 as job order supervisor, he joined Republic in May of 1961 as maintenance control supervisor, the position he held until promoted.

In his new position Harris will be responsible for the 500 man maintenance organization charged with all plant mechanical, electrical and related maintenance functions.

Republic Aviation produces the all weather fighter bomber F-105 and is presently entering the space race in missile and space work. Republic currently has a total of 17,000 employes.

Beall-LaSalle Game Tickets Now On Sale

Bonfire Set For Tomorrow

FROSTBURG — Reserved seat tickets for the annual Beall vs. LaSalle Turkey Day Game are now available at local business places, Joseph Martirano, assistant principal, announced yesterday.

In Frostburg, they may be purchased at Hill's Toy Store, Main Street; Smalls News Stand, Broadway, Hacks Recreation Center, East Main Street and at Beall High School.

The sale of general admission tickets will begin at Beall High School Office today; tickets will also be sold at the gate on Thanksgiving Day.

Game time will be 1:30 p.m., Thursday. A bonfire and parade will be held Wednesday to kindle the school spirit, Martirano said.

Half time entertainment will be provided by the Beall High School Band and directed by Frank Munson. Other highlights will include the crowning of Miss Dottie Ann O'Neal, football Queen XII, by Miss Dana Willets, last year's Queen.

Beall Students Prepare Turkey Day Float

The Student Council float committee at Beall High School survey some of the pom-poms being prepared to decorate the float for the Turkey Day game between Beall and LaSalle High Schools. Left to right are Peggy Morgan, Bob Baker, Ruth Ann Skidmore, chairman, and Carol Filer. Council representatives on the float will be Peggy Morgan, student council, Ruth Ann Skidmore, Ushers Club; Wanda Miller, Nurses Club; Milburn Ziler, Varsity Club; Linda Leptic, Science Club; Edna Kenney, Sports Club; Helen Morgan, Dramatics Club; Carlinda McKenzie, Tri-Hi-Y; Donald Carpenter, Hi-Y, and Sandra Broadwater, Poster Club. The float will be displayed during bon-fire ceremonies tomorrow.

Southern Cal Again Heads UPI Poll

Ole Miss Grabs Second Position From Alabama

Crimson Tide Falls To Sixth Following Loss

By JOE SARGIS
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rose Bowl bound Southern California, needing only two more victories to gain its first perfect - record season in 20 years, solidified its grip as the nation's No. 1 major college football team Monday in the United Press International board of coaches ratings.

The Trojans, one of only three perfect-record major college teams in the nation, gained the top spot in the UPI ratings a week ago in a close race with Alabama. With only two weeks remaining before the crowning of the national champion, Southern California was named No. 1 this week by 21 of the 35 coaches who comprise the UPI rating board.

Ole Miss Second

Mississippi, like Southern California unbeaten and untied through eight games, moved past Alabama into second place this week on the strength of 8 first-place votes. Alabama, the defending national champion, apparently dropped out of contention for the title following a 7-6 loss to Georgia Tech last Saturday.

Wisconsin, Southern California's opponent in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day, also advanced at Alabama's expense, missing second place by a scant 14 points. The Badgers drew five first-place votes.

Positions in the top 10 are determined on a basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 points for votes from first through 10th. Thus, Southern California drew a total of 323 points, 12 more than a week ago when the Trojans were picked No. 1 by 16 coaches. Every single coach on the board voted for Southern California this week, none picking the Trojans lower than fifth.

Mississippi, which took undisputed possession of the Southeastern Conference lead by beating Tennessee, 19-6, and gained the inside track for a Sugar Bowl berth, had 284 points, and Wisconsin, which boosted its season record to 7-1 by beating Illinois, 35-6, had 270.

Alabama Slips

Texas (8-0-1) which can clinch the Southwest Conference title and an automatic berth in the Cotton Bowl by beating or tying Texas A&M on Thanksgiving Day, advanced a notch to fourth place. Minnesota (6-1-1) was fifth, Alabama slipped to sixth, Arkansas (8-1) was seventh, Louisiana State (7-1-1) was eight, Penn State (8-1) vaulted from 12th to ninth and Oklahoma (6-2) advanced from a 16th place tie to 10th.

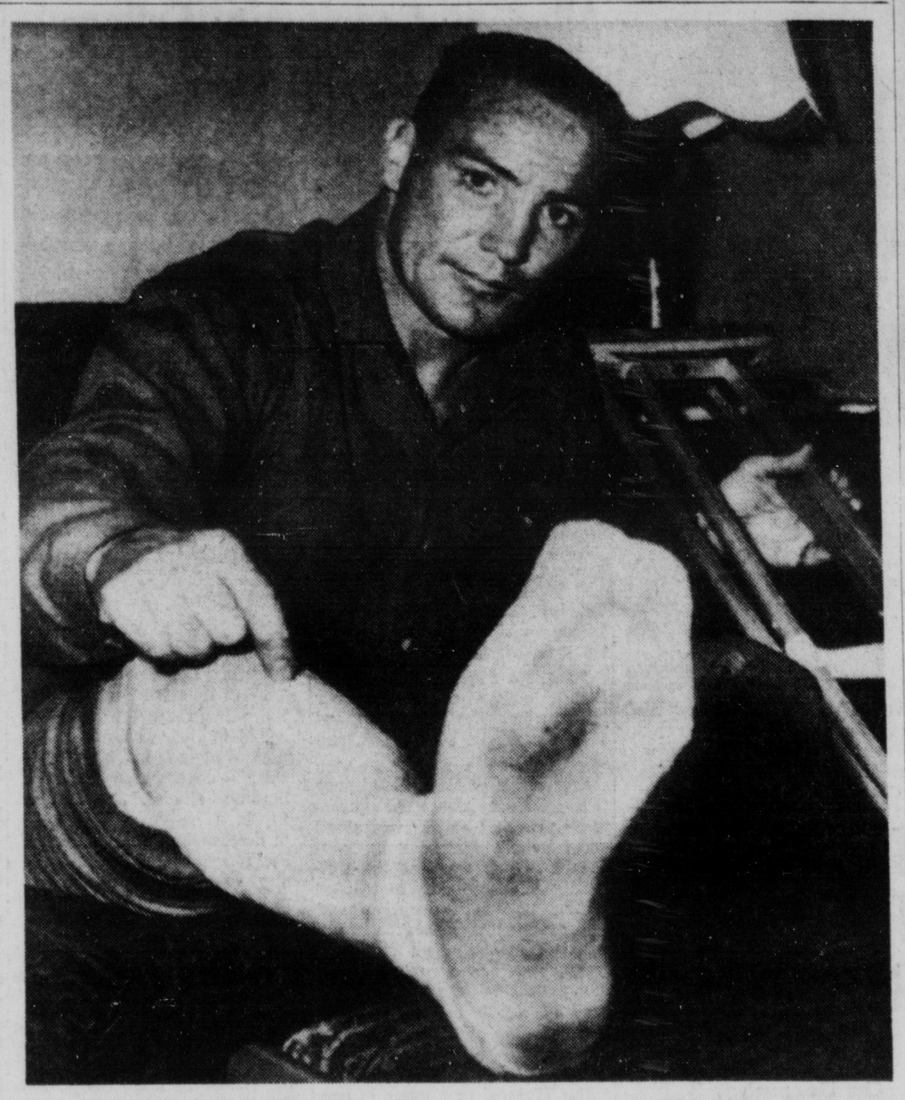

Making room for Penn State, which received one first-place vote and Oklahoma were Missouri and Northwestern. Missouri bowed to Oklahoma, 13-0, and Northwestern was routed by Michigan State, 31-7.

This week, Southern California tangles with arch-rival UCLA in the 32nd renewal of the crosstown (Los Angeles) series. Then, the Trojans wind up the 1962 season on Dec. 1 against Notre Dame.

The big game this week involving the top 10 schools will be played at Madison, Wis., with Wisconsin hosting Minnesota. In the other games, Arkansas plays Texas Tech, LSU meets Tulane, Penn State plays Pittsburgh and Oklahoma meets Nebraska in a showdown game for the Big Eight lead. Alabama is idle and then winds up play the following week against Auburn.

| Team | Points |
|---|---|
| 1. Southern Calif. 21 8-0 | 323 |
| 2. Mississippi 8 8-0 | 284 |
| 3. Wisconsin 5 7-1 | 270 |
| 4. Texas 8-0-1 | 244 |
| 5. Minnesota 6-1-1 | 171 |
| 6. Alabama 8-1 | 149 |
| 7. Arkansas 8-1 | 124 |
| 8. Louisiana State 7-1-1 | 96 |
| 9. Penn State 1 8-1 | 76 |
| 10. Oklahoma 6-2 | 56 |

Second 10-11, Washington 45; 12, Nebraska 27; 13, Georgia Tech 22; 14, Missouri 14; 15 tie, Arizona State, Michigan State and Ohio State 10 each; 18, Duke 7; 19, Purdue 5; 20, Northwestern 2.

HOPALONG LIVES UP TO HIS NAME — Howard (Hopalong) Casady, Philadelphia Eagles end, nurses a compound fracture of the right tibia he received yesterday in a National Football League game. ## Bednarik Blames Eagles' Collapse On Jurgensen

Lineman Says Coach Is Being Made Scapegoat

By NORMAN MILLER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chuck Bednarik, pro football's "lineman of the decade," Monday placed the blame for the Philadelphia Eagles' collapse this season largely on the shoulders of quarterback Sonny Jurgensen.

At the same time, Bednarik, who said that this is "absolutely" his last season of pro football, maintained that coach Nick Skorich "is being made the scapegoat" of the disastrous season in Philadelphia. The Eagles, who won the National League championship in 1960, have won only one game and tied one in 10 starts.

Bednarik's sentiments were frankly expressed in a question-and-answer session at the regular Monday lunch meeting of the pro football quarterbacks' club of New York.

Jurgensen's Worst Season

"I hate to say this," Bednarik apologized after explaining the extent to which injuries and retirement had hurt the Eagles. "But our quarterback is enjoying his worst year ever. And that has killed us."

Someone asked the Eagles' 37-year-old linebacker and center whether Jurgensen was hampered by the shoulder injury he suffered last January in the playoff bowl at Miami.

"His shoulder is about 90 per cent healed," Bednarik replied. "He may have other problems and of course, if he has, that is his business.

"But the coach (Skorich) is being made the scapegoat and I hate to see him suffer," Bednarik said with feeling. "Greasy Neale was the greatest coach I ever played for and Skorich is second only to him. He treats me like a rookie. He shows no partiality to anyone."

Earlier this season there were reports of dissension on the Eagles These reports said the Eagles' pass receivers were angry at Jurgensen for throwing excessively to Tommy McDonald and ignoring other targets. Jurgensen and McDonald have a radio sports show in Philadelphia.

Gets Lineman Award

Bednarik has been voted pro football's "lineman of the decade" in a national poll. He and 11 other honored athletes from 10 different sports will receive their decade awards at an all-sports banquet in New York next Monday for the benefit of the health of retarded children.

In his entertaining talk to the Monday Quarterbacks gathering, Bednarik said:

"I have played 14 years and I'm counting the games that are left this season. Four, Three, two, one, and then I'm hanging up my shoes. I've had it. I know, I've said this for several years, but I've never been more sincere in my life." I told my wife the other day, I've played one year too long as it is. The pay has been good, though.

"There are two ways I never wanted to go out," he continued. "One was with an injury. The other was with a poor team. I hate to quit on such a poor season."

BEARING DOWN

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers have played one another more times than any two teams in the National Football League. In their long series, dating back to 1921, the Bears have won 50 games, the Packers 30 and 6 ended in ties.

NO-HITTER

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Lon Warneke of the St. Louis Cardinals pitched the only major league no-hitter in 1941, beating the Cincinnati Reds, 2-0, on Aug. 30.

BEAR IS BEST

CHICAGO (UPI) — Fullback Ernie Nevers set the all-time National Football League single-game record by scoring 40 points for the Chicago Bears in a 1932 game.

Southern Cal Again Heads UPI Poll

Crimson Tide Falls To Sixth Following Loss

By JOE SARGIS
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rose Bowl bound Southern California, needing only two more victories to gain its first perfect - record season in 20 years, solidified its grip as the nation's No. 1 major college football team Monday in the United Press International board of coaches ratings.

The Trojans, one of only three perfect-record major college teams in the nation, gained the top spot in the UPI ratings a week ago in a close race with Alabama. With only two weeks remaining before the crowning of the national champion, Southern California was named No. 1 this week by 21 of the 35 coaches who comprise the UPI rating board.

Ole Miss Second

Mississippi, like Southern California unbeaten and untied through eight games, moved past Alabama into second place this week on the strength of 8 first-place votes. Alabama, the defending national champion, apparently dropped out of contention for the title following a 7-6 loss to Georgia Tech last Saturday.

Wisconsin, Southern California's opponent in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day, also advanced at Alabama's expense, missing second place by a scant 14 points. The Badgers drew five first-place votes.

Positions in the top 10 are determined on a basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 points for votes from first through 10th. Thus, Southern California drew a total of 323 points, 12 more than a week ago when the Trojans were picked No. 1 by 16 coaches. Every single coach on the board voted for Southern California this week, none picking the Trojans lower than fifth.

Mississippi, which took undisputed possession of the Southeastern Conference lead by beating Tennessee, 19-6, and gained the inside track for a Sugar Bowl berth, had 284 points, and Wisconsin, which boosted its season record to 7-1 by beating Illinois, 35-6, had 270.

Alabama Slips

Texas (8-0-1) which can clinch the Southwest Conference title and an automatic berth in the Cotton Bowl by beating or tying Texas A&M on Thanksgiving Day, advanced a notch to fourth place, Minnesota (6-1-1) was fifth, Alabama slipped to sixth, Arkansas (8-1) was seventh, Louisiana State (7-1-1) was eight, Penn State (8-1) vaulted from 12th to ninth and Oklahoma (6-2) advanced from a 16th place tie to 10th.

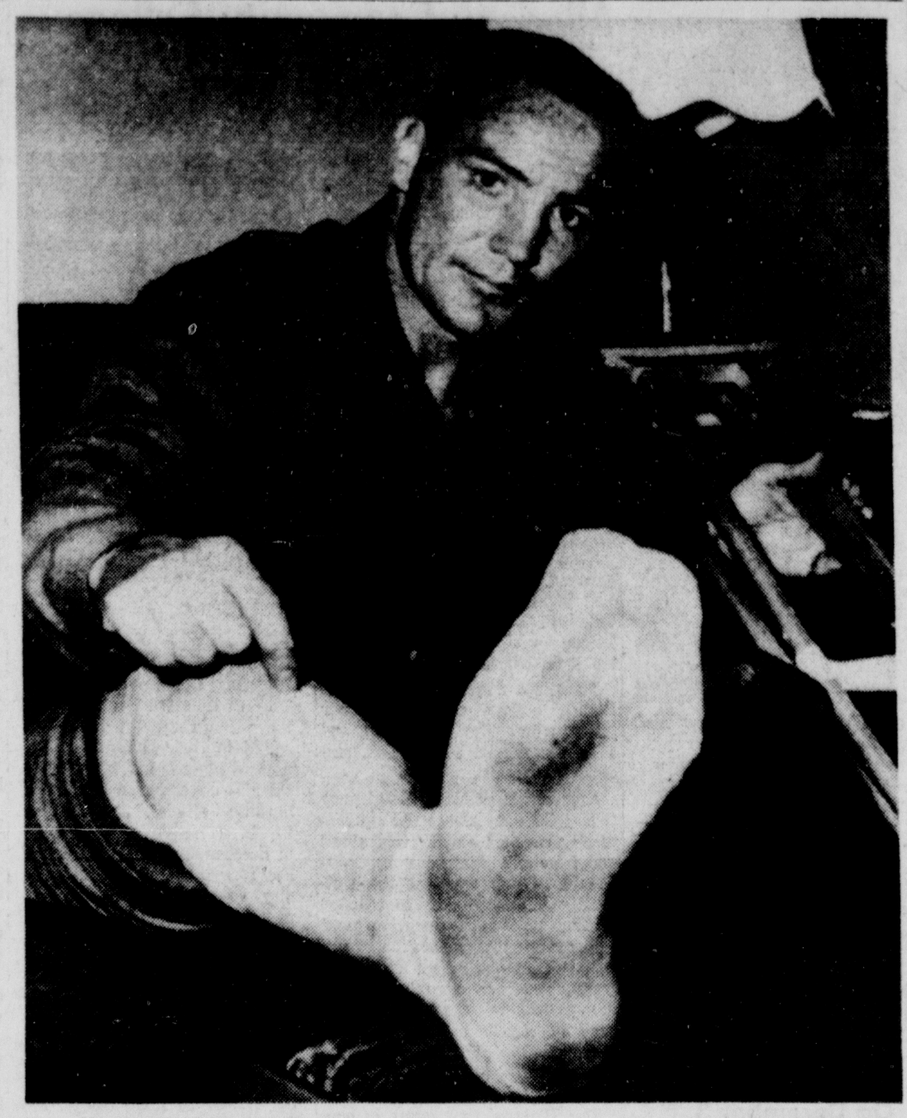

Making room for Penn State, which received one first-place vote and Oklahoma were Missouri and Northwestern. Missouri bowed to Oklahoma, 13-0, and Northwestern was routed by Michigan State, 31-7.

This week, Southern California tangles with arch-rival UCLA in the 32nd renewal of the crosstown (Los Angeles) series. Then, the Trojans wind up the 1962 season on Dec. 1 against Notre Dame.

The big game this week involving the top 10 schools will be played at Madison, Wis., with Wisconsin hosting Minnesota. In the other games, Arkansas plays Texas Tech, LSU meets Tulane, Penn State plays Pittsburgh and Oklahoma meets Nebraska in a showdown game for the Big Eight lead. Alabama is idle and then winds up play the following week against Auburn.

| Team | Points |
|---|---|
| 1. Southern Calif. 21 8-0 | 323 |
| 2. Mississippi 8 8-0 | 284 |
| 3. Wisconsin 5 7-1 | 270 |
| 4. Texas 8-0-1 | 244 |
| 5. Minnesota 6-1-1 | 171 |
| 6. Alabama 8-1 | 149 |
| 7. Arkansas 8-1 | 124 |
| 8. Louisiana State 7-1-1 | 96 |
| 9. Penn State 1 8-1 | 78 |
| 10. Oklahoma 6-2 | 56 |

Second 10-11, Washington 45; 12, Nebraska 27; 13, Georgia Tech 22; 14, Missouri 14; 15 tie, Arizona State, Michigan State and Ohio State 10 each; 18, Duke 7; 19, Purdue 5; 20, Northwestern 2.

Bednarik Blames Eagles' Collapse On Jurgensen

Lineman Says Coach Is Being Made Scapegoat

By NORMAN MILLER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chuck Bednarik, pro football's "lineman of the decade," Monday placed the blame for the Philadelphia Eagles' collapse this season largely on the shoulders of quarterback Sonny Jurgensen.

At the same time, Bednarik, who said that this is "absolutely" his last season of pro football, maintained that coach Nick Skorich "is being made the scapegoat" of the disastrous season in Philadelphia. The Eagles, who won the National League championship in 1960, have won only one game and tied one in 10 starts.

Bednarik's sentiments were frankly expressed in a question-and-answer session at the regular Monday lunch meeting of the pro football quarterbacks' club of New York.

Jurgensen's Worst Season

"I hate to say this," Bednarik apologized after explaining the extent to which injuries and retirement had hurt the Eagles. "But our quarterback is enjoying his worst year ever. And that has killed us."

Someone asked the Eagles' 37-year-old linebacker and center whether Jurgensen was hampered by the shoulder injury he suffered last January in the playoff bowl at Miami.

"His shoulder is about 90 per cent healed," Bednarik replied. "He may have other problems and of course, if he has, that is his business.

"But the coach (Skorich) is being made the scapegoat and I hate to see him suffer," Bednarik said with feeling. "Greasy Neale was the greatest coach I ever played for and Skorich is second only to him. He treats me like a rookie. He shows no partiality to anyone."

Pirates Trade Dick Groat To St. Louis For Cardwell And Gotay

Pitcher Olivo Also Goes To Cards In Deal

Pittsburgh Makes Move To Bolster Pitching Staff

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Baseball Cardinals announced Monday they obtained Dick Groat, captain of the Pittsburgh Pirates and 1960 National League batting champion and most valuable player, in a four-player trade.

The Cardinals, who needed batting power and a seasoned infielder, got shortstop Groat and pitcher Diomedes Olivo in exchange for shortstop Julio Gotay and pitcher Don Cardwell.

Pirate General Manager Joe L. Brown said in Pittsburgh, "We regret losing Groat. But we are getting a great potential ballplayer in Cardwell. I feel we are strengthening our pitching staff."

Satisfaction with the deal was also stated by Card General Manager Bing Devine, who said Groat "has the experience and the skill we've needed. I'm sure he'll be a steadying influence on Julian Javier (second baseman) and add a lot of life and leadership to our infield."

Johnny Keane Pleased

Cardinal Manager Johnny Keane, speaking at his home in Houston, Tex., backed Devine's comment about Groat and added:

"He's one of the best in the league at handling the bat. He's as good as anyone in baseball in the No. 2 spot in the batting order. He can go to the opposite field, he can pull, he can hit and run as well as anyone and he can bunt. He's a real leader in every way."

Groat, 32, was one of the league's top hitters last year with a .294 average compared to Gotay, 23, who hit .255. Groat was captain of the Pirates and the league's most valuable player in 1960 when his team won the world's championship.

Groat last year hit two home runs and batted in 61 runs while Gotay also hit two home runs and drove in 27 runs.

Groat said in Pittsburgh: "I had no intention of ever wanting to be traded. But I said as late as last night at a banquet that if I was to be traded and if I had my choice, I would pick St. Louis."

Groat said he was playing golf when "one of the boys came out on the 12th hole from the clubhouse and told me to call my wife. She said I was to call Mr. Brown. I told the boys then that I had been traded. I had that feeling."

Brown Backs Schofield

Brown said, "We feel that we have had a ball player languishing on the bench for too many years in Dick Schofield. He will be the No. 1 candidate for the shortstop job this spring but we are not going to hand him the job."

He said Gotay will be fighting for the job, also.

Cardwell was recently acquired from the Chicago Cubs along with George Altman and Moe Thacker in exchange for pitchers Larry Jackson and Lindy McDaniel and catcher Jim Schaffer.

Cardwell had a 7-16 record and a 4.91 earned run average for Chicago last year. He pitched 196 innings, struck out 103 and walked 62 in 39 appearances. The right-hander will be 27 next month.

Olivo, about 40 years old, was a rookie last year and had a 5-1 record. He struck out 66 and walked 25 and had a 2.79 earned run average.

Pittsburgh finished last season in fourth place and the Cards finished in sixth.

Favored Spartans Defeated, 49-53

NEW YORK (AP) — Villanova, which has won just about everything else in the East in the past decade, finally added the IC4A cross country championship Monday, edging favored Michigan State 49-53 in the University division.

This was the one major title the Wildcats never had been able to win in the past.

Ex-Marine Vic Zwolak, who won the 5-mile grind over the Van Cortlandt Park trail, and runner-up Pat Traynor were the big men in the Villanova triumph.

Zwolak, the IC4A indoor mile champion, covered the journey in 24 minutes, 47.3 seconds, the fastest clocking since the course was re-surveyed three years ago. It was a two-man race all the way. When the 166 starters in the long trek answered the gun, Zwolak and Traynor stepped out front.

They ran neck and neck until the 4-mile mark when Zwolak opened the throttle. Traynor could not keep up and at the end was a good 200 yards behind.

They were timed in an identical 14:41.9 for 3 miles.

The other Villanova scorers were Dave Hylan, 10th; Owen McGuire, 16th, and Tom Sullivan, 20th.

Sullivan, who ran a 4:03.5 mile as an 18-year-old schoolboy two years ago, won the freshman race last year and was one of the favorites. He was close for 3 miles but then faded.

For Michigan State, which had won the title five of the past six years, Jan Bowen was the leading finisher in seventh place. Then came Roger Humberger, eighth; Don Castle, ninth; Mike Kaines, 12th, and Bob Fulcher, 17th.

Notre Dame was third in the team race with 147 points, followed by Seton Hall with 170 and Georgetown with 187.

Howard Deardorff of Penn State was third behind Traynor and making up ground fast when he hit the tape in 25:42. Bill Cark of Notre Dame was fourth and Bob Mack of Yale was fifth.

Paul Minehan of LaSalle in Philadelphia won the college division race in 26:28.9, finishing 200 yards in front of Ray Jernigan of Delaware. Maine was the team winner with 67 points to 74 for Colgate.

Terrapins Prepare For Final Contest

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—The University of Maryland football team held a light workout Monday in preparation for its final game of the season Saturday against Virginia at Byrd Stadium here.

Coach Tom Nugent had his offensive units running through their paces, while the offense mapped its strategy against Virginia plays as they were run by the second string.

Maryland has lost four of their last five games and now are 5-4 for the season over all and 4-2 in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Arkansas Players Prefer Sugar Bowl

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI)—University of Arkansas football players went on record Monday as preferring the Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans Jan. 1 over other bowls if Texas wins the right to represent the Southwest Conference in the Cotton Bowl.

Razorback sports publicist Bob Cheyne said, however, all bowls were being asked not to send invitations to Arkansas until after the Texas-Texas A&M game at Austin Thursday.

Cheyne said the varsity players met with Coach Frank Broyles at noon Monday to discuss the entire bowl situation.

Sonny Liston Will Move From Philly To Chicago

Champion Has Purchased Home In Windy City

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—World heavyweight champion Sonny Liston who had brushes with the Philadelphia police on at least three occasions, will move this week from Philadelphia to Chicago, a close friend disclosed Monday night.

Big Sonny is scheduled to fly to Chicago Tuesday and complete the purchase of a home there, already selected.

When the close friend was asked if Sonny is shifting to Chicago because of alleged "harrassment" by Philadelphia police, the friend replied:

"I wouldn't say that. I'd say Sonny has become very fond of Chicago. He won the title there and the people in Chicago treated him just wonderful."

The Listons, who have no children, will move into their new Chicago home this weekend, the friend said, but he declined "for the time being" to divulge the location of the Chicago home.

Liston and his friends claimed last Oct. 5 that he was being harrassed by the Philadelphia police after he was picked up that night by a guard in Fairmont Park. The guard charged that Liston's automobile had sideswiped another car and that Liston's slow driving speed of only 15 miles an hour and alcohol fumes on his breath indicated he had been drinking. Sonny was released after promising to pay for repairs on the other auto.

In 1961 Liston was arrested in Philadelphia for disorderly conduct when he refused to quit "loitering" on a street corner, and later for impersonating a policeman while driving through a park. Both charges were dismissed.

Something New Added To Annual Turkey Day Tilt

Something new will be added this year to the already colorful football classic between Allegany and Fort Hill at the Stadium on Thanksgiving Day. For the first time, starting players from both teams will be introduced individually.

When the two opponents return to the field following their pregame warmups, they will be met by their respective school bands.

Fort Hill, the visiting team this year, will be introduced first. The Sentinel players will be introduced by position and will station themselves on the forty-yard line at the north end of the field.

After all of Fort Hill's regular players have been introduced over the Stadium public address system, Allegany players will be called and will line up on the forty at the south end of the gridiron.

Players who are considered regulars on both offense and defense will be introduced.

UFL Capitols Have Had It

COLUMBUS (UPI) — United Football League Commissioner George T. Gareff said Monday the Columbus Capitols had been dropped from the professional loop and would not play their last game of the season against Grand Rapids this weekend.

Gareff said numerous injuries to key players, including quarterback Larry Cline, made the withdrawal necessary.

"Because of the numerous players who are unable to dress for the coming game, it is impossible for Columbus to field a representative squad," he said.

"Since the league is operating the Columbus franchise, it puts my office in the difficult position of making trades with other teams and this situation is inconsistent with the commissioner's office. Therefore, the league owners have supported my intention of dropping Columbus from the league."

Last week the Louisville Raiders suspended operations. Since both Grand Rapids and Indianapolis, to have met the Raiders this weekend, are tied for the UFL Western Division lead with 8-3 records, the loop voted unanimously to schedule these teams with each other this weekend.

COURT TO COACH

BOSTON (UPI)—Former Boston Celtics Johnny Bach, Joe Mullaney, Howie Shannon, Bob Donham, Bones McKinney and Ernie Barrett are college basketball coaches.

Twenty-Three Teams Enter Rec Leagues

Play To Begin On December 3

Twenty-three teams will participate in the two City Recreation Department-sponsored leagues this year — a record number of 14 in the high school division and nine in the men's league.

Play in both leagues will begin on Monday, December 3, according to city recreation director C. Eugene Mason. Both leagues will have post-season Shaughnessey playoffs with the first four teams participating. Both the semi-finals and finals will be best-of-three series.

Robert Sheeley of the American Legion team was elected chairman of the men's league, with Ronald Diehl of the Raiders to serve as vice-chairman. Robert Wolford, representing the Green Ridge Boys Forestry Camp, and Ray Middleton of the Lonaconing Forestry Camp will act as chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, in the high school league.

The high school league will play two rounds with each team meeting the other twice. The men will play three rounds of eight games each for a total of 24.

High school teams and their representatives include Wise Chips, Bob Marker; Fort Hill Hi-Y, Steve Johnson; Lonaconing Forestry Camp, Ray Middleton; Kean's Misfits, Clarence Kean; Allegany Hi-Y, Walter Stimler; Diehl's Esso, John Roy; Green Ridge Forestry Camp, Robert Wolford.

Police Boys Club, John Daum; Catholic War Veterans, Leo Seibert; Columbian Squires, Bert Lawler; Pepsi Cola, Dale Conners; DeMolay, Ronald Burkey; Centre Street Methodist, Harry Shobe; and Roseland, Mike Williams.

The eight men's league teams are American Legion, Bob Shelley; Independents, Ronald Buser; Smith's Gardens, Dick Bittner; Peskin's Fay Often; Police Boys Club, John Daum; Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Pete Wageley; Basketeers, Gary Stevens; Marine Reserve, Mike Lease; and Raiders, Ronald Diehl.

Nittany Lions Again Top Lambert Ratings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Penn State, with an 8-1 record, was a unanimous choice Monday for the second straight week in the Lambert Trophy ratings of eastern college football teams.

Penn State, which defeated Holy Cross, 48-20, last Saturday, received all eight votes from the panel of coaches, writers and broadcasters who rate the eastern teams.

Allegany Community College Announces 21-Game Schedule

Trojans To Play 13 Opponents In Tri-State Circuit

Allegany Community College, which last year floored a basketball team in the school's first year of operation, will open up a 21-game schedule next Wednesday in a "tune-up" battle against the Frostburg State Teachers College Fraternity squad.

Alan Stockholm, a 24-year-old native of Montrose in northeastern Pennsylvania, makes his debut as cage boss of the Trojans.

Stockholm has lined up a 21-game schedule for the ACC cagers, including 13 contests in the Tri-State Athletic Conference, a league for two-year schools which the local college joined last year.

The new coach replaces John Bailey, college faculty member under whom the Trojans posted a 1961-62 record of six wins and eight losses.

A graduate of East Stroudsburg (Pa.) College where he played three years of varsity basketball and baseball, Stockholm has also done graduate work at the University of Maryland. He teaches health, physical education and college orientation at the Frederick Street institution.

Only returnee from last year's five is Ronnie Riggs, who averaged close to 16 points per game. Riggs is also the only sophomore basketball candidate, all the others being first-year students.

The Trojans' first game in conference play will be on Wednesday, December 5, when they journey to Hagerstown for a battle with Hagerstown Junior College.

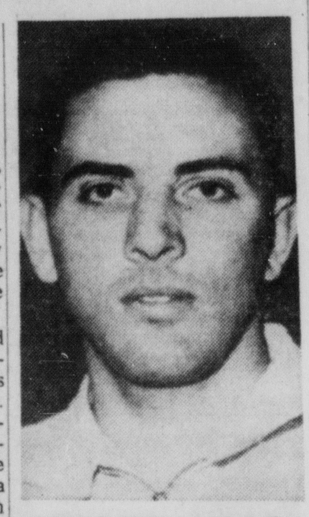

Potomac State, Frostburg State Teachers Jayvees, Hagerstown Junior College, Charles County Community College, Shenandoah (Va.) College, Altoona Campus of Penn State, and Frostburg Fraternity all will be met twice during the campaign.

The Tri-State Conference postseason tournament will be staged February 22 and 23 at Prince Georges Community College.

All of the Trojans' home games will be played in the college gym, and no admission will be charged.

Following is the 1962-63 schedule, with the starting time of games 8 p.m. unless otherwise indicated:

Nov. 28—Frostburg Fraternity, home
Dec 1—Frostburg Jayvees, away (6:00)
Dec. 5—*Hagerstown Jr. College, away
Dec. 8—*Charles County Comm. College, away (2:00)
Dec. 12—*Wesley Junior College, home
Dec. 14—Frostburg Fraternity, away (7:00)
Dec. 15—*Prince Georges Comm. College, home (2:30)
Jan. 5—Frostburg Jayvees, home
Jan. 9—*Shenandoah College, away
Jan. 12—*Montgomery Jr. College, away (2:00)
Jan. 16—*Potomac State, away
Jan. 19—Altoona Campus, away (3:00)
Jan. 26—*Hagerstown, home (2:00)
Jan. 30—*Charles County, home
Feb. 2—*St. Mary's, home (2:00)
Feb. 7—*Potomac State, home
Feb. 9—Frederick Jr. College, away (2:00)
Feb. 11—*Catonsville Comm. College, away
Feb. 15—Altoona, home
Feb. 16—*Shenandoah, home (2:00)
Feb. 20—Baltimore Institute, away
Feb. 22-23—Tri-State Conference tournament at Prince Georges.
*Indicates conference opponents.

TROJAN TYRO — When the Allegany Community College Trojans take the floor against the Frostburg Fraternity squad in their season opener next Wednesday, Alan Stockholm's coaching debut will become official. Stockholm, 24, is a native of Montrose in northeastern Pennsylvania, and played three years of varsity basketball and baseball at East Stroudsburg (Pa.) State College. ACC will play a 21-game schedule this season.

Terp Booters Score NCAA Playoff Win

Maryland Rally Beats Pitt, 4-3

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Co-Capt. Rich Roe butted in his second goal of the half with 2 minutes, 25 seconds of time remaining Monday in rallying Maryland to a 4-3 victory over Pitt in the opening round of the National Collegiate Athletic Association soccer playoffs.

Maryland will go to St. Louis Thursday to meet Springfield, Mass., in the semi-finals of the championship. Springfield downed Hardwicke of New York 2-1 Saturday.

Maryland's victory over Pitt was its ninth without defeat. The loss was the first for Pitt which had been tied twice in nine previous games.

Pitt was unable to hold a 3-1 lead in the second period.

Oyten Tertemiz opened the scoring for Maryland, but George Shimpeno and Dave Reichenbach sent Pitt into a 2-1 lead at the end of the first period. Center forward Bob Cuthbert widened the margin to 3-1 two minutes before the half ended.

However, Tertemiz scored again with one minute to play. Roe converted a pass from Jack Ruhs into the tying goal with seven minutes gone in the third period.

He headed the winning shot into the goal on an in bounds kick from John Kanarchuk.

This will be Maryland's second trip to the semi-finals in three years. It was beaten in the 1960 finals 3-2 by St. Louis.

WVU Coach Says Syracuse Horses 'Off And Running'

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia Coach Gene Corum said Monday, looking toward the season finale with Syracuse Saturday, said the Orangemen "have the horses and they're off and running."

Corum referred to the way Syracuse started the season and the about face in the Navy game when the Orangemen sank the Middies by a 34-6 score and then drubbed George Washington 35-0.

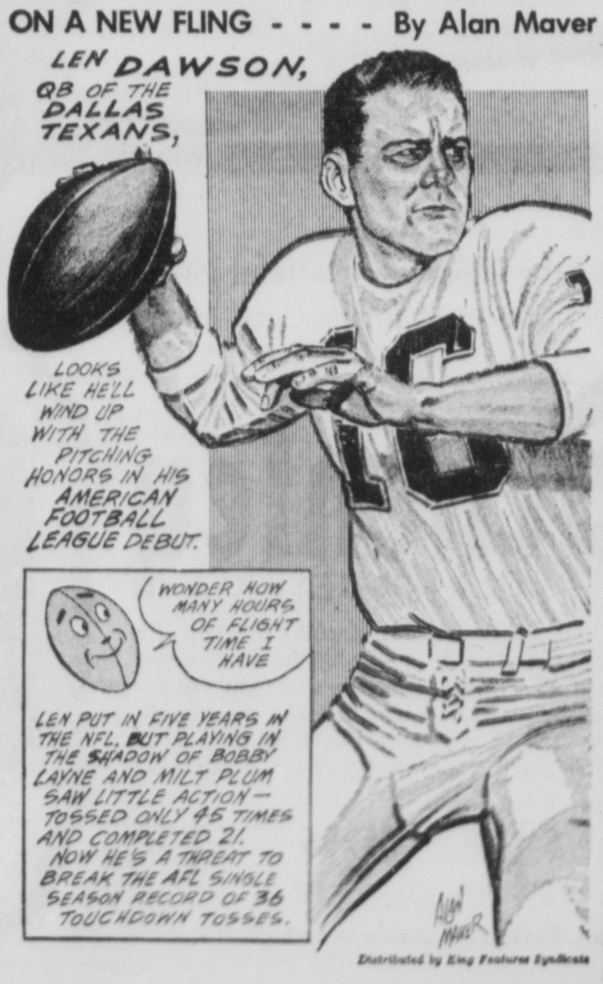

Corum said he would put his reserve units through some more hard contact work this week although he said he was very pleased with their work in the 49-0 win over The Citadel Saturday.

The varsity began setting up offensive and defensive alignments Monday. A review of the game movies showed that linebacker Don Young led in tackles in The Citadel game with six and two assists followed by Keith Melenyzer and John Skinner with five and one, John Burnison four and five and Milt Clegg four and two.

Pirates Trade Dick Groat To St. Louis For Cardwell And Gotay

Pitcher Olivo Also Goes To Cards In Deal

Pittsburgh Makes Move To Bolster Pitching Staff

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Baseball Cardinals announced Monday they obtained Dick Groat, captain of the Pittsburgh Pirates and 1960 National League batting champion and most valuable player, in a four-player trade.

The Cardinals, who needed batting power and a seasoned infielder, got shortstop Groat and pitcher Diomedes Olivo in exchange for shortstop Julio Gotay and pitcher Don Cardwell.

Pirate General Manager Joe L. Brown said in Pittsburgh, "We regret losing Groat. But we are getting a great potential ballplayer in Cardwell. I feel we are strengthening our pitching staff."

Satisfaction with the deal was also stated by Card General Manager Bing Devine, who said Groat "has the experience and the skill we've needed. I'm sure he'll be a steadying influence on Julian Javier (second baseman) and add a lot of life and leadership to our infield."

Johnny Keane Pleased

Cardinal Manager Johnny Keane, speaking at his home in Houston, Tex., backed Devine's comment about Groat and added:

"He's one of the best in the league at handling the bat. He's as good as anyone in baseball in the No. 2 spot in the batting order. He can go to the opposite field, he can pull, he can hit and run as well as anyone and he can bunt. He's a real leader in every way."

Groat, 32, was one of the league's top hitters last year with a .294 average compared to Gotay, 23, who hit .255. Groat was captain of the Pirates and the league's most valuable player in 1960 when his team won the world's championship.

Groat last year hit two home runs and batted in 61 runs while Gotay also hit two home runs and drove in 27 runs.

Groat said in Pittsburgh: "I had no intention of ever wanting to be traded. But I said as late as last night at a banquet that if I was to be traded and if I had my choice, I would pick St. Louis."

Groat said he was playing golf when "one of the boys came out on the 12th hole from the clubhouse and told me to call my wife. She said I was to call Mr. Brown. I told the boys then that I had been traded. I had that feeling."

Brown Backs Schofield

Brown said, "We feel that we have had a ball player languishing on the bench for too many years in Dick Schofield. He will be the No. 1 candidate for the shortstop job this spring but we are not going to hand him the job."

He said Gotay will be fighting for the job, also.

Cardwell was recently acquired from the Chicago Cubs along with George Altman and Moe Thacker in exchange for pitchers Larry Jackson and Lindy McDaniel and catcher Jim Schaffer.

Cardwell had a 7-16 record and a 4.91 earned run average for Chicago last year. He pitched 196 innings, struck out 103 and walked 62 in 39 appearances. The righthander will be 27 next month.

Olivo, about 40 years old, was a rookie last year and had a 5-1 record. He struck out 66 and walked 25 and had a 2.79 earned run average.

Pittsburgh finished last season in fourth place and the Cards finished in sixth.

Favored Spartans Defeated, 49-53

NEW YORK (AP) — Villanova, which has won just about everything else in the East in the past decade, finally added the IC4A cross country championship Monday, edging favored Michigan State 49-53 in the University division.

This was the one major title the Wildcats never had been able to win in the past.

Ex-Marine Vic Zwolak, who won the 5-mile grind over the Van Cortlandt Park trail, and runner-up Pat Traynor were the big men in the Villanova triumph.

Zwolak, the IC4A indoor mile champion, covered the journey in 24 minutes, 47.3 seconds, the fastest clocking since the course was re-surveyed three years ago. It was a two-man race all the way. When the 166 starters in the long trek answered the gun, Zwolak and Traynor stepped out front.

They ran neck and neck until the 4-mile mark when Zwolak opened the throttle. Traynor could not keep up and at the end was a good 200 yards behind.

They were timed in an identical 14:41.9 for 3 miles.

The other Villanova scorers were Dave Hylan, 10th; Owen McGuire, 16th, and Tom Sullivan, 20th.

Sullivan, who ran a 4:03.5 mile as an 18-year-old schoolboy two years ago, won the freshman race last year and was one of the favorites. He was close for 3 miles but then faded.

For Michigan State, which had won the title five of the past six years, Jan Bowen was the leading finisher in seventh place. Then came Roger Humberger, eighth; Don Castle, ninth; Mike Kaines, 12th, and Bob Fulcher, 17th.

Notre Dame was third in the team race with 147 points, followed by Seton Hall with 170 and Georgetown with 187.

Howard Deardorff of Penn State was third behind Traynor and making up ground fast when he hit the tape in 25:42. Bill Cark of Notre Dame was fourth and Bob Mack of Yale was fifth.

Paul Minehan of LaSalle in Philadelphia won the college division race in 26:28.9, finishing 200 yards in front of Ray Jernigan of Delaware. Maine was the team winner with 67 points to 74 for Colgate.

Terrapins Prepare For Final Contest

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—The University of Maryland football team held a light workout Monday in preparation for its final game of the season Saturday against Virginia at Byrd Stadium here.

Coach Tom Nugent had his offensive units running through their paces, while the offense mapped its strategy against Virginia plays as they were run by the second string.

Maryland has lost four of their last five games and now are 5-4 for the season over all and 4-2 in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Arkansas Players Prefer Sugar Bowl

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI)—University of Arkansas football players went on record Monday as preferring the Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans Jan. 1 over other bowls if Texas wins the right to represent the Southwest Conference in the Cotton Bowl.

Razorback sports publicist Bob Cheyne said, however, all bowls were being asked not to send invitations to Arkansas until after the Texas-Texas A&M game at Austin Thursday.

Cheyne said the varsity players met with Coach Frank Broyles at noon Monday to discuss the entire bowl situation.

WVU Coach Says Syracuse Horses 'Off And Running'

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia Coach Gene Corum said Monday, looking toward the season finale with Syracuse Saturday, said the Orangemen "have the horses and they're off and running."

Sonny Liston Will Move From Philly To Chicago

Champion Has Purchased Home In Windy City

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—World heavyweight champion Sonny Liston who had brushes with the Philadelphia police on at least three occasions, will move this week from Philadelphia to Chicago, a close friend disclosed Monday night.

Big Sonny is scheduled to fly to Chicago Tuesday and complete the purchase of a home there, already selected.

When the close friend was asked if Sonny is shifting to Chicago because of alleged "harrassment" by Philadelphia police, the friend replied:

"I wouldn't say that. I'd say Sonny has become very fond of Chicago. He won the title there and the people in Chicago treated him just wonderful."

The Listons, who have no children, will move into their new Chicago home this weekend, the friend said, but he declined "for the time being" to divulge the location of the Chicago home.

Liston and his friends claimed last Oct. 5 that he was being harrassed by the Philadelphia police after he was picked up that night by a guard in Fairmont Park. The guard charged that Liston's automobile had sideswiped another car and that Liston's slow driving speed of only 15 miles an hour and alcohol fumes on his breath indicated he had been drinking. Sonny was released after promising to pay for repairs on the other auto.

In 1961 Liston was arrested in Philadelphia for disorderly conduct when he refused to quit "loitering" on a street corner, and later for impersonating a policeman while driving through a park. Both charges were dismissed.

Something New Added To Annual Turkey Day Tilt

Something new will be added this year to the already colorful football classic between Allegany and Fort Hill at the Stadium on Thanksgiving Day. For the first time, starting players from both teams will be introduced individually.

When the two opponents return to the field following their pregame warmups, they will be met by their respective school bands.

Fort Hill, the visiting team this year, will be introduced first. The Sentinel players will be introduced by position and will station themselves on the forty-yard line at the north end of the field.

After all of Fort Hill's regular players have been introduced over the Stadium public address system, Allegany players will be be called and will line up on the forty at the south end of the gridiron.

Players who are considered regulars on both offense and defense will be introduced.

UFL Capitols Have Had It

COLUMBUS (UPI) — United Football League Commissioner George T. Gareff said Monday the Columbus Capitols had been dropped from the professional loop and would not play their last game of the season against Grand Rapids this weekend.

Gareff said numerous injuries to key players, including quarterback Larry Cline, made the withdrawal necessary.

"Because of the numerous players who are unable to dress for the coming game, it is impossible for Columbus to field a representative squad," he said.

"Since the league is operating the Columbus franchise, it puts my office in the difficult position of making trades with other teams and this situation is inconsistent with the commissioner's office. Therefore, the league owners have supported my intention of dropping Columbus from the league."

Last week the Louisville Raiders suspended operations. Since both Grand Rapids and Indianapolis, to have met the Raiders this weekend, are tied for the UFL Western Division lead with 8-3 records, the loop voted unanimously to schedule these teams with each other this weekend.

COURT TO COACH

BOSTON (UPI)—Former Boston Celtics Johnny Bach, Joe Mullaney, Howie Shannon, Bob Donham, Bones McKinney and Ernie Barrett are college basketball coaches.

Twenty-Three Teams Enter Rec Leagues

Play To Begin On December 3

Twenty-three teams will participate in the two City Recreation Department-sponsored leagues this year — a record number of 14 in the high school division and nine in the men's league.

Play in both leagues will begin on Monday, December 3, according to city recreation director C. Eugene Mason. Both leagues will have post-season Shaughnessey playoffs with the first four teams participating. Both the semi-finals and finals will be best-of-three series.

Robert Sheeley of the American Legion team was elected chairman of the men's league, with Ronald Diehl of the Raiders to serve as vice-chairman. Robert Wolford, representing the Green Ridge Boys Forestry Camp, and Ray Middleton of the Lonaconing Forestry Camp will act as chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, in the high school league.

The high school league will play two rounds with each team meeting the other twice. The men will play three rounds of eight games each for a total of 24.

High school teams and their representatives include Wise Chips, Bob Marker; Fort Hill Hi-Y, Steve Johnson; Lonaconing Forestry Camp, Ray Middleton; Kean's Misfits, Clarence Kean; Allegany Hi-Y, Walter Stimler; Diehl's Esso, John Roy; Green Ridge Forestry Camp, Robert Wolford.

Police Boys Club, John Daum; Catholic War Veterans, Leo Seibert; Columbian Squires, Bert Lawler; Pepsi Cola, Dale Conners; DeMolay, Ronald Burkey; Centre Street Methodist, Harry Shobe; and Roseland, Mike Williams.

Nittany Lions Again Top Lambert Ratings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Penn State, with an 8-1 record, was a unanimous choice Monday for the second straight week in the Lambert Trophy ratings of eastern college football teams.

Penn State, which defeated Holy Cross, 48-20, last Saturday, received all eight votes from the panel of coaches, writers and broadcasters who rate the eastern teams.

Allegany Community College Announces 21-Game Schedule

Trojans To Play 13 Opponents In Tri-State Circuit

Allegany Community College, which last year floored a basketball team in the school's first year of operation, will open up a 21-game schedule next Wednesday in a "tune-up" battle against the Frostburg State Teachers College Fraternity squad.

Alan Stockholm, a 24-year-old native of Montrose in northeastern Pennsylvania, makes his debut as cage boss of the Trojans.

Stockholm has lined up a 21-game schedule for the ACC cagers, including 13 contests in the Tri-State Athletic Conference, a league for two-year schools which the local college joined last year.

The new coach replaces John Bailey, college faculty member under whom the Trojans posted a 1961-62 record of six wins and eight losses.

A graduate of East Stroudsburg (Pa.) College where he played three years of varsity basketball and baseball, Stockholm has also done graduate work at the University of Maryland. He teaches health, physical education and college orientation at the Frederick Street institution.

Only returnee from last year's five is Ronnie Riggs, who averaged close to 16 points per game. Riggs is also the only sophomore basketball candidate, all the others being first-year students.

The Trojans' first game in conference play will be on Wednesday, December 5, when they journey to Hagerstown for a battle with Hagerstown Junior College.

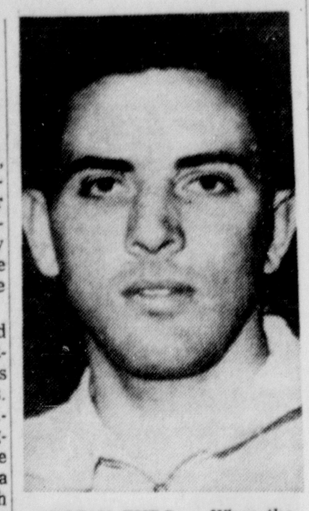

Potomac State, Frostburg State Teachers Jayvees, Hagerstown Junior College, Charles County Community College, Shenandoah (Va.) College, Altoona Campus of Penn State, and Frostburg Fraternity all will be met twice during the campaign.

The Tri-State Conference postseason tournament will be staged February 22 and 23 at Prince Georges Community College.

All of the Trojans' home games will be played in the college gym, and no admission will be charged.

Following is the 1962-63 schedule, with the starting time of games 8 p.m. unless otherwise indicated:

Nov. 28—Frostburg Fraternity, home
Dec 1—Frostburg Jayvees, away (6:00)
Dec. 5—*Hagerstown Jr. College, away
Dec. 8—*Charles County Comm. College, away (2:00)
Dec. 12—*Wesley Junior College, home
Dec. 14—Frostburg Fraternity, away (7:00)
Dec. 15—*Prince Georges Comm. College, home (2:30)
Jan. 5—Frostburg Jayvees, home
Jan. 9—*Shenandoah College, away
Jan. 12—*Montgomery Jr. College, away (2:00)
Jan. 16—*Potomac State, away
Jan. 19—Altoona Campus, away (3:00)
Jan. 26—*Hagerstown, home (2:00)
Jan. 30—*Charles County, home
Feb. 2—*St. Mary's, home (2:00)
Feb. 7—*Potomac State, home
Feb. 9—Frederick Jr. College, away (2:00)
Feb. 11—*Catonsville Comm. College, away
Feb. 15—Altoona, home
Feb. 16—*Shenandoah, home (2:00)
Feb. 20—Baltimore Institute, away
Feb. 22-23—Tri-State Conference tournament at Prince Georges.
*Indicates conference opponents.

TROJAN TYRO — When the Allegany Community College Trojans take the floor against the Frostburg Fraternity squad in their season opener next Wednesday, Alan Stockholm's coaching debut will become official. Stockholm, 24, is a native of Montrose in northeastern Pennsylvania, and played three years of varsity basketball and baseball at East Stroudsburg (Pa.) State College. ACC will play a 21-game schedule this season.

Terp Booters Score NCAA Playoff Win

Maryland Rally Beats Pitt, 4-3

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Co-Capt. Rich Roe butted in his second goal of the half with 2 minutes, 25 seconds of time remaining Monday in rallying Maryland to a 4-3 victory over Pitt in the opening round of the National Collegiate Athletic Association soccer playoffs.

Maryland will go to St. Louis Thursday to meet Springfield, Mass., in the semi-finals of the championship. Springfield downed Hardwicke of New York 2-1 Saturday.

Maryland's victory over Pitt was its ninth without defeat. The loss was the first for Pitt which had been tied twice in nine previous games.

Pitt was unable to hold a 3-1 lead in the second period.

Oyten Tertemiz opened the scoring for Maryland, but George Shimpeno and Dave Reichenbach sent Pitt into a 2-1 lead at the end of the first period. Center forward Bob Cuthbert widened the margin to 3-1 two minutes before the half ended.

However, Tertemiz scored again with one minute to play. Roe converted a pass from Jack Ruhs into the tying goal with seven minutes gone in the third period.

He headed the winning shot into the goal on an in bounds kick from John Kanarchuk.

This will be Maryland's second trip to the semi-finals in three years. It was beaten in the 1960 finals 3-2 by St. Louis.

Keyser's "Tack" Clark Is Named PVC Football Coach Of Year

Champs Land Four All-Star Grid Berths

Trophies Presented, Loop Acts On Bruce Petition In Spring

Keyser High School earned a major share of the honors at the fall dinner meeting of the Potomac Valley Conference at the Old Homestead Hotel, Burlington, W. Va., last night when Frederick "Tack" Clark was named football coach of the year and Keyser High School's champions landed four places on the 12-player All-Conference team.

Coach Clark's Golden Tornado won the title in the 11-school conference this season by posting a 7-0 record and has copped 13 consecutive games in the league over two seasons. Clark, a native of Ridgeley and an alumnus of Allegany High School, has been coaching in West Virginia for 24 consecutive years—4 years at Moorefield and 20 years at Keyser. He is the third mentor to win coach of the year honors in the West Virginia loop since the trophy award was established in 1960. Gerard "Jerry" Calhoun, of Beall was the 1960 winner and Roger Parker, of Romney, was selected last year.

Four KHS Players Named

Herbert Harman, Rick Landis, George Alkire and Charles "Chuck" Bradfield, the conference scoring leader for the third straight year, were the Keyser players selected on the first All-Conference team.

Six schools placed players on the first team. In addition to the four from Keyser there were two each from Moorefield, Romney and Petersburg and one each from Ridgeley and Circleville.

Thirteen players were named on the second team chosen by the coaches. Romney earned four places, Beall, Keyser, Southern and Ridgeley had two each and Petersburg one.

The selections were as follows:

First Team

Ends: Herbert Harman, Keyser; Garry Thorne, Moorefield.

Tackles: Don Cookman, Romney; Carroll Warner, Circleville.

Guards: Rick Landis, Keyser; Norman Sites, Petersburg.

Center: George Alkire, Keyser, and Robert Fraley, Ridgeley.

Backs: Charles Bradfield, Keyser; Sam Graham, Romney; Ralph Keller, Moorefield, and Leroy Ketterman, Petersburg.

Second Team

Ends: Lee Thompson, Petersburg, and Robert Wolford, Romney.

Tackles: Bruce Snelson, Beall; Doyle Ours, Keyser, and James Thayer, Southern.

Guards: Anthony Amato, Ridgeley, and John Machemer, Romney.

Center: Doug Rockwell, Romney.

Trophies Presented

Southern High School, of Oakland, winner of the baseball title received $15 for the purchase of a suitable trophy while Mathias and Paw Paw, tied for the runner-up spot, received $10 each. Keyser was the recipient of a check for $20 which will be used to purchase a football trophy.

A letter of resignation from Dr. Wayne W. Hill, president of the conference, was read in which the former principal of Beall High School and new principal at Fort Hill School praised the "high ideals of the P.V.C." Charles H. Freeland, principal of Capon Bridge High School, who has served as vice president, was elevated to the post of conference president at last night's session.

Bruce Makes Application

Bruce High School of Westernport, represented by Kenneth E. Sheetz, principal and Coaches Pete Ladygo and Tom Harman, petitioned the conference for membership in 1963 and no action will be taken on this application until the spring meeting of the circuit to be held March 11 at Burlington. Ladygo stated that Bruce would compete in all sports as required and expressed the hope that he would receive the support from other schools in the loop.

Announcement was made that the P.V.C. junior high school basketball tournament will be held in Keyser February 16, 23 and 26 and that the annual conference track and field meet will be staged at Beall High School Field, Thursday, May 2 at 4 p.m.

Arbiters Suspended

A lengthy discussion over the shortage of basketball officials as a result of the state association suspending 13 arbiters took place and an effort was made to have the conference go on record as favoring the relaxing of the state regulations. A motion, however, was voted down. The officials were suspended for one year for failure to pay their dues within a prescribed time and for failure to forward their Part 1 exams to the state association on time.

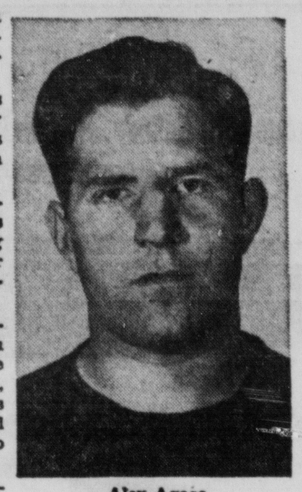

Another topic of discussion was that pertaining to the admission of faculty members other than coaches and principals from visiting schools to the host school's athletic events. This matter was tabled until the next meeting.

John R. Shelton, secretary-treasurer, advised the coaches that it is legal in West Virginia for school teams to practice against non-school personnel. School teams, however, cannot scrimmage against another high school or college players out for basketball.

Seventy-three personals attended the dinner meeting, including principals and their assistants, coaches and their aides of the 19 schools and invited guests.

the GREAT PLAY in College Football

Alex Agase

TWO TOUCHDOWNS by a guard provided one of the greatest upsets in University of Illinois football history.

The year was 1942. Illinois hadn't won a Big Ten game for two seasons. Minnesota was defending national and Big Ten champion.

The first shocker came midway in the second period when Alex Agase, destined to become a three-time All-American, wrested the ball from the arms of Minnesota halfback star Bill Daley and streaked 38 yards to the goal line.

With the score 13-13 and four minutes to play, Agase was not content to say a tie is good enough.

A bad pass from center sailed into the Minnesota end zone. From nowhere came Agase, blasting through the scattered Gophers to pounce upon the ball for the touchdown that still is topic for discussion whenever Illini alumni meet to talk football.

That touchdown brought a 20-13 victory which resounded around the nation and began an Illinois renaissance on the gridiron.

Coach Seeks Rule Change To Cut Down 'Dirty Play'

Miller's Charges Highlight Meeting Of Grid Writers

By OSCAR FRALEY
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is too much "dirty play" in college football, coach Jim Miller of Boston College said Monday in suggesting rule changes which would permit rival coaches to confer with officials on flagrant violations.

Miller's allegations highlighted the weekly luncheon of the New York Football Writers Association.

"My boy finally lost his temper and was thrown out of the game," said Miller. "Even though he had to go to the hospital and get his jaw checked for a possible fracture.

"I don't think any coach teaches deliberately dirty tactics," Miller defended. "And the officials have done a good job in eliminating piling on and other dangerous tactics. But you can't expect a boy to get the hell kicked out of him and not do anything about it."

Sanders, Nichols Only Top Golfers Adding To Earnings

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — Compact-swinging Doug Sanders was practically the only one among professional golf's top 10 to add to his money winnings during the past week.

Sanders picked up $1,500 for finishing second to Tony Lema in the Mobile Sertoma Open and while he remained in seventh place in the PGA standings, he raised his earnings for the year to $40,683.29.

Only other player to increase his money winning total among the top 10 was eighth-placed Bobby Nichols, who won $475 at Mobile. Nichols has now earned $32,918.17 this year.

Davis Cup Site May Be Changed

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—The Mexico vs. India Davis Cup tennis series was in doubt Monday after Air France told Mexican captain Pancho Contreras that all internal air services in India are canceled for civilian traffic.

The Mexicans were due to leave Israel for New Delhi Tuesday evening and were scheduled to catch an Air India connection for Madras from there.

Contreras told The Associated Press Monday night that the Mexicans were not willing to travel by train from New Delhi to Madras even if this were possible because of the "extremely long and tiring journey."

Contreras added that the Mexicans were willing to meet the Indians at a neutral venue if necessary. The winner meets Australia in the challenge round late in December.

Football Cards Placed Under Court Custody

Battle Continues Over Ownership

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A Circuit Court judge placed the St. Louis Football Cardinals under the court's custody Monday as a legal battle over the ownership of the National Football League team continued.

A Chicago probate court has approved the will of Mrs. Wolfner, leaving the bulk of her estate to her adopted sons. Wolfner has appealed the ruling to the Illinois Supreme Court.

Judge Nangle's decree restrains the present officers and directors of the football team from exercising the duties of their offices and from disposing of any assets of the corporation. Charles Bidwill is president and William Bidwill is vice president.

Arthur, as trustee, is directed to "manage and preserve the corporation" until final determination in Illinois of the ownership of Mrs. Wolfner's stock.

Cage Bribers Offer Pleas Of No Contest

Seven Being Tried In North Carolina

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Lou Barshak and Michael Siegel offered pleas of no contest as a long-awaited trial of charges growing out of point shaving scandals in basketball games got under way Monday in Wake Superior Court.

Solicitor (prosecutor) Lester V. Chalmers told Judge Heman Clark he expects two other dedendants, Aaron Wagman and Joseph Greene, will offer pleas of either no contest or guilty when they appear in court Tuesday. All four are from New York City.

Two other defendants, Dave Goldberg and Steve Lekometros, both of St. Louis, entered pleas of innocent after Judge Clark had heard and overruled a series of motions by their lawyers that the charges against their clients be dismissed.

A seventh defendant, Paul Walker of New York City, entered a guilty plea several months ago.

The seven and several other men are charged in 10 indictments, involving upwards of 100 counts, of conspiracy and bribery in attempts to fix the "point spread" of 10 basketball games involving North Carolina State College in the 1959, 1960 and 1961 seasons.

Four former North Carolina State College basketball players and one former University of North Carolina player are expected to appear as state witnesses.

The defendants are accused of bribing, or offering to bribe, one or more of the N.C. State players, to fix the point spread of each of the 10 games.

Construction Date Set For Pittsburgh's All-Sports Stadium

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Construction of an all-sports stadium will get underway in early summer 1964, it was announced Monday by Chairman John T. Ryan Jr. of the Allegheny Conference on Community Development.

A progress report prepared for the conference's annual dinner disclosed that land acquisition will begin next summer to make way for the new 55,000 seat facility. The stadium will be the new home of the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Pittsburgh Steelers.

No cost was revealed but it had been estimated earlier that the land and stadium would be in excess of $30 million.

The stadium will replace Forbes Field, built by the Pirates in 1909 and Pitt Stadium, erected in 1925. The new project will rise on the city's North Side district.

Colts' Rookie End Fractures Elbow

BALTIMORE (AP) — Don Thompson, rookie defensive end for the Baltimore Colts, suffered a fractured elbow in Sunday's game at Green Bay, x-rays showed Monday.

Thompson probably will not be able to play in any of the last four National Football League games.

The 225-end from Danville, Va., made the Colt squad after being signed as a free agent. He transferred from Ferrum Junior College to Richmond and then had a knee operation in the spring of last year.

Defensive Halfback Lenny Lyles also had a knee injured in the Green Bay game x-rayed, but results were negative. However, his ability to play against the Chicago Bears Sunday in Baltimore remains doubtful.

WVU's Jerry Yost Named Conference Player Of Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—West Virginia quarterback Jerry Yost was mamed Southern Conference Football Player of the Week Monday for the second time this season.

Yost, who was chosen for player of the week honors after West Virginia's season opener, was picked again for his fine performance in the Mountaineers' 49-0 rout of the Citadel last Saturday at Morgantown.

The Mountaineer signal-caller had a total offense of 211 yards against the Bulldogs, completing 11 of 20 passes for 150 yards and running nine times for 61 additional yards.

Hopalong Cassady Will Wear Cast For Six Months

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —Halfback Howard (Hopalong) Cassady of the Philadelphia Eagles will wear a cast on his right leg for the next six months, team physician Dr. James Nixon said Monday.

Cassady, whose leg was broken Sunday when he returned a kickoff during the Eagles game with the New York Giants, underwent additional X-ray examination at Graduate Hospital Monday.

Nixon said the examination showed an oblique fracture at approximately the mid-shaft of the right tibia, the inner bone of the lower leg.

He described the fracture as "relatively stable" and said there was no fracture of the fibula, the other leg bone.

The grid star was put in a cast from his toes to his hip, and will wear it for at least six months. He was expected to leave for his home at Southfield, Mich., in a few days.

Groat 'Sensed' He'd Be Traded

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Shortstop Dick Groat, who will exchange his Pittsburgh Pirate uniform for the trappings of a St. Louis Cardinal, said Monday he "sensed I would be traded."

"When (general manager Joe) Brown recently said on television that he was not interested in what people think in the winter — that he was only interested in what they thought in the summer — I kind of sensed this was coming," Groat said.

"I have no bitterness. Of course, it's always nice to play in your home town. The Pirates have been very good to me.

"But to be honest, it's always nice to go where you think you're wanted."

Groat, a native of suburban Swissvale, said he had no plans to live elsewhere during the off season.

Tigers Say Yale Scored Illegal TD

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Princeton Coach Dick Colman said Monday that Yale scored an illegal touchdown during Saturday's game but he won't push the issue since the Tigers won anyway, 14-10.

The TD was scored when Yale's fullback Pete Cummings took a pitchout from quarterback Ed McCarthy and then threw a 6-yard pass right back to McCarthy.

"I didn't realize the quarterback caught the ball," Colman said. "Our boys complained to the officials because there were ineligible receivers downfield, but they didn't realize the quarterback caught the ball and the officials didn't know either."

Keyser's "Tack" Clark Is Named PVC Football Coach Of Year

Trophies Presented, Loop Acts On Bruce Petition In Spring

Keyser High School earned a major share of the honors at the fall dinner meeting of the Potomac Valley Conference at the Old Homestead Hotel, Burlington, W. Va., last night when Frederick "Tack" Clark was named football coach of the year and Keyser High School's champions landed four places on the 12-player All-Conference team.

Coach Clark's Golden Tornado won the title in the 11-school conference this season by posting a 7-0 record and has copped 13 consecutive games in the league over two seasons. Clark, a native of Ridgeley and an alumnus of Allegany High School, has been coaching in West Virginia for 24 consecutive years—4 years at Moorefield and 20 years at Keyser. He is the third mentor to win coach of the year honors in the West Virginia loop since the trophy award was established in 1960. Gerard "Jerry" Calhoun, of Beall was the 1960 winner and Roger Parker, of Romney, was selected last year.

Four KHS Players Named

Herbert Harman, Rick Landis, George Alkire and Charles "Chuck" Bradfield, the conference scoring leader for the third straight year, were the Keyser players selected on the first All-Conference team.

Six schools placed players on the first team. In addition to the four from Keyser there were two each from Moorefield, Romney and Petersburg and one each from Ridgeley and Circleville.

Thirteen players were named on the second team chosen by the coaches. Romney earned four places, Beall, Keyser, Southern and Ridgeley had two each and Petersburg one.

The selections were as follows:

First Team

Ends: Herbert Harman, Keyser; Garry Thorne, Moorefield.

Tackles: Don Cookman, Romney; Carroll Warner, Circleville.

Center: George Alkire, Keyser, and Robert Fraley, Ridgeley.

Backs: Charles Bradfield, Keyser; Sam Graham, Romney; Ralph Keller, Moorefield, and Leroy Ketterman, Petersburg.

Second Team

Ends: Lee Thompson, Petersburg, and Robert Wolford, Romney.

Tackles: Bruce Snelson, Beall; Doyle Ours, Keyser, and James Thayer, Southern.

Guards: Anthony Amato, Ridgeley, and John Machemer, Romney.

Center: Doug Rockwell, Romney.

Backs: Wayne Harper, Beall; Terry Turbin, Keyser; Doug Freeland, Romney; John Thayer, Southern, and Gary Cuppett, Ridgeley.

Trophies Presented

Trophies were awarded Beall High School, track and field champions of 1962, and Romney High School, winner of the annual cross-country title.

Southern High School, of Oakland, winner of the baseball title received $15 for the purchase of a suitable trophy while Mathias and Paw Paw, tied for the runner-up spot, received $10 each. Keyser was the recipient of a check for $20 which will be used to purchase a football trophy.

A letter of resignation from Dr. Wayne W. Hill, president of the conference, was read in which the former principal of Beall High School and new principal at Fort Hill School praised the "high ideals of the P.V.C." Charles H. Freeland, principal of Capon Bridge High School, who has served as vice president, was elevated to the post of conference president at last night's session.

Bruce Makes Application

Bruce High School of Westernport, represented by Kenneth E. Sheetz, principal and Coaches Pete Ladygo and Tom Harman, petitioned the conference for membership in 1963 and no action will be taken on this application until the spring meeting of the circuit to be held March 11 at Burlington. Ladygo stated that Bruce would compete in all sports as required and expressed the hope that he would receive the support from other schools in the loop.

Announcement was made that the P.V.C. junior high school basketball tournament will be held in Keyser February 16, 23 and 26 and that the annual conference track and field meet will be staged at Beall High School Field, Thursday, May 2 at 4 p.m.

Arbiters Suspended

A lengthy discussion over the shortage of basketball officials as a result of the state association suspending 13 arbiters took place and an effort was made to have the conference go on record as favoring the relaxing of the state regulations. A motion, however, was voted down. The officials were suspended for one year for failure to pay their dues within a prescribed time and for failure to forward their Part 1 exams to the state association on time.

Another topic of discussion was that pertaining to the admission of faculty members other than coaches and principals from visiting schools to the host school's athletic events. This matter was tabled until the next meeting.

John R. Shelton, secretary-treasurer, advised the coaches that it is legal in West Virginia for school teams to practice against non-school personnel. School teams, however, cannot scrimmage against another high school or college players out for basketball.

Football Cards Placed Under Court Custody

Battle Continues Over Ownership

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A Circuit Court judge placed the St. Louis Football Cardinals under the court's custody Monday as a legal battle over the ownership of the National Football League team continued.

Circuit court judge James F. Nangle issued the decree in a suit filed by Walter Wolfner.

Wolfner, a former managing director of the Cardinals, has waged a legal fight with his two stepsons, William and Charles Bidwill Jr., for control of the million-dollar estate of his late wife, Mrs. Violet Bidwill Wolfner.

Judge Nangle's decree placed the financial affairs of the football team in the hands of a trustee, "until final determination of ownership of the stock held by the late Violet Bidwill Wolfner."

He named Edward Arthur, a St. Louis motion picture theater operator, as trustee.

A Chicago probate court has approved the will of Mrs. Wolfner, leaving the bulk of her estate to her adopted sons. Wolfner has appealed the ruling to the Illinois Supreme Court.

Judge Nangle's decree restrains the present officers and directors of the football team from exercising the duties of their offices and from disposing of any assets of the corporation. Charles Bidwill is president and William Bidwill is vice president.

Arthur, as trustee, is directed to "manage and preserve the corporation" until final determination in Illinois of the ownership of Mrs. Wolfner's stock.

"But to be honest, it's always nice to go where you think you're wanted."

Groat, a native of suburban Swissvale, said he had no plans to live elsewhere during the off season.

"I hope Pittsburgh finishes second," was his valedictory.

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Halfback Billy Cannon of the Houston Oilers is the highest paid player in the American Football League, with a three-year contract calling for an estimated $100,000.

Tigers Say Yale Scored Illegal TD

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Princeton Coach Dick Colman said Monday that Yale scored an illegal touchdown during Saturday's game but he won't push the issue since the Tigers won anyway, 14-10.

The TD was scored when Yale's fullback Pete Cummings took a pitchout from quarterback Ed McCarthy and then threw a 6-yard pass right back to McCarthy.

Colman called the play illegal, quoting a rule that a player who lines up less than one yard behind the center cannot receive a forward pass.

"I didn't realize the quarterback caught the ball," Colman said. "Our boys complained to the officials because there were ineligible receivers downfield, but they didn't realize the quarterback caught the ball and the officials didn't know either."

For The Road Cops Pimlico Feature Race

Ronnie Ferraro Has Two Winners

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 19—Benefitting from a well judged ride by Ray Broussard, Brandywine Stable's For The Road drew away steadily through the final furlong to score a two length decision over Anthony P. Fabrizi's Sweet Evenin' in today's featured eighth race at Pimlico Race Course, the Wizard of Oz Purse.

Despite victories in his last two outings, For The Road was allowed to march postward the second choice in the wagering with the 8,364 fans present and returned 5.60, 3.60 and 2.20.

For The Road covered the distance in a respectable 1.12 1/5 over a racing strip termed slow.

Ferraro scored with Flying Bill in the third race and Congo Dancer in the fifth heat.

The victories were the 305th and 306th of the year for Ferraro. Shoemaker, who is vacationing on the West Coast, has 301 winners to his credit.

Boston Bruins Fire Watson

Team Is Winless In Last 13 Games

BOSTON (UPI) —Phil Watson was fired as coach of the Boston Bruins Monday, 12 hours after his team went through its 13th straight game without a victory.

Bruins general manager Lynn Patrick announced that assistant coach Milt Schmidt would succeed Watson as coach of the Bruins, who have a firm grip on the National Hockey League (NHL) cellar. The change was to take place immediately.

Watson would be used "in another capacity," Patrick said, but no definite plans were set.

The Bruins, who have a 1962-63 season record of eight losses and five ties against one win, were soundly booed by the crowd at Boston Garden Sunday night as they dropped a 3-1 decision to the league-leading Detroit Red Wings.

A teddy bear bearing the sign "Watson" was suspended from the balcony during the game and was interpreted as a suggestion that the Bruins should buy up the remaining year and a half of Watson's three year contract.

The Bruins, with Watson as coach, finished last in the NHL last season. The season was marked by a 20-game winless streak.

Yankees' Terry October Winner Of Hickok Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ralph Terry, the New York Yankees' World Series pitching hero, Monday joined the competition for the Hickock Professional Athlete of the year award Monday when he won the October monthly poll by a wide margin.

Terry, who won two World Series games from the San Francisco Giants, easily outpolled the newly crowned NBA middleweight champion Dick Tiger for the October honor. Terry had 73 first-place votes and 247 points, compared to 13 firsts and 119 points for Tiger.

Terry now is in the running for the $10,000 diamond-studded belt awarded the professional athlete of the year. Previous monthly winners were: Wilt Chamberlain, Glenn (Fireball) Roberts, Arnold Palmer, Roger Ward, Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale, Jack Sanford, Jack Kralick and Maury Wills.

MOST CHANCES

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Giants have played in the National Football League's championship game more times than any other team. The Giants also have lost the most times, winning only three title games while losing nine.

CATCHES 74 PASSES

WHITTIER, Calif. (UPI) — Ken Gregory of Whittier caught an all-time record of 74 passes during the 1960 college football season.

EIGHT GRID SHUTOUTS

WVU Harriers Win Conference Crown

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Furman's defending team champions swept the first three places, but West Virginia's better balanced squad won the Southern Conference cross country championship Monday.

NAMED FOR DAD

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI)—Clifford Ann Creed, 23-year-old women's amateur golf star who recently turned professional, was named after her father, a golf professional in Alexandria, La.

FIRST

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Bruins joined the National Hockey League in 1924. It was the first N.H.L. franchise awarded to a city in the United States.

For The Road Cops Pimlico Feature Race

Ronnie Ferraro Has Two Winners

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 19—Benefitting from a well judged ride by Ray Broussard, Brandywine Stable's For The Road drew away steadily through the final furlong to score a two length decision over Anthony P. Fabrizi's Sweet Evenin' in today's featured eighth race at Pimlico Race Course, the Wizard of Oz Purse.

Sweet Evenin' prompted For The Road's pace until the stretch but could not match the winner's late stretch stretch stamina.

Marion H. Van Berg's Bouncer, the 6-to-5 favorite in the six furlong test, finished third a neck farther back.

Despite victories in his last two outings, For The Road was allowed to march postward the second choice in the wagering with the 8,364 fans present and returned 5.60, 3.60 and 2.20.

For The Road covered the distance in a respectable 1.12 1/5 over a racing strip termed slow.

Ronnie Ferraro, the 19-year-old apprentice sensation from Philadelphia, increased his lead to five over Willie Shoemaker in the race for national saddle honors with a double on the card.

Ferraro scored with Flying Bill in the third race and Congo Dancer in the fifth heat.

The victories were the 305th and 306th of the year for Ferraro. Shoemaker, who is vacationing on the West Coast, has 301 winners to his credit.

Boston Bruins Fire Watson

Team Is Winless In Last 13 Games

BOSTON (UPI) —Phil Watson was fired as coach of the Boston Bruins Monday, 12 hours after his team went through its 13th straight game without a victory.

Bruins general manager Lynn Patrick announced that assistant coach Milt Schmidt would succeed Watson as coach of the Bruins, who have a firm grip on the National Hockey League (NHL) cellar. The change was to take place immediately.

Watson would be used "in another capacity," Patrick said, but no definite plans were set.

The Bruins, who have a 1962-63 season record of eight losses and five ties against one win, were soundly booed by the crowd at Boston Garden Sunday night as they dropped a 3-1 decision to the league-leading Detroit Red Wings.

A teddy bear bearing the sign "Watson" was suspended from the balcony during the game and was interpreted as a suggestion that the Bruins should buy up the remaining year and a half of Watson's three year contract.

The Bruins, with Watson as coach, finished last in the NHL last season. The season was marked by a 20-game winless streak.

Yankees' Terry October Winner Of Hickok Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ralph Terry, the New York Yankees' World Series pitching hero, Monday joined the competition for the Hickock Professional Athlete of the year award Monday when he won the October monthly poll by a wide margin.

Terry, who won two World Series games from the San Francisco Giants, easily outpolled the newly crowned NBA middleweight champion Dick Tiger for the October honor. Terry had 73 first-place votes and 247 points, compared to 13 firsts and 119 points for Tiger.

Terry now is in the running for the $10,000 diamond-studded belt awarded the professional athlete of the year. Previous monthly winners were: Wilt Chamberlain, Glenn (Fireball) Roberts, Arnold Palmer, Roger Ward, Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale, Jack Sanford, Jack Kralick and Maury Wills.

MOST CHANCES

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Giants have played in the National Football League's championship game more times than any other team. The Giants also have lost the most times, winning only three title games while losing nine.

CATCHES 74 PASSES

EIGHT GRID SHUTOUTS

WVU Harriers Win Conference Crown

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Furman's defending team champions swept the first three places, but West Virginia's better balanced squad won the Southern Conference cross country championship Monday.

Dennis Patterson of Furman set a record of 19 minutes and 41 seconds for the 4.06-mile course in winning handily.

NAMED FOR DAD

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI)—Clifford Ann Creed, 23-year-old women's amateur golf star who recently turned professional, was named after her father, a golf professional in Alexandria, La.

FIRST

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Bruins joined the National Hockey League in 1924. It was the first N.H.L. franchise awarded to a city in the United States.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our relatives, neighbors and friends who were so kind following the death of Mr. Marvin C. Stansberry.

We especially wish to thank Rev. Willie E. Tatem, the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral, and all others who rendered assistance.

MRS. ESTHER STANSBERRY AND FAMILY

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our relatives, neighbors and friends who were so kind following the death of Mr. Marvin C. Stansberry.

We especially wish to thank Rev. Willis E. Tatem, the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral, and all others who rendered assistance.

MRS. ESTHER STANSBERRY AND FAMILY

Senator Beall Speaks Tonight At GOP Dinner

200 Will Attend Victory Event

U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg, who will become Maryland's senior senator when the 88th Congress convenes in Washington in January, will be the principal speaker at the Republican victory dinner at 6:30 p.m. today at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

More than 200 persons are expected at the dinner which will be attended by Rep. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. and the 18 county Republicans who were elected to county offices November 6.

State's Attorney James S. Getty, who was unopposed in both the primary and general elections for a second four-year term, will preside at tonight's victory celebration.

Planned By Committee

The dinner was arranged hurriedly by the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee following its meeting last week.

J. Wallace Close, chairman of the committee, will give the invocation this evening. He and the other six members of the committee, elected last May, will be recognized during the affair tonight. Other members of the committee are Gerald L. Barb, L. Fred Dean, Mrs. Leah Durst Hafer, Victor M. Hebb, Edgar M. Lewis and Melvin Sloan.

A number of other persons will be given special recognition tonight for special effort during the campaign which ended two weeks ago. They include Miss Katherine Close, president of the Women's Republican Club of Frostburg; Mrs. Holmes Cessna, president of the Women's Republican Club of Cumberland; Mrs. Vada Barncord, head of the Coordinating Council of Republican clubs; Amel Muir, president of the Lonaconing Republican Club; Charles Broadwater, president of the Frostburg Republican Club; Mrs. Phyllis Reed and Mrs. Hafer, who were in charge of the candidate of the day headquarters on Liberty Street; Mrs. William H. Macy, director of the door-to-door campaign; Raymond B. O'Rourke and Reatus Spiker, publicity chairmen; William H. Eisenberger, advertising committee; Kenneth K. Lowe and Donald W. Mason, assistant campaign managers, and Robert Lewis, chairman of the Young Republican Club.

Fort Hill Teacher Is Named

1954 Graduate Will Return

Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of public schools in Allegany County, yesterday announced the appointment of Richard Scott Gilpin, Potomac Park, as science teacher at Fort Hill High School.

He will replace Wilbur O. King Jr., science teacher for the past two years, who resigned to accept a position in industry.

Mr. Gilpin had been a substitute teacher in the College Laboratory High School, Penn State College, prior to accepting the teaching position at Fort Hill.

He is a 1954 graduate of Fort Hill and in 1958 received a bachelor of science degree at Frostburg State Teachers College. He taught at West Frederick Junior High School and also at the Johnson Junior High School in Japan.

In 1961 he entered Penn State and completed studies toward his master's degree and did special work in astronautics and astronomy at the Maryland Academy of Science.

Advisory Group Approves Steps Taken To Date

Members To Brief Clubs On Plan

Action taken to date toward solving this county's water and sewage problems was approved last night at a meeting of the City - County Water - Sewage Commission.

Formal approval of the proceedings was given by William A. Douglas, chairman; J. Laughton Huffman, F. Perry Smith, Edward McPartland and L. Leslie Helmer, members.

Sitting in on the meeting were Mayor Earl D. Chaney and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum.

Work on the commission to date includes a report, presented at a public meeting in City Hall November 7, which urged the appointment of a joint Citizens Advisory Commission and the creation of an Allegany County Sewage Authority armed with full power and responsibility for handling sewage and water problems throughout the county.

Yesterday the Mayor and Council of Cumberland agreed to accept the commission's recommendations on the joint Citizens Advisory Commission.

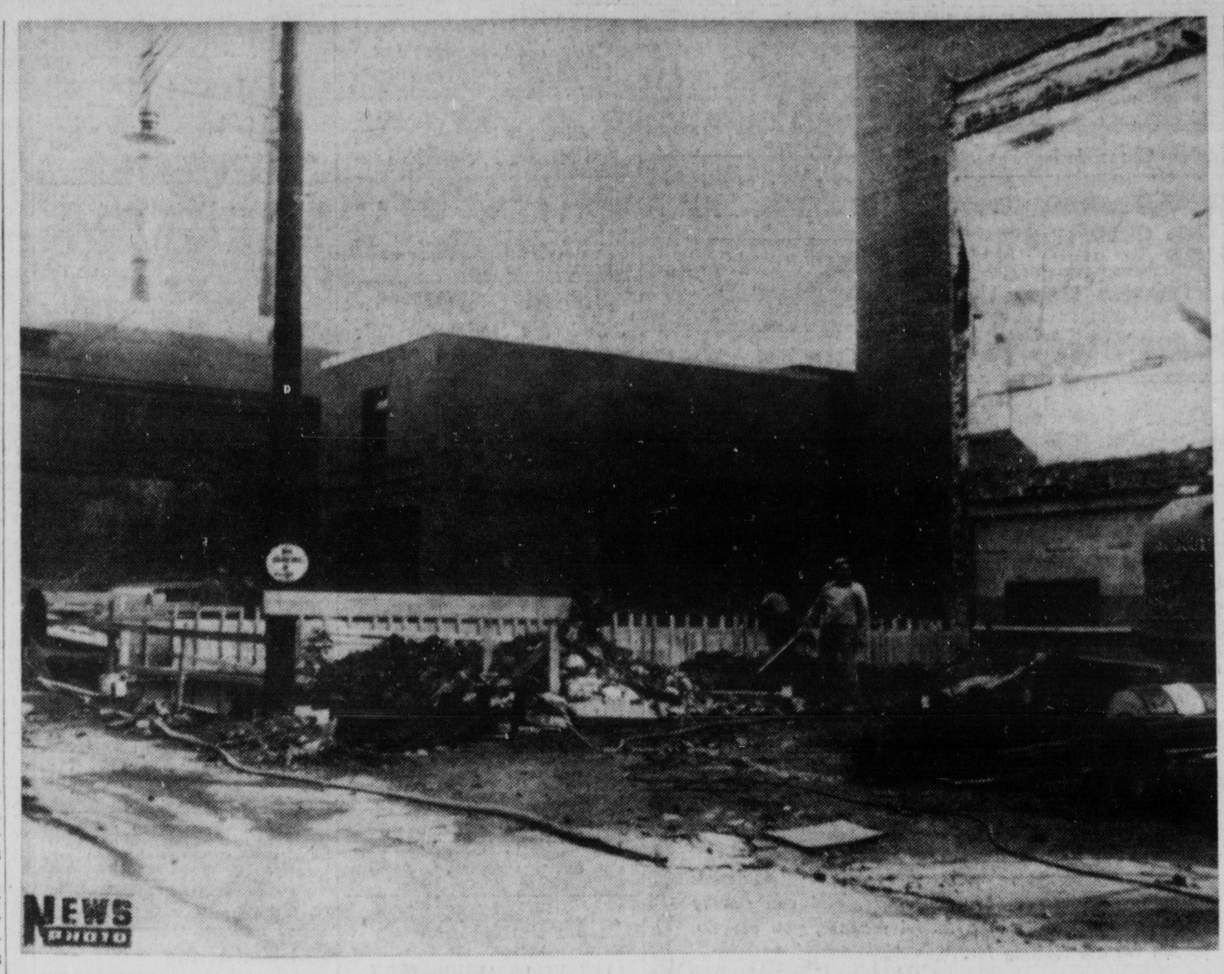

Mr. Huffman is scheduling a number of talks before Frostburg service clubs as part of the commission's information program.

During the session, Mayor Chaney commended the commission for its work and said he has received many favorable comments on the commission's proposals.

Solutions of the area's water and sewage problems, Mr. Douglas said, is a step toward the prime goal—to prepare the Potomac River Valley for the expansion of industry.

Meeting Cancelled

Telephone Project Begins Here

Good progress is being made, as can be seen here, on the foundations of the building which will house expansions of the dial system here. Crews recently completed the demolition of the original central office building which once housed the old manual telephone exchange. The picture, taken from Dexter Place, shows the location of the addition. Total cost of the addition and its dial equipment will be $618,000. Completion of the expanded facilities is scheduled for next summer.

See Elected New Chairman Of Delegation

Hearings Planned In Early December

Senator Charles M. See last night was elected unanimously as chairman of the Allegany County Delegation for the 1963 session of the General Assembly in Annapolis.

Senator-elect George R. Hughes Jr. and the six fellow Republicans who will represent Allegany County in the House of Delegates attended the meeting.

Senator See and Senator-elect Hughes announced after the meeting that there will be three or four meetings in early December at which matters of public interest will be heard by the delegation.

The meetings will be held on Monday and Friday evenings beginning December 3. The meetings will be held through Friday, December 14, and will be concluded on that date so that any requested legislation can be drafted for introduction at the beginning of the 1963 session.

Persons or groups wishing to appear before the delegation should contact Senator See or Mr. Hughes advising them of the subject matter to be presented and the approximate time needed for the presentation.

The county legislators stressed that a spokesman should be designated for each group to appear before them. Each person or group wishing to appear before the delegation is requested to present at least two written summaries of the subject matter so the delegation will have a record to which to refer and to take to Annapolis.

Requests for appointments should be made on or before December 1. After requests have been received, a schedule of meetings will be established and interested groups will be notified. A schedule of the legislative meetings will be submitted for publication in the newspapers.

Senator See was chairman of the delegation before he was appointed to the Senate in 1955. Delegate Fred B. Driscoll had been chairman since then until his death in July.

New Christmas Decorations Are Going Up

The installation of new Christmas street decorations, sponsored by the Downtown Cumberland Business Association, began yesterday after a big shopping night.

Crews of the Potomac Valley Television Company began placing the decorations on light poles on Baltimore Street as shoppers began to leave the area.

Red, pink and white poinsettias will go in the metal baskets on the poles, replacing the chrysanthemums which have been in place for some time.

Arthur Friendland, association chairman, said the Christmas decorations will be lighted Friday night.

Things were busy yesterday afternoon in the downtown section, and streets were crowded by 6 p. m. and remained that way until stores closed.

Two With Lonaconing Kin Killed In Plane Crash

A son-in-law and grandson of a former Lonaconing resident, were killed yesterday in a plane crash at Washington, Pa., county airport.

The victims, Norman B. Hardy Jr., 35, a Mt. Lebanon, Pa., lumber company executive, and his son, Norman B. Hardy III, aged 11, were the son-in-law and grandson of Mrs. Ida Swanson, a former math teacher at Old Central High School in Lonaconing.

George and John Eichhorn of Lonaconing, are cousins of Mrs. Swanson.

C. R. Breese, airport manager, said Mr. Harvey and his son had been on a pleasure flight despite a heavily overcast sky and mixed snow and rain. He said they had tried to land about ten minutes after take-off and that ceiling and visibility were so poor that the pilot apparently could not see the runway.

The plane, a single-engine four-seater Mooney, crashed in an open field about 400 yards before it reached the runway. It turned over, hit a power service line and caught fire. The two passengers were killed instantly.

Mr. Harvey is survived by his wife, Audrey Helene (Swanson) Hardy, and two daughters, Lisa, 8, and Amy Sue, one month old. He is also survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Hardy Sr., Upper St. Clair Township, Pa., and two brothers.

B&O Crossings Blocked By Freight

City police said motorists were held up at crossings from Bedford to Harrison streets. The trouble on the freight train developed about 4:15 p. m. and the crossings were opened to traffic about 5 p. m.

B&O Forecasts Small Profit For This Year

BALTIMORE (AP) — Stockholders in the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad were told Monday the company should make a small profit this year in contrast to a deficit of $31 million in 1961.

Jervis Langdon Jr., president, informed about 50 stockholders attending the 136th annual meeting, that the railroad had a profit of $299,081 for the first 10 months of this year. Its loss through October last year amounted to $24 million.

Net income of $1.5 million last month put the B&O in the black, Langdon said, and he reported freight business so far this month indicated another profit.

Langdon said the B&O is planning to speed up traffic by joint use of one yard with the Western Maryland Railway in Cumberland and with the Chesapeake & Ohio at Toledo and Cincinnati.

The B&O is the largest single stockholder in Western Maryland while approval of control of the B&O by the C&O is pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Franklin Man Hit By Car Dies At VA Center

A 45-year-old Franklin, W. Va. man died early yesterday morning in Newton D. Baker VA Center, Martinsburg, from injuries sustained when he was hit by a car about midnight Saturday north of Franklin on U. S. Route 220, police said.

The victim was identified as James Arthur Willis, who was given first aid at the scene of the accident by a Franklin physician and later taken to the Rockingham Memorial Hospital in Harrisonburg, Va. and the VA Center.

Trooper R. L. Midkiff and Pendleton County Sheriff Estyl Shreve investigated the accident.

They said the victim was on his way home from Summit Point, W. Va. with a friend, John Wright, also of Franklin. The two men had been working at an orchard at Summit Point.

En route to Franklin the Willis car developed ignition trouble and the car had to be pulled to the side of the highway.

Willis got out of the car and was in the process of flagging down a car driven in the same direction by Bruce Moyers, of Franklin, when his car was sideswiped by Moyers and he was struck and knocked to the ground.

Authorities said Moyers was charged with negligent homicide and another motor vehicle violation. He was freed on bond, they said.

This is the second fatal accident in Pendleton County this year. In August Lynn P. Lambert was killed in a one-car accident about two and a half miles from the second fatal accident.

A native of Harrisonburg, Va., Mr. Willis was a son of the late Willie and Maggie (Clifford) Willis and was a veteran of World War II.

He is survived by a brother, Theodore Willis, Franklin; three sisters, Mrs. Armeda Fisher, Franklin; Mrs. Lucille Bectwithe, Cleveland, Ohio, and Mrs. Edith Morgan, Martinsburg.

A funeral service will be conducted on Thursday at 2:30 p.m. at the Entry Mountain AME Church in charge of Rev. S. C. Love. Interment will be in the Willis Cemetery near Franklin.

NLRB Examiner Holds Hearing For ABL Men

August A. Denhard Jr., a field examiner for the National Labor Relations Board, yesterday presided at a hearing in the Allegany County Court House in conjunction with a petition by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers to represent 76 instrument technicians at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

The Hercules Powder Company, which operates ABL for the Navy at Rocket Center, W. Va., has opposed the petition.

The company according to testimony, feels the 76 technicians are "semi-professional" employes and not craftsmen which the union represents.

The Chemical Workers Union, which also represents a large number of ABL workers, has announced that it will seek to have its name entered on the ballot if an election is held among the 76 workers to determine union representation.

One person who testified yesterday afternoon said the instrument technicians work in the design, construction, fabrication and maintenance of the instruments.

The company yesterday morning attempted to present a definition of "semi-professional" in comparison to "craftsman."

The regional director of NLRB will decide on the outcome of yesterday's hearing, said Mr. Denhard.

Allegany Band Arranges Colorful Football Show

The Allegany High School band, directed by S. Lua Syckes, has made elaborate plans for its Thanksgiving day performance in conjunction with the annual Allegany-Fort Hill football game.

Included in the band are 80 players, 10 majorettes and four in the color guard. Betsy Ebert, a junior, is the drum majorette and Suzie Samples, also a junior, is the head majorette. Robert Laird, a senior, is the band captain.

Pregame and halftime arrangements are included in the Alco band's plans. The band will enter from the south end of the field before the game and do a precision marching drill while playing "Bill Bailey March."

Then the band will form an "F" and play the Fort Hill school song, then an "A" and play the Allegany school song.

Also included in the pregame activities are a precision drill involving the color guard while the band plays "Yankee Doodle" and "America."

After playing the National Anthem, the band will form two lines at the south end of the field as a lane for the football players entering the field.

A show will be presented at midfield entitled "Cavalcade of Sports."

First the band will form a baseball and bat. The ball will move toward the bat and as it is hit the band will play the "Game of the Week March." Then the band will form a race track and as the sousaphone players race around the track appropriate racing music will be played.

Football goal posts and a football will be formed and the ball is kicked over the goal posts while the band plays "After The Ball Is Over." Next the Allegany band will form a stick figure of a basketball player. His arm moves up and down and a ball in his arm bounces while the band plays "Flying Trapeze." A razor will be formed and it opens and closes while the band plays "To Look Sharp March."

The band will end the halftime with a precision marching drill to the tune of "Stars And Stripes Forever."

Moose Dance Set

Rawlings Driver Is Convicted Of Drunk Driving

A Rawlings man was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction on a second offense of driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs and was also given 60 days in County Jail in default of $200 fines on two other motor charges yesterday in Magistrates Court. The sentences are to be served concurrently.

James W. Dawson was given two 30-day sentences in County Jail on charges of giving false information and presenting a fictious license, and operating a motor vehicle while his license was revoked, by Magistrate Paul W. Barnett.

Dawson was arrested early Sunday morning on U. S. Route 220, south of Rawlings, by State Police TFC Ronald Lewis.

Library Will Close Thursday

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian at the Allegany County Public Library yesterday announced the Thanksgiving holiday schedule for the main library and its branches.

She said the library and branches will be closed Thursday. The branches at Frostburg and LaVale will close at 5 p.m. tomorrow; Westernport's branch will be open as usual tomorrow evening; and Pennsylvania Avenue School's branch will be open tomorrow from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

E. N. Simons, left, president of Potomac Lodge 775, Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, presents gifts to R. T. Shaffer, James E. Lambert and John Sandells, members of the lodge who are retiring from the Western Maryland Railway. Mr. Shaffer and Mr. Sandells each spent 38 years with the railway, and Mr. Lambert worked there for 30 years.

Local Hi-Y Cleans Room In Lieu Of Initiation

A group of the students who would have undergone the initiatory work by their fellow students busied themselves Saturday and cleaned out an area under seats of an elevated classroom where chemistry is taught.

The came up with some mementoes of yesteryear, according to Eugene C. Harris, chemistry teacher, who said some of the accumulated items went back about 40 years in the school's history.

Reminders of classes which graduated down through the years were uncovered by the students and dusted off. A series of poems had been composed by the Class of 1931.

The students did an excellent job of eliminating a fire hazard, said Mr. Harris. They worked until about 3 p.m. Saturday.

President of the Hi-Y is John Moffatt and the advisor is William Faherty.

The victims, Norman B. Hardy Jr., 35, a Mt. Lebanon, Pa., lumber company executive, and his son, Norman B. Hardy III, aged 11, were the son-in-law and grandson of Mrs. Ida Swanson, a former math teacher at Old Central High School in Lonaconing.

George and John Eichhorn of Lonaconing, are cousins of Mrs. Swanson.

C. R. Breese, airport manager, said Mr. Harvey and his son had been on a pleasure flight despite a heavily overcast sky and mixed snow and rain. He said they had tried to land about ten minutes after take-off and that ceiling and visibility were so poor that the pilot apparently could not see the runway.

The plane, a single-engine four-seater Mooney, crashed in an open field about 400 yards before it reached the runway. It turned over, hit a power service line and caught fire. The two passengers were killed instantly.

Mr. Harvey is survived by his wife, Audrey Helene (Swanson) Hardy, and two daughters, Lisa, 8, and Amy Sue, one month old. He is also survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Hardy Sr., Upper St. Clair Township, Pa., and two brothers.

B&O Crossings Blocked By Freight

The B&O crossings in downtown Cumberland were blocked about 45 minutes yesterday when an eastbound freight train developed a broken knuckle on a coupling.

City police said motorists were held up at crossings from Bedford to Harrison streets. The trouble on the freight train developed about 4:15 p. m. and the crossings were opened to traffic about 5 p. m.

Franklin Man Hit By Car Dies At VA Center

A 45-year-old Franklin, W. Va. man died early yesterday morning in Newton D. Baker VA Center, Martinsburg, from injuries sustained when he was hit by a car about midnight Saturday north of Franklin on U. S. Route 220, police said.

The victim was identified as James Arthur Willis, who was given first aid at the scene of the accident by a Franklin physician and later taken to the Rockingham Memorial Hospital in Harrisonburg, Va. and the VA Center.

Trooper R. L. Midkiff and Pendleton County Sheriff Estyl Shreve investigated the accident.

They said the victim was on his way home from Summit Point, W. Va. with a friend, John Wright, also of Franklin. The two men had been working at an orchard at Summit Point.

En route to Franklin the Willis car developed ignition trouble and the car had to be pulled to the side of the highway.

Willis got out of the car and was in the process of flagging down a car driven in the same direction by Bruce Moyers, of Franklin, when his car was sideswiped by Moyers and he was struck and knocked to the ground.

Authorities said Moyers was charged with negligent homicide and another motor vehicle violation. He was freed on bond, they said.

This is the second fatal accident in Pendleton County this year. In August Lynn P. Lambert was killed in a one-car accident about two and a half miles from the second fatal accident.

A native of Harrisonburg, Va., Mr. Willis was a son of the late Willie and Maggie (Clifford) Willis and was a veteran of World War II.

He is survived by a brother, Theodore Willis, Franklin; three sisters, Mrs. Armeda Fisher, Franklin; Mrs. Lucille Bectwithe, Cleveland, Ohio, and Mrs. Edith Morgan, Martinsburg.

A funeral service will be conducted on Thursday at 2:30 p.m. at the Entry Mountain AME Church in charge of Rev. S. C. Love. Interment will be in the Willis Cemetery near Franklin.

B&O Forecasts Small Profit For This Year

BALTIMORE (AP) — Stockholders in the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad were told Monday the company should make a small profit this year in contrast to a deficit of $31 million in 1961.

Jervis Langdon Jr., president, informed about 50 stockholders attending the 136th annual meeting, that the railroad had a profit of $299,081 for the first 10 months of this year. Its loss through October last year amounted to $24 million.

Net income of $1.5 million last month put the B&O in the black, Langdon said, and he reported freight business so far this month indicated another profit.

Langdon said the B&O is planning to speed up traffic by joint use of one yard with the Western Maryland Railway in Cumberland and with the Chesapeake & Ohio at Toledo and Cincinnati.

The B&O is the largest single stockholder in Western Maryland while approval of control of the B&O by the C&O is pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

NLRB Examiner Holds Hearing For ABL Men

August A. Denhard Jr., a field examiner for the National Labor Relations Board, yesterday presided at a hearing in the Allegany County Court House in conjunction with a petition by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers to represent 76 instrument technicians at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

The Hercules Powder Company, which operates ABL for the Navy at Rocket Center, W. Va., has opposed the petition.

The company according to testimony, feels the 76 technicians are "semi-professional" employes and not craftsmen which the union represents.

The Chemical Workers Union, which also represents a large number of ABL workers, has announced that it will seek to have its name entered on the ballot if an election is held among the 76 workers to determine union representation.

One person who testified yesterday afternoon said the instrument technicians work in the design, construction, fabrication and maintenance of the instruments.

The company yesterday morning attempted to present a definition of "semi-professional" in comparison to "craftsman."

The regional director of NLRB will decide on the outcome of yesterday's hearing, said Mr. Denhard.

Rawlings Driver Is Convicted Of Drunk Driving

A Rawlings man was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction on a second offense of driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs and was also given 60 days in County Jail in default of $200 fines on two other motor charges yesterday in Magistrates Court. The sentences are to be served concurrently.

James W. Dawson was given two 30-day sentences in County Jail on charges of giving false information and presenting a fictious license, and operating a motor vehicle while his license was revoked, by Magistrate Paul W. Barnett.

Dawson was arrested early Sunday morning on U. S. Route 220, south of Rawlings, by State Police TFC Ronald Lewis.

Local Hi-Y Cleans Room In Lieu Of Initiation

The Hi-Y at Allegany High School dispensed with its regular initiation this year in favor of doing "something good" for the school.

A group of the students who would have undergone the initiatory work by their fellow students busied themselves Saturday and cleaned out an area under seats of an elevated classroom where chemistry is taught.

The came up with some mementoes of yesteryear, according to Eugene C. Harris, chemistry teacher, who said some of the accumulated items went back about 40 years in the school's history.

Reminders of classes which graduated down through the years were uncovered by the students and dusted off. A series of poems had been composed by the Class of 1931.

Much of the equipment was salvageable including some pneumatic troughs, ring stands, glass tubing and bottles.

President of the Hi-Y is John Moffatt and the advisor is William Faherty.

SCS Publication Features County's Outstanding Farmer

This month's issue of "On The Level," a paper published quarterly by the State Soil Conservation Committee, and distributed in all 23 counties, contains an article by Martin M. Gordon, local work unit conservationist.

The article concerns the selection of Marshall R. Porter, Eckhart, as outstanding conservation farmer in Allegany County for this year, and explains the reasons for the selection.

Next month, Mr. Porter and Wilbert Paul, chairman of Allegany Soil Conservation District, Board of Supervisors will be guests of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company at the company farm at Litchfield Park, Ariz. The rubber firm sponsored the contest in which Mr. Porter was named conservation farmer of the year.
